WOMAN BANK TELLER HELD UP

Today

She Kept Her Milk.
Best Stories, Not True.
A Rockefeller Recipe.
Depression Spider.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

THE NEWS runs along as follows:

The United States tells France we cannot discuss payments due December 15 and we expect to be paid. France will pay "with reservations."

Poland tells Uncle Sam that insistence on payment of Poland's debt may cause a crash. Uncle Sam, who has often heard that, is reminded of the mother who was repeatedly told by her daughter, nursing a young baby:

"Mother, if you make me do that, I shall lose my milk."

The mother, frightened at first, finally said:

"Well, LOSE your milk."

The daughter did not lose it, and European nations will not crash if they repay the money borrowed for war.

THE MOST interesting stories are not true. William Tell never shot the apple from his son's head. The she wolf did not nurse Romulus and Remus. George Washington cut down no cherry tree, therefore never told the truth about it. Now Prof. Tyler, teaching history at the University of Kansas, says Pocahontas never saved the life of Capt. Smith.

Smith was not lying with his head on a stone, waiting for an Indian's club to dash his brains out at the order of Chief Powhatan. Pocahontas did not rush up and put her head on top of Capt. Smith's head to protect him. The thing just didn't happen. Capt. Smith invented it.

None the less, all these narratives, like Santa Claus, stimulate youthful imagination and cause brave deeds in others. Better imaginary heroism than none.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, Jr., tells seven hundred business men, collecting for the unemployed, how to ask for money. Somebody seems to have asked him successfully, for he gave to the unemployment fund this year $1,050,000. Here is part of Mr. Rockefeller's prescription for asking money in a good cause:

"State your case accurately without too many words.
"Explain the purpose clearly.
"Tell what others have given.
"Tell the person you interview politely, clearly, what you expect HIM to give."

MR. ROCKEFELLER says he has found "that technique" useful both in giving and asking.

Mr. Rockefeller is, himself, an earnest solicitor. He called this writer once on the long distance telephone, requesting funds for an admirable enterprise at Johns Hopkins University, and paid for the long distance call.

He left the writer feeling as proud as the Pullman car porter asked to change a twenty-dollar bill, who said:

"I haven't got the change, boss, but I thank you for the compliment."

A SPIDER, working hard at Akron, O., should be used in schools of journalism as text for solemn editorials.

Imprisoned in the face of an alarm clock, the spider ceaselessly spins a web between the hands of the clock. The hands separate and tear the web to pieces. The spider spins again, feeling sure that sooner or later those hands must get tired.

As it spins the spider breaks down and absorbs tissues of its own body, having nothing to eat. It is getting weak, will soon die.

Let us hope the depression spider that for three years has been spinning its web and holding back the hands of American industry will, also, soon die.

HARVARD ASTRONOMICAL Observatory made spectographs, first ever made, of the Leonid meteors that fell last month. They contain calcium, essential element in building human bone, and iron, essential to blood as calcium is to bone.

Without iron your blood could not carry from your lungs to the trillions of cells that make up your body the oxygen and electricity that they must have.

THESE METEORS, carrying life's necessities, probably also brought here life itself, the first that this planet ever knew, depositing life germs in the ocean, whence they spread to land and air, as climatic and atmospheric conditions permitted, finally producing "proud man."

COPPER IS produced rolled as thin as ordinary paper, costing so little at today's copper prices that gigantic quantities of it should be used. It will keep out moisture, rats and other vermin, and will be used to a great extent in building, when building is resumed.

When L. J. Horowitz, with Schultze and Weaver for architects, built the new Waldorf Astoria Hotel in New York City, under every floor, of fireproof concrete, he put a layer of copper, to make leakage impossible.

The new "copper paper," that can do that, using one-tenth the amount of copper, should figure hereafter in every well-constructed building.

THIS INVENTION, which should stimulate the use of copper, comes opportunely, when copper men face "an unlimited output," with prices lower than ever dreamed of.

Mark Hanna's Kin in Reno For Divorce

CHARLOTTE HANNA HUME . . . . SHE'S CHARGING CRUELTY

Mrs. Hume, young Washington (D. C.) beauty whose suit for divorce from Richard Hume has been filed at Reno. He was her "marvelous man" at the time of their marriage just five years ago, but she's charging cruelty. She's the daughter of Dan, the granddaughter of Mark Hanna.

FIRST SNOW JAMS TRAFFIC

BANDITS ROB WOMAN IN BANK

Ransack Cage, Vault At Pleasant Unity, Flee in Auto

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 10.—Three shabbily dressed bank bandits chatted for 10 minutes with Miss Louise Horne, teller of the Pleasant Unity National Bank, today as they gathered together $4,000 in gold, silver and currency and then fled as Cashier J. B. Walter entered.

The bank had been open about a half hour and Miss Horne was alone when the three men entered. Covering her with revolvers they stepped around the counter into the teller's cage, where one kept her covered with his revolver, while his companion ransacked the cage and vault.

CHAT WITH CASHIER

As they worked they kept up a conversation with Miss Horne. A hurried checkup after they left revealed they had taken $780 in gold, $750 in silver and the balance in currency of small nobinal denominations. As they completed their work Walters entered. They pushed him to one side and fled to their waiting coupe, parked in front of the bank.

Miss Horne told state police the men entered at 9:30 a. m. It was

Park Opens Ballot Quiz

Prosecutions in suspected ballot frauds at the November election loomed today as District Attorney Andrew T. Park asked that 12 ballot boxes be turned over to him for examination.

All of the boxes had been brought in for a recount and are now in possession of the Sheriff. Park asks that the boxes be turned over to him for scrutiny by County Detectives David Drexler and Peter Connors, who sat as observers during the recount.

The boxes sought by the prosecutor are: First District, Rankin; First District, First Ward, Carnegie; Third Ward, Stowe Township; Fourth Ward, Stowe Township; First and Third wards, Scott Township; First District, Sharpsburg; Second District, Sharpsburg; Seventh, Eighth, Ninth and Tenth districts, Twenty-third Ward.

First Assistant District Attorney George F. P. Langfitt said:

"We will examine the boxes, and if sufficient evidence is found we will file informations before an alderman with the object of bringing the cases before the grand jury in January. No grand jury investigation is necessary."

Park's petition sets forth that information has come to him from various sources that "there were sufficient irregularities in the conduct of the election and subsequent to the closing of the polls to warrant an investigation."

DOG FOILS KIDNAPING OF CHILD

Abduction Attempt Similar to Lindy Case Thwarted

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 10. (AP.)—To the barking of a German shepherd dog guarding a nursery door police today attributed the thwarting of a daring abduction apparently planned in the manner of the Lindbergh kidnaping.

The maid found metal screen 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs John R. C Master, socially prominent suburbanites, fled as a maid dashed to the nursery in response to the dog's barking.

The maid found a metal screen pried from the nursery window the window itself jimmied open and a ladder propped against the side of the house.

She heard the footsteps of somebody fleeing across the lawn, summoned the police, and today a hunt is on throughout the fashionable main line suburban section.

Mr. and Mrs. Master were absent from their home in suburban Wayne last night, playing bridge at the home of friends. The boy, John Master, was asleep in his second-floor nursery and the maid, Florence Lanwehr, was reading when she was aroused by the barking of the dog, which always sleeps at the nursery door.

The police found that the garage near the Master house had been rifled, that valuable china and paintings stored there had been damaged, and that a ladder had been taken from there to the side of the house and placed directly under the nursery window.

YULE-LIKE BLANKET OVER CITY

Autoists Skid, Walkers Fall While Happy Youngsters Play

The first real snow of the season brought joy and sorrow to Pittsburgh today. Traffic skidded over slippery hillside streets, to cause numerous tie-ups, even though no serious accidents were reported, and as the snow deepened long-unused sleds were brought into play by the youngsters.

At noon today about an inch of snow had fallen. Forecaster W. S. Brotzman said, blanketing the entire district. Several inches were expected by tomorrow.

With the mercury down to 21, snow began falling early today, and within a short time the ground was whitened for the first time this season. A continuation of the snow is predicted for this afternoon, tonight and tomorrow, with the temperature to remain about stationary.

At Brownsville avenue and Carson street skidding trucks and automobiles could not be halted by cinders placed by city employes, and at one time seven cars were jammed.

The snow fall gave a touch of Christmas to the Saturday shopping, even though pavements were slippery. Several falls were reported in the Downtown district.

Mrs. Carl Neinhoff, 35, of 1542 Orangewood avenue, Beechview, slipped and fell as she was alighting from a street car at Second avenue and Smithfield street. Said to have suffered severe injuries, she was taken to Mercy Hospital.

GIRL IDENTIFIES YACHT SUSPECT

LONG BEACH, Cal., Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Detectives announced today a new link had been forged in the chain of circumstantial evidence by which they hope to connect William James (Curley) Guy, 24-year-old Britisher, with the slaying of Capt. Walter Wanderwell.

In the presence of police, Miss Marion Smith, of Rockmart, Ga., positively identified Guy as "the mysterious stranger in gray," who had boarded the yacht Carma last Monday night and inquired for Wanderwell a few minutes before the body of Wanderwell was found in one of the darkened cabins of the ship. Miss Smith, facing Guy, declared.

"I'm positive—he's the man!"

She then collapsed.

MURDER COMPLAINT

Detectives said Miss Smith's identification led them today to seek a murder complaint from the District Attorney's office. Such a complaint was refused yesterday

Painter's Wife Balks At Photos in Nude

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Dec. 10. — Universal.) — Mrs. Gertrude Shinn, wife of Everett Shinn, nationally known artist, told a divorce referee she didn't object to posing in the nude for her husband's painting, even for two hours at a time in a room where the temperature hovered around a chilly 50.

But she did object, she said, when her husband tried to make her pose unclad for camera studies. She asked a divorce on the ground of cruelty.

Trotzky and Wife Sail to Island Home

BRINDISI, Italy, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Leon Trotzky, exiled Russian Mme. Trotzky, and their party today were on their way on the Italian steamer Adria to Istanbul.

They are returning to their home on an island in the Marmora Sea after a brief visit in Copenhagen.

DEATH TOTAL 23 IN MINE BLAST

HARLAN, Ky., Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Four more bodies were removed from the depths of the Zero mine at Yancey today, making 23 known dead in an explosion yesterday. Rescue crew leaders said they believed all the victims had been brought out.

Ten of the dead had been recovered by last midnight, and rescuers, with masks protecting them from carbon monoxide gas, continued their work. Investigation will continue today to determine the cause of the blast. There were 12 white and 11 Negroes in the entry at the time of the explosion.

All apparently died from the effects of the monoxide gas. J. S. Bryson, safety director of the Harlan Coal Operators' Association, said the explosion probably followed a "windy blast," mine parlance for a charge of explosive which backfires.

Mrs. Mooney Starts Home, Changes Mind

CHERBOURG, France, Dec. 10. —(AP.)—Mrs. Mary Mooney, who has been making a tour of Europe campaigning on behalf of her son, Tom Mooney, in jail in California, boarded the steamship Bremen yesterday for New York but suddenly changed her mind and returned to Cherbourg on the tender.

She said she had decided to make a trip to England before returning to America.

Guard Foils Looting of Bank

CLEVELAND, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—An attempt to loot the vaults of the Central United National Bank's West Twenty-fifth street branch was foiled early today when a watchman resisted two men carrying revolvers and who partly chloroformed him and then pushed him down an elevator shaft.

The watchman, Edward Clasen, 44, fell about 15 feet and suffered a broken wrist and possible several fractured ribs. Leaving him in the shaft, the robbers fled.

Young Menjou Freed In Killing of Girl

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 10.—(Universal.)—Harold L. Menjou won a legal battle for a recorded verdict of not guilty of second-degree murder when the Appellate Court yesterday directed the Superior Court clerk to enter an acquittal verdict in his case.

Menjou, adopted son of Adolphe Menjou, motion picture star, was tried in Superior Court on charges of drunk driving and murder growing out of the death of 16-year-old Marjorie Gauthier, who was thrown out of his car and killed.

COUNTY TAX CUT HOPES DIM

Unless the County Commissioners can make drastic reductions in the estimates for the 1933 budget which amounts to $20,151,714, it is unlikely that there can be effected a reduction in the present 8⅜ mills county tax, exclusive of the 3-mill poor tax.

A further decrease in the percentage of collections on the levy against the $2,000,000,000 county valuation looms as the main barrier to tax reduction. It is also pointed out that the amount of personal property assessed in the county this year had decreased $163,611,025 since 1931, and a further decrease can be expected in this type of taxation in 1933. The decrease lowered the personal property valuation to $488,304,000.

DIFFICULT TASK

The Commissioners will start their budget sessions soon after the first of the year. They are facing a gigantic task, inasmuch as nearly half of the estimates for next year, or $9,258,094, will

350 More Miners Join Ohio Strike

ATHENS, O., Dec. 10.—(INS.)—Momentum of a new coal strike in the Hocking Valley increased today when 350 men walked out of the Ohio No. 1 mine at Jacksonville in "sympathy" with a strike of 300 workers at the Hocking mine of the Hocking Mining Company.

The Ohio No. 1 mine is owned and operated by the Ohio Mining Company.

Booth, Volunteers' Leader, Near Death

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Charles Brandon Booth, national extension secretary of the Volunteers of America, is critically ill following upon a thyroid gland operation two weeks ago, it was learned today. He has been unconscious for two days.

Booth is the only son of Gen. and Mrs. Ballington Booth.

'MYSTERY GIRL' STRICKEN

A brunette was unconscious in Allegheny General Hospital today, her illness and identity a mystery.

She collapsed shortly after midnight in the Sweetland Candy Company, 609 East Ohio street, while sipping a cup of hot chocolate.

Police, who removed her to the hospital, said she was modestly dressed in a blue polka dot dress, with brown hat and shoes. She wore a wedding ring and a necklace. She was aged about 32, they said. There were no marks in her clothing to aid in identification.

Attendants at the candy shop were unable to aid in her identification. They said the woman entered the shop shortly after midnight, ordered a beverage and collapsed while drinking it.

Arrest 2 in Attack On 'Gas' Stand Man

Alleged to have beaten Clair Benton, attendant at the Stockton Service Station, 18 West Stockton avenue, G. H. Ober, 45, of 1223 Reddour street, and H. H. Reitzel, 44, of 1908 East street, were lodged in North Side Police Station early today on suspicious person charges. Benton was treated in Allegheny General Hospital for a laceration to his head. He was unable to tell police a motive for the attack.

President Offers Newton Judgeship

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—President Hoover has offered to Walter H. Newton, one of his secretaries, an appointment as a federal circuit judge in the Eighth Circuit, of which Minnesota, Newton's home state, is a part.

Whether the White House secretary will accept the nomination, and his name be sent to the Senate, has not been determined.

Rain Steady At Scene of Grid Classic

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 10. —(INS.)—Before 100,000 spectators, the largest football crowd in the nation this year, the mighty gridiron elevens of Notre Dame and Southern California were to come to grips today.

The weather was uncertain. Rain fell steadily all night.

Pre-game betting sentiment favored the Irish at odds of 10 to 6, but these shortened as starting time approached.

To judge from coaching predictions, however, both teams will lose. "Hunk" Anderson, of the Irish, openly forecast a Trojan victory by two touchdowns, while dour Howard Jones, of U. S. C., could see nothing ahead for his undefeated eleven save disaster.

The Irish squad arrived last night from Tucson, Ariz., where Anderson drilled his "cripples" in secret practice for two days.

BOY KEEPS GUN WOUND SECRET

CUMBERLAND, Md., Dec. 10.—(AP.)—The Spartan youths of ancient Greece had nothing on 9-year-old John Fletcher, who carried a bullet embedded in his chest near his heart for three days before telling his mother.

The defense of a rat led to his wound as he stepped in front of the .32-caliber revolver of his 13-year-old brother, Marshall, when the latter attempted to shoot the rodent Wednesday at the Fletcher farm, on Polish Mountain, 13 miles east of here.

John stood the burning pain in his chest until last night when his brothers finally broke their silence and notified their mother. She asked assistance of Allegany County officials who brought the boy to Memorial Hospital here.

The bullet was removed. Although the boy's condition was considered serious, hospital physicians said they believe he will recover.

Einstein Urges Consuls 'Use Pins on Victims'

BERLIN, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Prof. Albert Einstein was in high good humor when he started today on his journey to California for new research work.

He recalled the "embarrassing" questions put to him at the American consulate Monday before he was granted permission to enter the United States, puffed his favorite pipe, and joked about his unexpected summons to the consulate to state his views on communism, anarchy and pacifism, which, at the time, made him angry.

He said today:

"The trouble with hearings of that kind is that you don't realize until some time has passed just where the inquisitor is trying to get under you skin. I suggest in the futur consuls put pins in their victims' chair so they will feel stuck from the beginning."

Humane Agents 'Rescue' Spider Battling Clock

AKRON, O., Dec. 10.—(INS.)—Humane society workers today came to the rescue of a black spider that has been waging a futile battle to "stop time" in its glass-inclosed prison of a family alarm clock.

Ending the third week of its desperate struggle against the machine age by attempting to bind together the hands of the clock with its silken web, the spider was to be taken to the biology labratory at Akron University for one more week in the interests of science.

Then the insect will be liberated from its "cell" beneath the clock crystal, according to G. W. Dilley, Humane Society agent.

Dilley said he had sought the advice of Dr. Walter C. Kraatz, of the University Biology Department, on what constituted cruelty to spiders. He related:

"Dr. Kraatz said that if the spider was let out, it would probably die as most of them do in the winter. But it's not fair that it should die there."

LANG SWINGS AX ON 230 JOBS, CUTTING BUDGET $830,000

CLARK WARNED TO SLASH PAYROLL

Council Hints Method Found to 'Fix' $2,000,000 Deficit

A total of approximately 230 jobs has been cut out of the budget of Mayor Charles H. Kline by the reductions in the Department of Public Works made by Director Edward G. Lang.

The cuts volunteered by Director Lang total $830,000 and reduce the Public Works budget to approximately $4,500,000.

In marked contrast is the Department of Public Safety. Director James M. Clark telling city Council, just before they adjourned yesterday, that he has nothing further to offer Council but information. Clark had previously cut out $140,377.

HERRON WARNS CLARK

President of Council John S. Herron warned Clark that Council will have to act. He said:

"We still have until next Wednesday. When it comes to the salary bill, we will have to use our own judgment unless you give us some real help."

Council is pledged not to act on the millage before it receives the report of the special citizens' committee headed by W. P. Witherow.

Much depends on the method of handling the present city deficit of approximately $2,000,000. There have been hints in Council that some way has been devised to finance the deficit caused by delinquent tax collections and take it out of the 1933 budget.

LANG ECONOMIES

Director Lang's budget-cutting has thus far been the chief factor in the reduction made.

In the Bureau of Water, 21 assistant engineers were eliminated, as well as 12 additional jobs. Five positions were taken out of the Bureau of Recreation. There were 93 jobs cut out of the Bureau of Engineering, some of them part time.

Among 55 park employes to go, was an animal-keeper and watchman at Highland Park Zoo, florists, laborers, and the foreman of the Schenley Park bowling green. The Peralto street bathhouse has been ordered closed.

In the Bureau of City Property, eight cleaners and two laborers are eliminated in the City-County Building. Three jobs in the North Side market and the position of wharfmaster have been taken out of the budget.

POLITICS CHARGE

Charges hurled by Councilman Robert Garland that the ward chairmen have named employes on the Mt. Washington roadway extension job, designed to relieve unemployment, remained unanswered in City Council. Investigation showed that 16 per cent of the men employed on the job were at one time employed by the Allegheny County Emergency Association.

The job was financed with regular city bond funds voted by the people, and not with the special $2,000,000 employment bond issue as was at first reported.

Representatives from a number of civic organizations yesterday appeared in Council to ask that recreation, health, library and welfare activities be kept at the highest standard possible. Several members of the delegation also asked for lower taxes.

200 Carrier Boys Guests at Theater

Two hundred carrier boys of the Sun-Telegraph home delivery organization were guests of the management at the Davis Theater this morning, enjoying the double feature program now offered at this theater. In "Once In A Lifetime" they met popular screen favorites in Jack Oakie, Zasu Pitts, Arline McMahon, Louise Fazenda and Sydney Fox, and in the co-feature—"Scarlet Dawn"—they saw Nancy Carroll and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. This now regular double program is rounded out with comedies and newsreels. The carrier boys were given a corking good time in recognition of perfect delivery service they had made on their routes.

Economy Measure Passed in Dormont

If Dormont borough needs 10 cents' worth of stamps between now and the first of the year the borough secretary will have to spend 10 cents to telephone two councilmen for permission to buy them.

That was Council President Dan Doughtery's explanation of an economy motion passed at last night's meeting of Council requesting Secretary Harold L. Cloud to obtain permission of two councilmen before making a purchase of any sort before January 1.

be needed for the redemption of, and interest on, bonds issued during the former administration for the $40,000,000 improvement program.

Budget estimates and comparisons show a decrease of $1,859,000 in salaries, according to Nevin G. Woodside, deputy controller, who also pointed out that the appropriations for 1932 were approximately $1,000,000 less than in 1931. If the present economy program is continued there will be a decrease of $3,000,000 in expenditures in comparison with 1931.

COUNTY SURPLUS

It was also pointed out that the county has a surplus in every fund, except the debt fund, and it is expected that the end of the year will see the county with a net surplus in all funds, although the 1932 tax collections are $1,500,000 less than a year ago.

Estimates for next year's departmental operation show decreases in 28 departments amounting to approximately $966,550, while the increases in 21 departments total $518,000.

An increase of $65,000 is shown in the estimate for the Bureau of Elections. Director William T. Rees explains this is due to the possibility of voting machines being used in the next year. There is a total of $25,000 set aside for instruction of citizens and election board officials in use of the machines, and the remainder for hauling and custodian service.

School Directors Here for Convention

Six hundred school directors of Allegheny County were here today to attend the their forty-fourth annual convention in the Chamber of Commerce. They were to discuss school finance and larger units of educational administration.

The principal speaker was to be Dr. James N. Rule, state superintendent of public instruction. Others on the program are Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of Carnegie Institute of Technology, and Dr. Charles E. Dickey, county superintendent of schools.

Sokols Here Get $9,000 Yule 'Present'

Members of the Slovak Catholic Sokols in this district will receive a Christmas present of about $9,000 in the form of a refund from the national society for December, according to announcement yesterday. The total refund, because of the organization's strong financial condition, will be $30,000. About 30 per cent will come to this district officers said.

TEACHER SALARY CUTS OPPOSED

Terming the teacher's salary as the most important factor in strengthening schools, Dr. James N. Rule, superintendent of the State Department of Public Instruction, today told school directors of Allegheny County the elimination of a minimum wage must not be permitted at the next session of Legislature.

Predicting that between $52,000,000 to $53,000,000 will be necessary for the school districts of the state next year, Dr. Rule, speaking before the annual meeting of county directors in the Chamber of Commerce upheld the proposed change in the Edmonds act to distribute equitably the school funds. He declared the present basis on population should be changed to ability to pay taxes "in order that a minimum educational program may be guaranteed to every school district."

The small unit of school organization was condemned as wasteful. Alan Bright, of Emsworth, presided at the opening session. Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of Carnegie Institute of Technology, was to be the afternoon speaker. Election of officers was to be the principal organization business.

PROBERS MUST REVEAL COSTS

HARRISBURG, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—An accounting of expenditures must be made by the Senate utilities investigating committee in the Dauphin Court Tuesday.

A. Boyd Hamilton, secretary of the Senate, was subpenaed yesterday to produce the vouchers and other papers of the committee showing how much it has spent of its $100,000 appropriation and for what purpose.

The demand was made by Arthur Hull, Harrisburg attorney, who filed the petition for a temporary injunction for Ira Jewell Williams, Philadelphia attorney, and "other taxpayers."

Yesterday the committee filed an appeal with the State Supreme Court from the temporary order. It was automatically listed for argument in May and the committee, restrained by it from functioning, asked an immediate hearing. The Supreme Court refused this pending settlement of the Dauphin County case.

More Rehabilitation Pledges Made Here

The Pittsburgh district subcommittee of the National Committee on Industrial Rehabilitation yesterday announced additional pledges totaling $500,000. They include expenditures of $100,000 by the Allegheny Steel Company, $230,000 by the Independent Brewing Company, $70,000 by the Pittsburgh Brewing Company, and $20,000 by the Standard Stoker Company. The total pledged here to date is approximately $6,500,000.

BRITAIN SOON TO RATIFY PAYMENT

Commons Revolt Seen Over Clemency to Other Europeans

By HARRY K. REYNOLDS
International News Service.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—With war debt discussions virtually at a standstill until the cabinet meets, the government's decision to pay the December 15 installment to the United States will be ratified formally next week, officials said today.

The government was faced with a growing revolt in the House of Commons, where members of all parties brought strong pressure to bear for a full-dress debate of the entire debt question.

It was evident the government does not want the matter to come up for parliamentary debate until after December 15, but a strong move is afoot among "back benchers" to thresh out the issue on Tuesday.

On that day Winston Churchill expects to demand assurance from Prime Minister MacDonald that the government will not permit France and Italy to discriminate against Britain in favor of the United States in making debt payments.

French May Pay Up If Parley Is Promised

By FREDERICK K. ABBOTT.
International News Service.

PARIS, Dec. 10.—A resolution providing for payment of the December 15 war debt installment under certain conditions was adopted by two sub-committees of the Chamber of Deputies today.

While the actual test of the resolution was kept secret pending its passage by the full Finance and Foreign Affairs Committee of the Chamber, International News Service learned that it consented to payment "out of respect for existing treaties."

The resolution, however, insists that the United States accept the principle of an international conference for the purpose of revising the present scale of war debts before the payment is actually made.

MAROON COUPE

As the car sped away Cashier Walters noted that it carried a Pennsylvania license, but failed to obtain the number. He described it as a maroon coupe with yellow wire wheels.

From Miss Horne police obtained a description of two of the men. She said they were shabbily dressed and ranged in age from 25 to 30 years. Both were of slender build, one being very hollow cheeked. None of the trio wore an overcoat.

Motorman Robbed By Masked Pair

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Dec. 10.—Two masked bandits held up Win Hall, 61, motorman on a Steubenville, East Liverpool and Beaver Valley Traction Company car, in Wellsville, and robbed him of $20 early today. One of them struck him on the head with a weapon.

'ROXIE' JURORS ASK ADVICE

Twenty-four hours after they got the case of 23 defendants charged with liquor conspiracy in Federal Court, the jurors today asked Judge F. P. Schoonmaker for further instructions, and resumed their deliberations.

Meanwhile, Rocco DiPippa, alias Roxie Long, whose testimony was the highlight of the government's case, had not put in an appearance in court since Thursday. He and 20 others pleaded guilty to conspiracy charges. Government attorneys said they could explain DiPippa's absence. During the trial, defense counsel described him as "the Al Capone of Allegheny County."

Returning for more instructions, the jury asked the court to define the conspiracy law and asked if some of the defendants could be acquitted and others convicted. The jury got the case at 11:30 a. m. yesterday.

After the case went to the jury William Hoffman and Joe Aowoid, who had pleaded guilty in the alleged conspiracy, were arraigned before the United States Commissioner on subsequent liquor charges. Both were held for court and jailed in default of bonds.

Speeders Warned By Dormont Burgess

A warning to motorists and truck drivers who speed through the borough was sounded last night by Burgess Charles Chamberlin, of Dormont.

His action followed complaint of Councilman C. B. Phillis that speeding vehicles were endangering lives of pedestrians, especially in the vicinity of safety zones.

by Deputy Clarence Hunt, who said there was insufficient evidence to bring Guy to trial.

In explaining her identification, Miss Smith said she had two chances to observe the man who came aboard the Carma as the craft was on the eve of its departure on a contemplated world cruise. Miss Smith was one of the adventurers recruited by Wanderwell to make the voyage. She said:

"When the stranger came aboard the boat I saw him the first time as he halted momentarily at the doorway. He was going by on his way to the porthole, from where he inquired for Wanderwell. I had a good look at him at that time. A moment later I had another look at him when his face appeared at the porthole to the dining room. I am positive the man I saw is the man here."

Cuthbert Wills, chief engineer of the 110-foot yacht, also said he was certain Guy was the man who had visited the Carma Monday night. Three other members of the crew said they were "almost positive" Guy was the man they saw aboard the ship.

BURIAL AT SEA

While police were seeking further clues in the mysterious slaying of the adventurer, Mrs. Aloha Wanderwell, the widow, said plans were being made for burial of the body at sea. She said the services would be kept secret and held far out of sight of land.

Lord Edward Montagu, son of the Duke of Manchester, another of those who had signed on the crew of the Carma to make the adventurous voyage, was released by federal authorities yesterday when investigation disclosed he was legally in the United States.

Pittsburgh Held In Auto, Rum Case

HARRISBURG, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Frank W. Smith, 49, of Pittsburgh, was arrested last night by city police on charges of violating the liquor laws and the motor code, after his automobile hit a safety zone platform.

Officers reported finding three pints of whisky and a half-pint of beer in his car. Smith, slightly hurt, was treated at a hospital.

SENATE CHIEFS PLEDGE EARLY REPEAL VOTE

Robinson and Watson Favor Protection To Arid States

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—The Republican and Democratic leaders of the Senate today agreed to bring about a vote in the upper branch of Congress before March 4 on the issue of repealing prohibition.

With a vote thus assured in the Senate, Democratic leaders were facing the problem of securing another repeal vote in the House if the question is to be submitted to the states by the present session of Congress. They must overcome the position taken by Speaker Garner, who announced the House would not be given another vote on the issue since it rejected the Democratic platform pledge calling for outright repeal.

FEDERAL REGULATION

The vote in the Senate will come upon a resolution, proposing repeal but retaining in the federal government the power to regulate inter-state shipment of alcoholic beverages. Southern Democrats, as well as other recent converts to the repeal cause, have insisted upon this protection for dry states.

Senator Robinson (Dem.), of Arkansas, now minority leader but destined to be majority leader in the next Senate, said:

"I am in favor of a resolution proposing repeal but protecting dry states, being voted upon at the present session of Congress."

Senator Watson (Rep.), of Indiana, the present majority leader, said:

"There will be some action taken on the prohibition repeal issue by the Senate before March 4. Personally I favor the provisions protecting dry states and banning saloons."

WINE APPEAL HEARD

Meanwhile, the plea of wine growers for the right to sell the sparkling product along with beer was laid before the House Ways and Means Committee today.

Turning from modification of the Volstead Act to legalize beer after three days, the committee was anxious to learn whether wine could be legalized while the Eighteenth Amendment is in effect.

Spokesmen for wine growers in California, New York and Ohio argued their case and cited the benefits of legalized wine.

PRESBYTERIANS FIGHT REPEAL

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—The General Council of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A., today had made public communications urging President Hoover to oppose repeal of the Volstead act and asking President-elect Roosevelt whether he will guarantee there shall be no return of the saloon.

The actions of the council, made public by its secretary, Dr. Lewis Seymour Mudge, yesterday, were adopted at an executive session in Chicago, November 16, and public announcement withheld until the letters were transmitted to the President and President-elect.

Prayers Beat Repeal Bill, Mrs. Boole Says

BALTIMORE, Dec. 10.—(INS.)—Speaker Garner's prohibition repeal resolution was defeated by prayer, Mrs. Ella A. Boole, president of the W. C. T. U. told an audience here. She said:

"Unions of the W. C. T. U. throughout the country spent Monday in prayer."

Ohio Town Sets $150 Mercantile Fee

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Dec. 10.—City Council last night passed an ordinance requiring merchants to pay a license fee of $150. If they remain here longer than four months the license will be refunded. The step was taken to prevent an influx of itinerant vendors.

Monkey Sits in Draft To Make Men Healthy

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—A puzzled monkey, patiently "sitting in a draft," is giving scientists of the Carnegie Institution of Washington a new measuring stick for testing human health.

He is sitting in the "draft" not to see if he will catch cold, but to enable scientists to learn more about the human body's heat production, or basal metabolism, which is closely related to health.

The "draft" is a carefully-regulated current of air that flows slowly through a glass and wire cage. The monkey breathes some of the oxygen from this air and breathes out carbon dioxide which is added to the original air. Measuring these losses and gains of chemicals in the air shows the monkey's heat production.

Scientists expect thus to be able to learn more about human heat production, because for purposes of this test monkeys are more like men than any other animal.

Sunday Fishing Urged; Movies to Test Ban

A resolution asking repeal of the law against Sunday fishing in Pennsylvania was adopted unanimously by the Pittsburgh Chapter of the Izaak Walton League, meeting last night in Rehearsal Hall, Carnegie Institute. A copy will be sent to the State Board of Fish Commissioners in Harrisburg.

Members of the chapter pointed out that Pennsylvania and Kansas are the only states in the country prohibiting Sunday fishing. Opposition to the present law is strong in the eastern part of the state, it was said, since Sunday fishing is permitted on the New Jersey side of the Delaware River but is banned on the Pennsylvania side. Due to a technicality in the law Pennsylvanians cannot go into New Jersey on the Sabbath and fish on a non-resident permit.

C. W. Ward, president of the chapter, presided.

OIL CITY, Pa., Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Sunday movies will be introduced in Oil City tomorrow for the first time.

Managers of two theaters said today the move is being made to offset an operating loss and in response to pleas of patrons for entertainment. The theaters will not open until 8:30 p. m., they announced, so as not to conflict with church services.

A theater at Franklin, near here, has been operating Sundays for some time, getting a big Oil City trade.

MOTHER TELLS HOPES TO AVOID CHAIR, WAITS NEW BABY

LULLABY HIDES DEATH FEAR IN PEN CELL

'TheyCan't LetMeDie,' Woman Killer of Officer Cries

By JOHN K. AULL
International News Service.
(Copyright, 1932, by International News Service, Inc.)

STATE PENITENTIARY, COLUMBIA, S. C., Dec. 10.—A child's lullaby drifted up the dreary cell-lined corridor to meet us as our heels clumped hollowly on the concrete floor.

"By baby bunting, daddy's gone huntin'—"

It rose and fell, striking an incongruous note in this grim mass of stone and steel.

SEWS FOR 'HER'

We halted at a steel-barred door and the guard's key grated harshly. The narrow whitewashed cell was cheerless and sparsely furnished. A stoutish red-haired woman, young and comely, sat placidly sewing, humming a lullaby as her fingers moved swiftly over the garment—unmistakably an infant's wrapper.

"Don't you think it's cute. I know she'll like it."

This was Mrs. Beatrice Ferguson Snipes, 29-year-old wife of a convicted bootlegger, herself sentenced to die. Those fingers that sewed so deftly had pulled the trigger of a pistol that riddled the body of a rural policeman, and for this the State of South Carolina had declared her life forfeit—the first white woman in the history of the state to face execution in the electric chair.

In less than a month she will bear a child—in four months she must die.

DEATH CHAIR NEAR

Across the areaway another barred window gaped—in it the death chair.

But this woman doesn't believe she is to die. Death is remote; a new life is near. She said:

"I'm placing my trust in God and my lawyers."

There was no terror of that squat, oaken chair with dangling wires and gleaming electrodes a few cells away.

She talked of the things that had brought her here, but mostly she talked of her plans for her baby. She said:

"God knows I didn't mean to kill him (Harris, the policeman). He knocked down Clyde (her husband) and I thought he was going to shoot him. Then he hit me in the mouth — it loosened two of my teeth—and said 'I'll shoot you.' He pointed his gun at me and I grabbed. It went off and he fell.

"The gun, his gun, was in my hand. My mouth hurt. I pulled the trigger again. I was beside myself. I didn't know what I was doing."

This was what she told the jury of 12 men at York who decided the shooting of Elliott Harris, rural policeman who stopped the Snipes' automobile and attempted to arrest her husband for reckless driving, was first degree murder.

'CAN'T LET ME DIE'

Mrs. Snipes was speaking again—this time about the expected baby. She called the baby "her."

"You see, I already have a boy, five years old. I'm sure this one will be a girl.

"I don't believe they'll let me die—they can't."

A frantic note crept into her voice, the only time she neared a breakdown.

"It isn't right for them to take me away from my baby. She has some rights. I want her to grow up to be the right kind of girl. I want to take care of her. I don't want her to grow up in an orphanage like I did.

"I don't know what will become of my baby if——"

She left the rest unspoken, shuddering.

MARION CONELLY ABELL . . . HER MARRIAGE ANNULLED

Mrs. Abell, Cleveland beauty who in Domestic Relations Court had her marriage with William Graham Abell, her husband since March, annulled. Said her father, Gen. L. S. Conelly: "I agree that both should be spanked." Said her family: "He was just too nice to her." This is an International News Photograph Service picture.

WIFE SCHEMED MATE'S DEATH, SON CHARGES

Boy, Mother Indicted With 'Star Boarder' In Hammer Killing

Universal Service.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Dec. 10.—First degree murder indictments today faced Mrs. Anna Romaine Zabriskie, her 14-year-old son, and her "star boarder" in the murder of the woman's second husband, Abram Zabriskie, 58.

The indictments, returned last night, were based on statements made by the three prisoners, and particularly on the accusation levelled against his mother by Everett Romaine.

A few hours before the grand jury acted with a swiftness proverbial of "jersey justice" the lad faced his mother in the Hackensack prosecutor's office and exclaimed:

"Mother, you know you told me to get rid of him."

Mrs. Zabriskie shook her head and firmly maintained:

"I never told you to do it."

Zabriskie, Republican leader of Ramsay, N. J., was found with his head crushed by hammer blows, his body mangled by automobile wheels, on a road near his home. Prosecutor Losche said it is the police theory he was "taken for a ride" by Everett and the boarder, Peter Clapsmut, 28, a mechanic.

Losche added that a romance between Clapsmut and Mrs. Zabriskie is believed to have been the motive for the boarder's alleged participation in the crime. He declared Zabriskie was insured for $1,800 with double indemnity if death were accidental.

MRS. ROOSEVELT SAYS DRY ERA TESTS GIRLS

Modern Miss Must Learn Capacity for Gin, She Asserts

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt believes "conditions brought about by prohibition require more strength of character" in young girls than any conditions she remembered in her youth. In a radio address last night she said:

"The average girl of today faces the problem of learning very young how much she can drink of such things as whisky and gin and sticking to the proper quantity.

"In my youth all of us saw wine upon the table in our homes and many of us saw a good bit of excessive drinking, but very few girls, whether in high school or in private school or college, drank anything beyond a glass of wine at home, and it never would have occurred to the young man to carry a flask to an evening party.

"He carried it for traveling or on a hunting trip but not to social gatherings, for the host provided him with whatever might be necessary, and it did not brand a girl a prig or unsocial if she did not join in whatever conviviality was going on in the way of drinking."

Mrs. Roosevelt introduced the subject of prohibition in a discussion of conditions of the modern world which, she said, afford more opportunity for the young girl but also more temptation.

RUUD, HEATER MAKER, DIES

A pioneer manufacturer of water heaters, Edwin Ruud, 78, was dead today at his home, 204 South Graham street, after a long illness.

Mr. Ruud was president of the Ruud Manufacturing Company. He was born in Norway in 1854 and came to the United States in 1882, locating in Pittsburgh a short time later.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Minna Kaufmann Ruud; two sisters, Mrs. Petrina Granberg and Mrs. Emma Larsen, of Oslo, Norway, and a stepson, Attorney John Henry Sorg, of Pittsburgh.

WATER SUPPLY RETURN HAILED

The Long Run Road Elementary School and approximately 25 families of the Greenwood Terrace plan, Versailles Township, without water for three days, today welcomed the return of their supply.

Ten irate citizens yesterday stormed the office of Councilman A. J. Richards, head of the McKeesport Water Department, demanding officials rescind their shut-off order. The water was temporarily returned pending Monday's Council meeting.

Richards said he ordered the water turned off Tuesday on orders of the McKeesport treasurer, who declared payments of consumers in the terrace were more than a year in arrears. The approximate amount owed the city is $538.

W. H. Wilson, agent for the consumers, will be asked by Council for the full payment or a guarantee of the amount. On Thursday Wilson offered $150 as part payment but it was refused, Richards said.

Geneva President's Car Crashes; 4 Hurt

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Dec. 10.—Four Geneva College students were injured when the automobile in which they were riding, owned by Dr. M. M. Pearce, college president, failed to make a curve and crashed into a fence near Harmony.

Miss Margaret Bertram, 20, of Munhall, is in the Providence Hospital here with a fractured arm. Others injured were Margaret Pearce, daughter of President Pearce; Richard McKee, tackle on the college football squad and Arthur Webb, Beaver Falls.

Child Badly Burned When Dress Ignites

ALIQUIPPA, Pa., Dec. 10.—Olive Scott, 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Scott, New Sheffield, is in the Rochester Hospital in serious condition from burns suffered when her dress caught fire from an open fireplace.

Thieves Flout Law By Robbing Car Of Detective

Even city detectives are not immune from thieves these days.

One of three automobiles stripped by prowlers at Western avenue and Fontella street last night was owned by William T. McCready, ballistic expert of the city detective bureau.

While McCready attended a boxing match in the neighborhood, his car was jacked up and a front tire and wheel stolen.

A tire and wheel also were stolen from the car of M. Goldstein, of 1132 North St. Clair street, and a tire owned by E. C. Davis, of 217 Kennedy avenue, according to police.

Ohio Girl Killed In Highway Crash

DOVER, O., Dec. 10.—Miss Dorothy Blausenhauer, 18, of Mineral City, was killed and other occupants of an automobile, driven by Thomas Combs, 19, Canton, were injured last night when the car collided with a truck on the Mineral City road.

Miss Irene Markley, 16, and Donald Martin, 18, were brought to Union Hospital here. The party was en route to a basketball game at Strasburg.

Man Hangs Self; Illness Blamed

The body of Lawrence McWhinney, 30, of 48 Brown's place, was found hanging from a rafter in the basement of his home late yesterday, according to a Coroner's report. Ill health was ascribed as the cause.

SOCIETY WOMAN SHOT IN HOME

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(INS.)—Doctors today held hope for the recovery of Mrs. Dorothy Hatch, 30, pretty Chicago social registerite and wife of the head of a Wall Street banking house, who accidentally shot herself in the luxurious Hatch penthouse apartment on the upper east side.

Mrs. Hatch, formerly Dorothy Doane, police said, was examining a luger automatic pistol her husband, Azel, took from a prisoner in the World War. She asked:

"When are you going to get rid of this?"

As she spoke, the gun was discharged. She was taken to a hospital where her husband submitted to a blood transfusion, after which he was arrested for violation of the Sullivan law.

Hatch, an artillery captain in the war, was decorated for outstanding military service.

Pinchot Announces Christmas Holidays

HARRISBURG, Dec. 10.—(INS.)—Dates for the Christmas and New Year holidays for capitol employes were announced today by the Governor's office. The capitol will be closed from Friday, December 23, until Tuesday morning, December 27. Employes living more than 50 miles from Harrisburg may return to their desks at any time before noon on December 27.

Because the Legislature convenes January 2, the Governor desires each department to have a skeleton staff on duty January 2 in each bureau.

2 KILLERS DIE; ONE SPARED

OSSINING, N. Y., Dec. 10.—(INS.)—With a prayer on their lips, calm and unhesitating, Charles Markowitz, 21, and Joseph Brown, 20, today went to the electric chair in Sing Sing Prison for the murder of Police Sergeant William O'Shaughnessy in a Manhattan cafe holdup.

Markowitz died at 12:42 a. m. and Brown at 12:49.

A third slayer scheduled to die today, Gentro Akiyama, Japanese butler convicted of slaying J. William Schatz, his wealthy Poughkeepsie employer, was saved when Gov. Roosevelt commuted his sentence to life imprisonment late yesterday.

As preparations for the execution of Markowitz and Brown went forward, an ironic touch was provided by the final presentation of the annual Sing Sing revue for an audience from "outside."

Musmanno Ready For Debate on Soul

Judge M. A. Musmanno, of the Allegheny County Court, who will oppose Clarence Darrow in debate on the question, "Does Man Live Again?" Monday night in Carnegie Music Hall, possesses seven collegiate and professional degrees, while Darrow holds no scholastic degrees. Judge Musmanno will uphold the affirmative of the question, while Darrow will state his disbelief in the soul and immortality.

Proceeds of the ticket sale will be distributed by the city's afternoon newspapers to the relief organizations for welfare work.

Councilman Fined As Hit-Run Driver

Councilman John Bower, of West Homestead, was fined $10 at a hearing last night before Burgess John J. Cavanaugh, of Homestead, on a charge of violating the automobile code by failing to stop after his machine collided with that of Leonard Goldberg, of 21 South Twenty-seventh street, Pittsburgh, in Seventh avenue, Homestead.

2 WELLSBURG ROMANCES END

Miss Elizabeth Jansen, 217 East Garden avenue, Brentwood, who went to Wellsburg, W. Va., in 1929, when she was 16, and was married to Peter Jansen, was granted a divorce by Judge James H. Gray, after telling the court her husband struck her and called her names. They separated in March, 1930.

William C. Brown, 304 Morrowfield Apartments, whose wife, Mrs. Ruth M. Brown, is a beautician and who also was married in Wellsburg, has been granted a divorce. Brown, chief clerk for the Michigan Central Railroad, said his wife left him saying she was going to live with two girl friends because she was dissatisfield with married life. They were married July 8, 1930.

Divorce suits were filed by James J. Moreman against Anna F. Moreman, Molly Forman against Jacob Forman, Charles Farina against Mary Farina and Nellie M. Weller against Harry J. Weller.

Edward Gohanna was granted a divorce from Ethel Gohanna.

Barbers Stoned In Price War Here

Three barber shops were stoned early today because, police said, they failed to meet the price increase set by the Master Barber's Association. The association recently increased the price of hair cutting from 25 to 50 cents.

One stoned early yesterday had increased his prices today, according to police. He was Harry Wolcott, of 12 West General Robinson street.

The victims today were Volnnei's barber shop, 802 Chateau street; Edward Fordenbacker, 2703 Brighton road, and Paul Malensky, 3180 McClure avenue.

BANDITS SEIZE HIDDEN CASH

Two Negro bandits, who had posed as customers, last night rifled the cash register in a chain grocery at Wylie avenue and Junilla street, after forcing Dan Keller, of 312 Kelly street, Wilkinsburg, the manager, to disclose the hiding place of the money.

The thugs handed Keller a $20 bill for a package of cigarets and a box of raisins. When Keller went to the back room, the "customers" followed, pointed revolvers and took back their $20 and the cash in a secret drawer.

Four masked and armed bandits leaped onto the running board of a truck driven by Frank Reola, of 927 Norfolk street, on the Meadow Street Bridge, forced him to stop and robbed him of $4 last night, police reported. The men fled down Meadow street after robbing Reola.

Two bandits entered the Sun Oil Company service station, 2600 Boulevard of the Allies, held up Paul Wendler, the attendant, of 4777 Hughes street, and took $30.

Installment Plan Wedding License Ban Balks Cupid

GETTYSBURG, Pa., Dec. 10.—(INS.)—Clayton F. Palmer, Adams County, Clerk of Courts, offered a marriage license today at a cut rate.

He said he filled out the license for a couple who then demanded it on the instalment plan—50 cents down and 50 a week.

Palmer refused the time payments and to avoid a "red-taped" explaination he said he will erase the writing and rewrite it for another couple, foregoing his personal commission. He declined to reveal the identity of the bargaining couple.

Singer Fails to Shine In Horse-shoer Role

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Feodor Chaliapin disappointed an audience of some 20 persons that had gathered to see him—no, not sing—shoe a horse.

It seems the Russian basso had been boasting of his prowess as a smithy, so the proprietor of a riding academy arranged an exhibition yesterday and invited all the riders.

When Miss Murphy, an ageing bay, was led out, Chaliapin confessed he never had shod a horse, but insisted he used to lend a hand with the bellows. He said:

"Back in my nat've village, Kazan, I lived next door to the blacksmith's shop. So I know how it's done. Like this."

He seized Miss Murphy's hoof and went through the motions. The audience applauded and Chaliapin bowed.

Then his daughter, Marina, gave an exhibition of her horsemanship.

Boy Hiker Smiles Over Pain of Broken Back

WHEELING, W. Va., Dec. 10.—(AP.)—His back broken, Jimmy Lucas, 4, smiled today in a hospital bed at the end of a 270-mile "hitch hike" for food and medical care.

Jimmy's father was unemployed when the lad fell down stairs and was injured in his Martinsville (W. Va.) home. There was no funds for medical care.

A brother of Mrs. Lucas promised aid if the family would come to Collier, where he is a miner.

It was a long way to Collier, near Wheeling, but the Lucases, Elmer, the father, Susanne, the mother, Jimmy, Eddie, 3, and a five-months' old girl started afoot.

Motorists gave "lifts" and in eight days the group reached Wheeling, where he failed to find their relatives. Lucas applied for aid to the Salvation Army. The family was taken in and Jimmy was sent to a hospital. He says:

"My back feels pretty good, now, but out on the road it hurt so bad I cried a lot of the time."

JAZZY GOSPEL HYMNS DECRIED AT CHURCH COUNCIL

MODERN LIVING DENOUNCED IN ENCYCLICAL

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Too many churches are using jazz gospel hymns that appeal only to the feet declared John Finley Williamson, director of the Westminster Choir School, of Princeton, N. J., at the closing session here yesterday of the Council of Churches of Christ in America.

Music, he said, has the power that religion needs. It speaks the same language as religion, but it also speaks in other languages.

He said:

"We must define the kind of rhythm we use in our churches."

The council adopted a message to the 26 Protestant bodies with their 22,000,000 enrolled communicants.

The encyclical set forth:

"The council is moved to a sense of sorrow akin to shame as it faces the tragically unchristian character of so much of our modern life. In many cases we have only substituted one form of paganism for another. Suspicion, fear, malice, lust and greed, we have discovered, may be as mightily malignant in the midst of unparalleled scientific achievements and material prosperity as they ever were among primitive peoples. To attempt to build our civilization upon the supremacy of "things" has landed us in the same morass as that into which ancient civilizations fell."

The report of the commission of race relations also was adopted.

Five cities, St. Louis, Buffalo, Milwaukee, Kansas City and Omaha, have extended invitations for the next meeting of the council in 1934. The executive committee of the council will select the next meeting place.

'Preserver of Man' Scientist Subject

"God the Preserver of Man" will be the subject of the lesson-sermon to be read tomorrow in all Christian Science Churches. The golden text will be "As the mountains are round about Jerusalem, so the Lord is round about His people from henceforth even for ever."

MISS ALMA WILT

West View Church to Make Awards on Christmas

Perfect Sunday School attendance for the last year is reported for more than 150 members of the St. Luke's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Center and Ridgewood avenues, West View, acording to the Rev. Luther P. Spoehr, pastor.

Miss Alma Wilt, of 230 Burkhart street, West View, has a record of 24 years of perfect attendance. Edward Hartung has 14, Albert and Fred Wall, 13, and Robert Bollen, Albert and Mildred Hacks each 13.

For five years perfect attendance the Sunday School members receive a metal bar and a Bible. Bible awards will be given out Christmas eve, and all other awards at Sunday School on Christmas morning.

MISSION'S 34TH ANNIVERSARY

The thirty-fourth anniversary of the founding of the New Covenant Mission by the late Rev. Maurice Ruben, will be observed Monday evening, at 8 o'clock in the auditorium of the Mission building, Pride and Crawford streets.

NAME PASTORS FOR TRINITY

Ministers who will preach at the noonday Advent services in Trinity Cathedral next week are: Monday, the Rev. T. J. Bigham, Church of the Advent; Tuesday, the Rev. Ernest Risley, St. Mary's Church, Beaver Falls, Pa.; Wednesday and Thursday, the Rev. Louis L. Perkins, St. Paul's Church, Kittanning, Pa.; Friday, the Rev. J. K. Brennan, Jr., St. Peter's Church, Butler, Pa., and Saturday, the Rev. A. W. S. Garden, Emmanuel Church, Pittsburgh.

Mr. Bigham

Pulpit Speaker

ANDREW T. PARK

PARK TO SPEAK IN CHURCH

District Attorney Andrew T. Park will address the congregations of three Squirrel Hill churches in their weekly Sunday night community service in the Sixth Presbyterian Church, Forbes and Murray, at 8 p. m. tomorrow. Students from Carnegie Institute have been invited to attend the "Tech Night" service. Participating churches are the Third United Presbyterian, Shady and Northumberland avenues, and the Asbury Methodist Episcopal Church, Forbes and Murray.

New Apollo Pastor's Installation Monday

APOLLO, Pa., Dec. 10.—The Rev. J. J. Gilbert, pastor of the Emlenton Reformed Church for several years, will be installed on Monday evening as pastor of the First Reformed Church of Apollo.

ADVENT MUSIC TO BE SUNG TOMORROW

Advent services continue tomorrow in Protestant and Catholic churches throughout the Pittsburgh district. At 11 a. m. the Rev. Hugh Thomson Kerr will preach on "Are You Satisfied With the Church?" the third in a series of four Advent sermons in the Shadyside Presbyterian Church. Special Advent music by the quartet and Vesper Chorus under the direction of Earl Mitchell, organist, will be presented.

At the same hour, the Rev. Claud Studebaker, pastor of the First Brethren Church, Shadyside, will preach on "The Joy of the Advent." Daily noontime Advent services are scheduled in Trinity Cathedral for next week.

SERMON SERIES

On Sunday mornings and evenings preceding Christmas the Rev. William Howard Ryall, pastor of the Lemington Presbyterian Church, will preach a series of four Advent sermons. At 11 a. m. tomorrow he will speak on "The Vision of Zacharias, the Priest," and at 8 p. m., "The Annunciation of Mary, the Virgin." On December 18 he will speak on "The Magnificat" at 11 a. m., and "The Benediction" at 8 p. m.

The beauty of the Advent liturgy, striking the notes of preparation, watchfulness and expectation in the offices and rites of the Catholic Church, will be exemplified tomorrow, the Sunday of Gladness, in the Gaudete of Rejoicing. In the Epiphany Church at 11 a. m. tomorrow solemn high mass will be celebrated with the combined junior and senior choirs in the loft singing Hubert Gruender's "Missa Liturgica."

GAUDETE SUNDAY

Gaudete Sunday will be celebrated with splendor at Sacred Heart tomorrow. A beautiful set of rose-colored vestments, gift of the Altar Society of the church, permitted to be worn only twice a year, will be worn. These vestments, indicative of joy, symbolize the spiritual satisfaction of the congregation during the Advent Season.

At 3:30 p. m. tomorrow there will be a half-hour organ recital by Edgar J. Bowman, organist and choirmaster, ending with Compline and Benediction. The program follows:

Sketch in F minor ..... Robert Schumann
Choral improvisation on "Creator Alme Siderum" ..... Philip Kreckel
Prelude on "Veni, Veni, Emmanuel" ..... Peter Christian Lutkin
Prelude and Fugue in G major ..... Bach
Sonata Prima (first movement) ..... Jon G. Pagella

State Welfare Deputy To Speak in Bellevue

MRS. HELEN GLENN TYSON

Churches Unite for North Boroughs Gathering

Mrs. Helen Glenn Tyson, first assistant deputy secretary of the Pennsylvania State Welfare Department, will address North Boroughs community churches at 7:45 p. m. tomorrow in the Bellevue Methodist Episcopal Church, Home and California avenues.

Her subject will be "Pennsylvania Welfare Needs." A number of churches have adjourned their evening services to hear Mrs. Tyson. Representatives of literary and social clubs in the community also will attend.

TWO PROGRAMS BY BIDWELL

Marshall Bidwell will give the following organ recital program at 8:15 tonight in Carnegie Music Hall, Oakland:

Sonata No. 1, in D Minor ..... Guilmant

Sketch in D Flat—Traumerei ..... Schumann
From the Land of the Sky-Blue Water ..... Cadman
Processional March ..... Gounod

The programs next Saturday and Sunday will consist of music appropriate to the Christmas season.

Exchange

REV. DR. WILLIAM PORKESS

PASTORS TRADE PULPITS

An air of mystery and expectancy will surround the services in the East Boroughs community churches tomorrow. The annual exchange of pulpits, participated in by 19 Wilkinsburg churches, will take place, marking the tenth consecutive year of the exchange plan.

The assignments are made by a committee of three laymen, drawn from three of the borough churches. The identity of the preachers are not disclosed to the individual congregations until church begins.

The exchange plan was suggested 10 years ago by the Rev. Dr. William Porkess, rector of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, who was then president of the Wilkinsburg Council of Churches. The exchange always takes place the second Sunday morning in December.

'Depression Santa' Volunteers' Topic

"The Depression Santa Claus," or "How to Be a Real Santa This Christmas," will be the subject of the sermon to be delivered tomorrow evening in the Volunteers of America Church, Sandusky and East North Diamond street.

Adjt. Collins will appeal to rich and poor alike to spend their Christmas dollars for sensible food and wearing apparel, rather than for costly, unnecessary trinkets.

Chorus Choir of 80 To Sing at Emory

The Lutheran Chorus Choir of 80 voices will give a musical at the Emory Methodist Episcopal Church tomorrow evening. Solos, quartets and choruses will make up the program. A brief address will be given by the pastor, the Rev. Dr. M. B. Fuller.

Firemen, Auxiliary To Attend Church

The Pleasant Valley Fire Department and the Ladies Auxiliary will attend evening services in Grace Methodist Protestant Church, Sharpsburg. At 11 a. m. the Rev. O. W. Bolton, pastor, will speak on "The Prophet of the Highest."

At 7:45 p. m. tomorrow, Bishop Le

CHARGE CLOSED BANK TANGLED IN POLITICS

Depositors in the Citizens' Trust Company of Bellevue today awaited possible reply of the Department of Banking to charges by Park H. Martin, chairman of a depositors' committee, that handling of closed banks has been extravagant and riddled with politics.

Four hundred residents of the borough heard Martin's discussion of exceptions he and his committee are taking to the partial accounting of the bank's affairs since its close, October 24, 1931. The account, filed by Attorney George F. Taylor, deputy secretary of banking in charge, has been approved with exception of 57 disputed items.

CHAPLIN ATTENDS

Silent onlooker at the meeting was James C. Chaplin, president of the Second District Realization Corporation, advisers to the Secretary of Banking on liquidation of closed banks. Chaplin refused to reply to the charges, said he was there "purely as a private citizen."

The attack centered on attorneys' fees, expenses of the central office, division of closed banks in Philadelphia, and an attempt to link the political faction of the late John W. Vickerman, Pinchot supporter, director of the bank and allegedly guiding influence in the Suburban Real Estate Company and Suburban Printing Company, recipients of the closed bank's patronage.

Martin said attorneys' fees for the bank amounted to about $2,800, including one of $500 to Assistant District Attorney Harry Phillips for services in preparing documents in connection with embezzlement charges against Ansley D. Smith, secretary-treasurer of the bank.

EARLY TRIAL URGED

The meeting went on record in favor of early trial for Smith, at which Phillips will prosecute, on January 16, after collapse of one trial early this month when Phillips fell ill.

Expenses averaging approximately $125 a month as the bank's pro rata share of administration of the Philadelphia office, under William L. McGee, drew Martin's fire. The office itself is illegal in his opinion, he said.

It was understood that attorneys for the depositors will stress this angle when the exceptions are heard in Common Pleas Court Monday. Adverse decision by the court, it is understood, would shatter present machinery for liquidation of closed banks.

Expense accounts, salaries, cost of office equipment, share of premiums on bonds of McGee and other state officials, pay for a night watchman and expenses for female help all received attention.

Barber Not Facing No License Charge

State Inspector Morris Nossokoff today corrected a statement issued in connection with the enforcement of the barber act during a recent campaign involving Arthur Manganora, 210 East Ohio street, North Side. Nossokoff through error reported Manganora was held for court on charges of operating without a license. He said today the violation was operating an insanitary shop in violation of a state referee's ruling.

Palestine Leader Speaks Tomorrow

Israel Mereminsky, secretary of the General Federation of Labor in Palestine, member of the World Zionist actions committee, and of "Jewish Agency" executive committee, will speak in the auditorium of the Y. M. H. A., Bellefield avenue, tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. Mereminsky comes here as guest of the Local National Labor Committee for the Jewish Pioneers in Palestine.

Cipher No. 22, folks, is another original cipher and, decoded, will give you one of old Ben Franklin's proverbs. It was submitted by Milton G. Lehman, Jr., of 5464 Darlington road. He has been working the cipher problems in the Sun-Telegraph regularly.

This is a cipher of a somewhat difficult form—and it's a good one. Maybe you'll have trouble with it, maybe you won't. But "Bogie" says it's easy.

The Cipher Editor will give you the answer Monday, with a new one to think about.

Station WHK Gets Power Increase

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(INS.)—Permission to increase its day-time power from 1,000 to 2,500 watts was granted Station WHK, Cleveland, by the Federal Radio Commission, the commission reserving the right to withdraw its permission without notice in event the higher power interferes with Station KQV at Pittsburgh.

"PRECIOUS" BABY

America's New Darling!

A wonderful baby doll with soft rubber arms that feel so real!

"PRECIOUS" BABY will shut her eyes and go to sleep, sucking her thumb, like a real baby.

"PRECIOUS" BABY is the only doll that can clasp her hands, as in prayer.

"PRECIOUS" BABY wears a real pacifier to soothe her when she cries. Her cunning little thumb just fits in her rosy baby mouth.

"PRECIOUS" BABY has real dimpled knees. Her face and limbs are the colors of real skin, her head is almost unbreakable, and her little hands and fingers are soft like a real baby's.

"PRECIOUS" BABY is elegantly dressed in lovely organdie, and wears stockings, moccasins and real rubber panties. She is 19½ inches tall.

Every little girl will love her new "PRECIOUS" BABY more than any other doll she has ever had.

"DUCKY DARLING"

Rubber-Bodied Baby Doll With 11-Piece Layette and Bathinette

Fill the bathinette with water and tub Ducky with the washcloth, sponge and soap! Finish off with powder, then tuck her to bed. She'll close her eyes and sleep just like a real baby! When she wakes, dress her in the diaper, socks, bootees, slip, dress and bonnet! She is 12 inches tall. You'll love her—all little girls do!

THE LIFE OF THE PARTY

In Mayfair

—With—

Patricia Pitt

One of the most romantic weddings in ages will be that during the Yuletide of Bobby Wilson and William J. Kountz. They are both so young. And a Christmastime wedding always has a special glamor. The date is December 29, and the place the Twentieth Century Club.

I've already told you who the bride's attendants will be and now the young bridegroom-elect has selected his ushers. His brother, George McClellan Kountz, Jr., will be best man, you know.

The young men to usher will be Benjamin H. Kountz, P. Eaton Day, Edward Jennings Hill, John Eliot Warner, of Winnetaka, Ill., Frank S. McCrory, of Syracuse, N. Y., and William K. Fitch.

* * *

Today's budget of news brings a most interesting engagement, that of one of our most zealous young girls. The William Zangs, of South Negley avenue, announce the engagement of their daughter, Neil Stewart Zang, to George Cummings Stephenson, of Pittsburgh, son of the Frank Stuart Stephensons, of Galesburg, Ill.

* * *

Men are going to be in demand as workers as well as dancing partners at the sub-deb subscription dance the twenty-third of this month in the Twentieth Century Club, with the Welfare Fund receiving the proceeds.

A group of young men have been asked to serve on the floor committee, including Alfred Ward, Rust Heinz, William H. Rea, Norton Van Voorhis Coyle, George Jackson Fickes, Allison Maxwell, Harry Miller, William Porter, Leonard Bushman, John Culbertson, Charles Ladley, William Curry, William Costin and Nugent Monro.

Added to the list of the girls selling tickets are Mary Curry, Betsy Liggett, Florence Willock and Ellen Wilson, of Wheeling, W. Va., who'll be Evelyn Freeman's guest.

* * *

Making the town a little gayer already is the early arrival of our Christmas guests, Mrs. Stanley O. Law and her son, Richard McConway Law, have arrived to be the guests over the holidays of Mrs. Law's father and mother, the junior William McConways.

Announcements Made of Two Weddings

Announcements are made today of two weddings of early December, Miss Marie A. Bell, of Howe street, became the bride of Leo G. Malloy on Saturday, December 3, in New York. After a southern honeymoon they will be at home in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Silveus, of Waynesburg, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mildred Silveus, to Charles McCurdy, son of Mr. and Mrs. John McCurdy, also of Waynesburg, which was solemnized Thursday at New Brighton.

Mt. Lebanon Club Group To Hold Yule Service

The music department of the Mt. Lebanon Woman's Club, assisted by the choirs of Mt. Lebanon churches, will have a community choral Christmas service at the Mt. Lebanon Methodist Church tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock.

This Christmas service was inaugurated by the music department several years ago and under its director, Mrs. Lucile Miller Werner, has become an outstanding event in the community.

There will be a joint meeting and tea of the two groups of the club's reviewers' department on Tuesday in the home of Mrs. D. D. Heron, of Roycroft avenue. Miss Florence Haich, of the Mt. Washington Library, is the speaker of the afternoon. Mrs. J. P. Boore will play several piano selections and Mrs. C. E. Harris will sing.

Alpha Xi Delta Alumnae Christmas Party Tonight

Miss Leona Braun will play piano accompaniments for Samuel Dillon, violinist, as part of the program for the Alpha Xi Delta Alumnae Christmas party. Mrs. Charles Arnold and Mrs. Helen Aults Bowen have arranged the party for this evening at the home of Mrs. J. W. Bowen, Evergreen avenue, Millvale.

New Kensington Juniors To Give Dance Dec. 27

For members, their guests and home-coming college students, the New Kensington Junior Woman's Club will have a supper-dance at the Hill Crest Country Club, Tuesday, December 27. Miss Helen Kelly is chairman.

Bradford Woods Group Hears Milan Petrovitz

The round table group of the Bradford Woods Civic Club is meeting today at the home of Mrs. J. Charles Runk and is being addressed by Milan Petrovitz. The club's annual Christmas party will be an event of Thursday in Mrs. J. L. Hannon's home, Mrs. H. Meyers and Mrs. Stacy V. Gerwig assisting. Mrs. Runk, who is district art chairman for the State Federation, will give her illustrated lecture on "Famous Madonnas."

Mothers to Be Guests Of West Newton Juniors

Mothers of members will be guests of the Junior Women's Club of West Newton when they meet Monday evening to hear Mrs. J. Charles Runk, district chairman of art in the State Federation, give her illustrated "Madonna" lecture. Mrs. Ralph Lash will direct group caroling and another entertaining feature will be a gift-wrapping contest, the results of which will go to the local welfare association.

Voters' Leagues to Hold Christmas Parties Next Week

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Several of the Voters' League units will have their Christmas parties next week, among them the Duquesne and the Twenty-sixth Ward, both of them on Tuesday, and the Dormont-Mt. Lebanon and the Avalon leagues on Wednesday. The Duquesne women meet in Elks' Hall. The Twenty-sixth Ward women will have their party following a short business meeting in the American Legion Hall, Perrysville avenue, and the program will consist of readings by Mrs. Charles J. Bowlus and carols. Baskets for the needy will be packed.

Mrs. R. Templeton Smith and Mrs. J. O. Miller will be guests at the Dormont-Mt. Lebanon affair, which is to be in the Dormont New Century Club. Carols by the Mt. Lebanon Woman's Club Choral and a reading from Dickens' "Christmas Carol," will comprise the entertainment. The Avalon event is a tea in the home of Mrs. R. J. Dunbar. Miss Jean Lawrence is to talk on "International War Debts," and all women in the community are invited to hear her.

The December meeting of the Twenty-seventh League will be held Monday in All Saints' parish house, McClure avenue, with Mrs. David Alter speaking on "Problems Facing the Disarmament Conference."

District Attorney Andrew T. Park will address the Wilkinsburg League on Tuesday afternoon in the Penn-Lincoln Hotel.

Junior Oakmont Club's Christmas Dance Dec. 30

December 30 is the date set for the Junior Oakmont Club's annual Christmas dance. In charge of a committee headed by Sara Dixon it will be held at the Pittsburgh Field Club. Assisting Miss Dixon are Marie Arnold, Harriet Blaine, Geraldine Brinley, Jane Cannon, Jeanne Crusan, Lydia Harmon, Helen Kunselman, Zina Katz, Janet McKinley, Mildred Green Marshall, Isobel Morton, Margaret Riddle, Dorothy Hess Sherrick, Virginia Stevenson and Gladys Voss.

The Presidents' Association, Ladies of the G.A.R., has made plans for a novelty Christmas program to be given at the Congress of Clubs on Thursday, beginning with a luncheon at 1230 o'clock.

Women's Ad Club Sets Dance for February 3

An important date just decided upon is that for the annual ball of the Women's Advertising Club. It will be held Friday, February 3, in the William Penn Hotel.

Spotlight Turned On Utilities by Club Speaker

Dr. Ernest H. Gruening's lecture on "Power Problems" yesterday before the Friday Morning Club cast an illuminating spotlight on the various ramifications of public utilities and propaganda used to further its ends. He said the burden of rates is borne by the consumer, while the cost of production is exceptionally low.

Dr. Gruening said in Ontario where municipal ownership is in force, electricity for heating, lighting and cooking is so low that the farmers are able to use it on farms for dairy purposes. He admitted, however, that the problem is whether utilities can be regulated without the intrusion of politics and whether municipe plants can be controlled without running afoul of this same problem.

Insidious propaganda, he said had seeped through schools, universities, Boy Scouts, women's clubs and newspapers. From these, however, he eliminated the League of Women Voters the Hearst and Scripps-Howard newspapers from the general list, and said Pittsburgh was thus singularly fortunate in that respect.

Dr. Gruening stated that no reason for a holding company, which is not a utility, is expediency and efficiency in operation, socalled, but in reality to enable the holding company to skim the cream of profits.

After the lecture, the speaker was guest of honor at a luncheon in the Hotel Schenley. Mrs. W. M. Parrish was hostess and the guest list included Mrs. R. Templeton Smith, Mrs. George Bray, Mrs. Waldo Amos, Mrs. R. C. Pitcher, Mrs. H. M. Bush, Miss Julia Knox, Mrs. Ralph Smith, Mrs. Adam Jacobs, Mrs. Edmond Esquerre, Dr. Malcolm Davis, Dr. George McCabe, Dr. Marion McKay, Richard Murphy and Dr. W. M. Parrish.

Parent-Teacher Units To Present Programs

Among Parent-Teacher meetings scheduled for next week is that of the Kelly School, which will present the program originally planned for last month on Monday afternoon. Open house will be held from 1 until 3 o'clock, then Miss Mary O'Fornwalt will speak on "Books for Children" and the school music club will entertain.

Colfax P. T. A. members will again hear Miss Alice Parker on Tuesday evening, her subject this time being "Character and Citizenship," the concluding lecture in the series. Madeline K. Lewis, contralto, with Mrs. A. L. Balter accompanying, will provide the music.

Wilkinsburg Council of P. T. A.'s will have its monthly meeting Wednesday afternoon in the Penn-Lincoln Hotel. The Hillsdale (Dormont) Association will meet Thursday afternoon for tea and a program, the latter consisting of Christmas readings by Mrs. C. C Taylor, a carol service with Christmas tableaux by a chorus of 125 students under the direction of Miss Charlotte Evans and Miss Margaret Johnston and the tableaux directed by Miss Edwina Grove and Miss Helen Day.

Carols will be sung by the pupils at Thursday's meeting of the Semple Association, Wilkinsburg, which is to be addressed by the Rev. Paul Kurtz.

Woman's Historical Club To Hear Yule Program

Mrs. Clarence E. Ruppelt has arranged the Christmas program for the meeting of the Woman's Historical Society tomorrow afternoon. "Christmas Echoes from Yesteryear" will be expressed in violin numbers as played by Mrs. George Gey, vocal numbers by Mrs. Francis Brock and readings by Madeline Rumstedt. A group of children will represent Christmas dollies and Mrs. Ruppelt and her husband will give a sketch from Dickens' "Christmas Carol." A sale of blind-made articles will be conducted under the supervision of Mrs. Flora Griffith.

Christmas Treat Benefit To Be Held for Home

A card party will be held at the American Legion Home, South Seventeenth street, South Side, on Monday evening, the proceeds to be used to finance a Christmas treat for the Vincentian Home of the Poor and Incurable.

Wheaton Club to Fete Students on Vacations

Students home from Wheaton for the holidays will be honor guests at the Pittsburgh Wheaton Club's bridge-luncheon next Saturday in the College Club.

PARISIENNE USES FUR LAVISHLY IN SEVERAL MODISH COLORS

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Dec. 10. — Two kinds of fur are better than one. At least this is the current idea of the majority of the better French designers. Coats, dresses, suits—even hats—are planned to make use of not only two kinds of fur, but fur in two or more colors. Gray, white and black astrakan may appear on a single coat; black and white fur, especially black fox and white fox used together, are considered especially smart for afternoon coats.

* * *

IN THE Mirande suit in today's illustration, two kinds and two colors of fur are used in an original way. Black astrakan makes the collar and revers on the jacket and fashions little extra sleevelets that cover the wrists below the hem of the three-quarter-length sleeves; white fur fashions the blouse beneath.

* * *

FUR BLOUSES of this type are a distinct success in Paris this winter. They are one of the ingenious devices used by the French to make an all-'round suit serve as both coat and suit during cold weather. The material of this suit is a dark reddish-brown woolen of average weight, but with the added warmth of the little fur blouse no added topcoat is needed.

* * *

NOTE THE way the skirt is cut. Like many of the newer Paris suits, the skirt gives straight lines, but has plenty of fullness put into the inverted plait at the center-front.

Pittsburgh Girl In College Operetta

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Dec. 10.—"Pirates of Penzance," light opera by Gilbert and Sullivan, will be given by the class in operetta production of the Westminster College Music Conservatory early next semester. The opera will be under the direction of Miss Florence Mae Thomas, New Castle, professor of public school music.

Leads in the opera have been assigned to Miss Monas Harlan, New Castle, and Miss Dorothy Johnstone, Munhall, and subleads have been given Miss Ellen Cottrell, Roxbury, Mass.; Thomas Herriott, New Wilmington; Richard Davis, New Wilmington; Miss Bernice Turner, Farrell; Miss Virginia McCown, Mt. Lebanon; Herbert Smith, New Castle, and Robert Rose, Freeport, L. I.

Jewish Women's Group Will Meet on Monday

An important meeting in Jewish women's circles will take place Monday evening at the Y. M. & W. H. A. when the 25 groups which comprise the Conference of Jewish Women's Organization will meet.

Representatives of the junior groups who will act as ushers are Miss Pearl Glassner, Miss Helen Sherman, Miss Lillian Freiberger, Miss Edith Horowitz, Miss Betty Kirshenbaum, Miss Ada Spiegal, Miss Hannah Shapira, Miss Anne Rosenstein, Miss Gladys Ziff, Miss Elizabeth Seegman, Miss Anne Gordon, Miss Edith Cohen and Mrs. I. S. Miller, Mrs. A. B. Amdur, Mrs. Ben Franklin, Mrs. Jenny Rawick, Mrs. Frances Westerman, Mrs. Sara Bernstein and Mrs. F. Miller.

Southern Club Holds Moravian Love Feast

Southern Club members found the Moravian love feast equally as beautiful this year as last when it was given as the club's Christmas celebration yesterday in the Hotel Schenley. Two tall decorated trees stood against a picture of the Nativity with a lighted star above. Miss Janet Spaugh read the Scripture, Mrs. John L. Perry gave the history of the Moravians and there was carols and traditional Moravian airs by the Edgewood Girls' Glee Club.

By the light of hand-dipped beeswax candles, made especially for the occasion, the love feast was ended with the serving of coffee and sweet cakes, which were made according to the old recipe.

Love Always Seeking Brave And Gay Hearts

Did you ever think what life means to a cripple?

To a crippled girl, who longs for love?

Here's the story of such a girl—little Ella, whose hand is maimed, but whose spirit is whole, and beautiful, and hungry for romance.

Dare she hope for happiness with a Real Man? Or must she accept leavings?

It's a pitiful little story, and it touches millions of us whom life has hurt and scared.

Dear Miss Martin:

Please help me, won't you? I am a girl, 18, and a cripple. I have no fingers on my right hand. About seven months ago my sister, who is 17, started going out with a fellow. I didn't mind at first, but everyone started to talk about me not having any beau, and even my parents began to tell me to go out, too, or I would be an old maid.

That made me feel terribly blue. I suppose it was because I was jealous of her, and thought that on account of my being crippled no one would want me.

Well, about three months ago, a friend of the family brought a young fellow up to the house and I think it was love at first sight. We started going out together and I was very happy. I met his people and they were swell to me.

Three weeks ago he had a fight with his grandmother (he has no mother, and lived with her) and he came straight to me and told me about it. It was quite late, so I let him sleep at our house, thinking he would go and get himself a room the next day. It has been three weeks now and he is still staying here. My father has told him to get out, but he doesn't seem to listen.

BORROWS MONEY

Right now he sleeps and eats here and never even offers to pay anything. My father dislikes him a lot. My mother and I like him, but I don't know what to do. Lately he's been talking of getting me a ring, but I don't know where he will get the money, as he is a salesman and doesn't make much.

Every now and then he asks me for a dime or a quarter, and two days ago he asked me for a dollar, and I gave it to him. I know it was wrong, but I can't bear to let him go away. He borrowed $2.25 from my sister's boy friend and hasn't paid it back.

Now to tell you why I keep on with this: I am a cripple, and before I knew him I never went out with boys. If I tell him to go, he might never come back, then I couldn't find anyone else who would want me, and I don't think I could bear that.

Please help me. I have opened my heart to you, even more than I have dared to open it to my own people. ELLA.

NOT RIGHT MAN

Dear little girl, I do understand. I know how a big hurt can get one down in life and how, in desperation, one will reach for anything to heal the ache. But steady, youngster! Use that good little head. You know, without my telling you, that this man isn't the answer for you.

He's a tramp, and nothing but! There is no chivalry in him toward you; no self-respect toward himself. He doesn't know the meaning of love, and doesn't want to. He is simply a moocher, and he'll never be kind or loyal to anyone.

So face that fact, and save your dreams and love for a better man; for a man who is worthy of your fineness. For you are fine, Ella, and some good man will appreciate you some day—if, in the meantime, you appreciate yourself.

There's your trouble. You're not appreciating yourself. You're thinking of yourself as a cripple, who must accept second-bests.

Stop it! Your crippled hand can't hurt you unless you let it cripple your spirit. Forget those missing fingers, and be so merry and hopeful and friendly that others will forget them, too.

Wear a pretty glove over the scarred hand, and a laugh over your sensitive heart—and love will come, never fear! For love is always seeking brave, gay hearts.

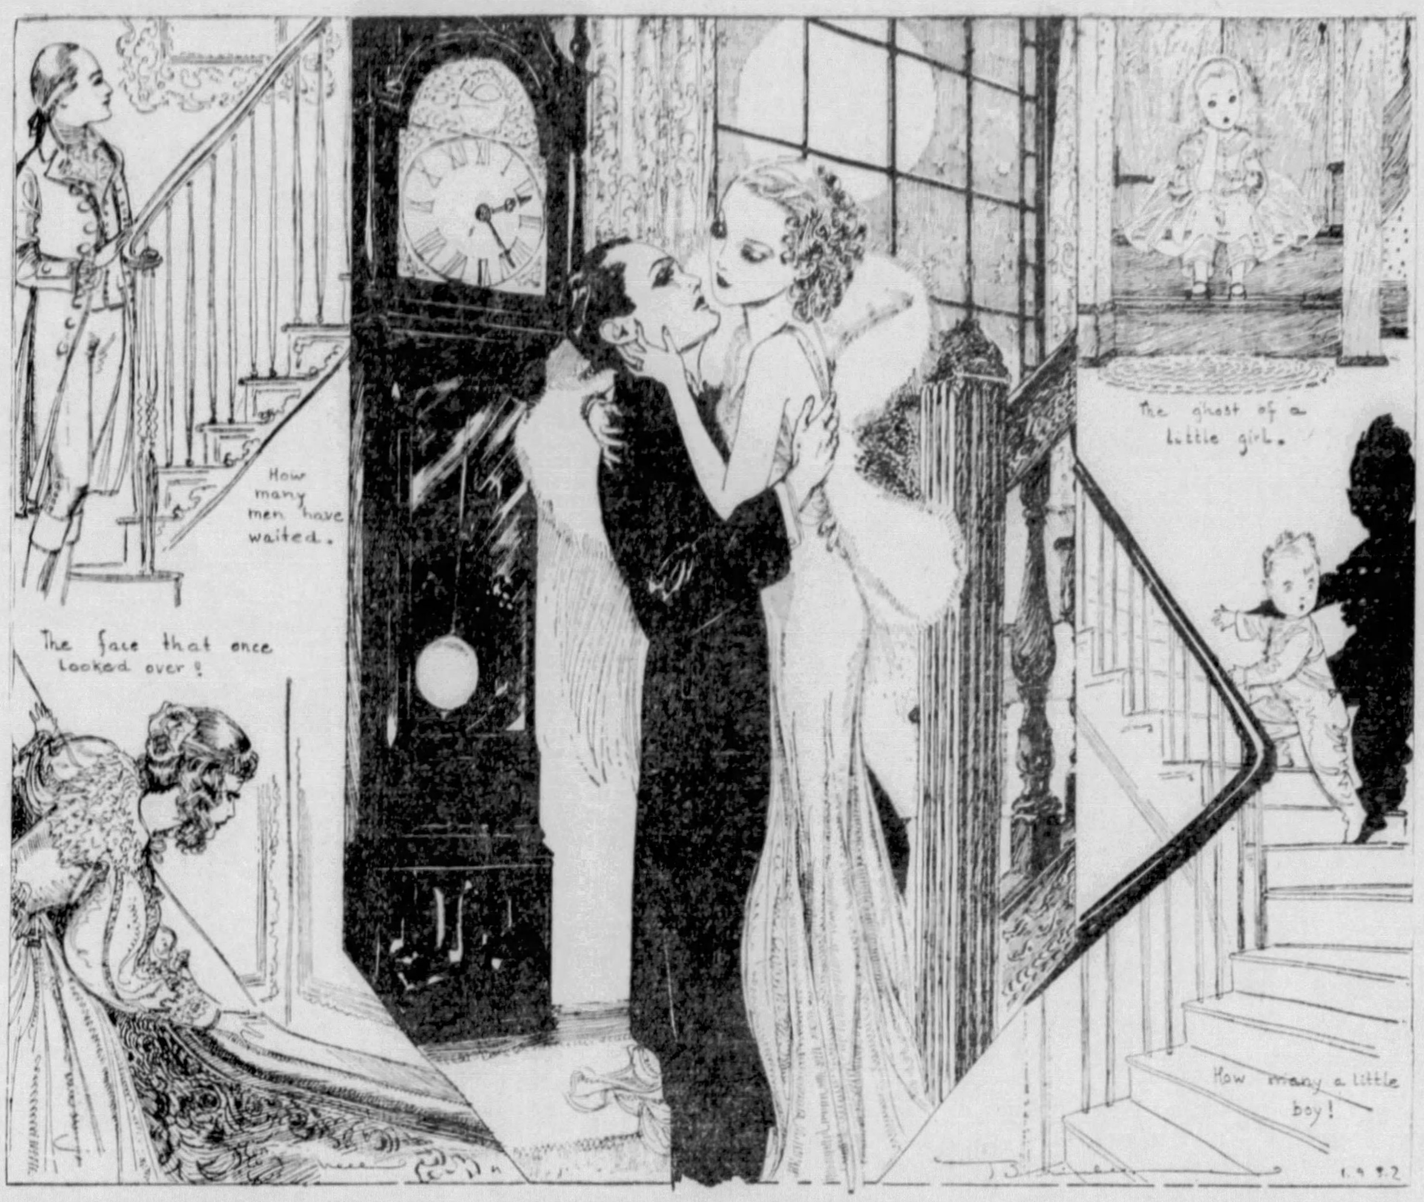
'ON THE STAIRS'

Drawn by Nell Brinkley



Old houses, they say, sit and think thoughts for themselves, of all those, sad, bad, and glad, who have lived in them.

I have thought old stairs must be a-flitter with ghosts.

A young man stands a step down below the girl of his heart. He clasps her, soft furs, soft shoulders, soft hair making a halo, and whispers good-night. One step above him she leans, the gleam of the moon on her hair and the flicker of the pendulum of the old clock on her white satin gown, and whispers good-night back again, ON THE STAIRS. Behind them in the shadow the old clock ticks, and says, "I have seen other lovers say good-night. She wore fur too—but her hair was long curls on her breast, and his coat collar was velvet and his hair long on his cravat. I have seen other lovers—me."

Sliding your hand up the smooth dark patina of an old stairrail—think how many hands have slipped along there, lovers, mothers, children. People who waited and wept. People who waited and laughed, and could hardly wait. Children who fled from shadows. The ghost of a little girl with a back comb and a doll with china hair. How many faces have looked over them, and down to the well below. How many men have waited there at the foot!

When lovers kiss on old stairs there is a sound, if they will listen and believe, of the ghost of a kiss that was once warm and living. NELL BRINKLEY.

Caring for Baby's Teeth

Not long ago the United States public health service made a report covering the condition of the temporary teeth of more than 12,000 school children. I will not burden you with the figures of this extensive study. But it showed that dental decay occurred most frequently in children 7 and 8 years old.

Comparatively few of these children received dental care of their temporary teeth. Many a mother thinks of Johnny's teeth, that "they are just his baby teeth, why bother now?" This is wrong. Baby teeth, the first set of teeth, influence the permanent teeth in their development.

From the time baby's teeth begin to appear, dental hygiene is necessary. They should be cleansed with clean gauze wet with water, or with a weak salt solution. At two or three years of age the child should be taken to a dentist.

Dental decay may begin early in life. This is particularly true if the child has had rickets or other diseases of nutrition. To prevent decay, not only is hygienic care of the teeth important, but the diet must be watched.

There are several substances that are exceedingly valuable for the building of strong and sturdy teeth. Phosphorus, lime and vitamin D are essential to the development of the teeth. Children are given an adequate supply of these substances when they drink a quart of milk a day. To make sure, however, orange juice or tomato juice should be given to the infant as early as the third month.

You will surely be on the safe side and give enough vitamin D, which is important for all bony structure, if cod liver oil is included in the daily diet. This may be given at the early age of three weeks. It should be continued until the child is two years of age.

Sunlight plays an important part in the growth and development of the body and helps to promote strong and healthy teeth. Vitamin D is formed when the body is exposed to sunlight. It is advised that all children be exposed to the beneficial action of the sun whenever possible. Exposure should be gradual, but after the child is used to it the treatment should continue until a protective coat of tan has been acquired.

Children with decayed teeth are often under weight. They are unable to chew their food properly.

When teeth are infected, the resistance of the child against colds and other infectious diseases is lowered. Many diseases acquired in adult life can be traced to faulty and neglected dental care in childhood.

School authorities observe that children without dental defects are the brightest students in the class. Often speech defects are traced to abnormalities in the position of teeth and jaws. When given proper dental attention, speech defects are not likely to happen.

Encourage your child to form the daily habit of brushing the teeth. The teeth should be brushed at least twice a day.

Report to the dentist with the child at least twice a year. If cavities are present, they should be filled and other dental defects corrected. The temporary teeth require the same care and attention that should be given to the permanent teeth. By doing these things your child will be assured of sound and healthy teeth, an asset which he will carry with him through life.

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

A Wealth of End-Plays

The end-play is one of the most interesting plays, by which a good Bridge player makes tricks, not apparent at the beginning of the hand, that are frequently lost by less careful manipulation of the cards. Often the use of a forced lead from an opponent is the only manner of making a contract, and it is thus well to acquaint yourself with the method of making such plays, of placing an adversary in the lead to make 1, 2 or more tricks, if, at the end, that player can be forced to make a lead that will give you the game-going trick.

The hand below is an illustration of this principle.

South—Dealer.

Neither side vulnerable.

	♠ A K 7 6 ♡ Q 10 7 5 4 ◇ K 4 ♣ 3 2
♠ J 5 4 3 2 ♡ A 9 8 3 2 ◇ 9 3 ♣ 7	North West East South	♠ 10 9 ♡ J ◇ Q 8 6 5 2 ♣ A Q 10 9 8
	♠ Q 8 ♡ K 6 ◇ A J 10 7 ♣ K 16 5 4

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♡	Pass
2 ◇	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
2 N T	Pass	3 N T	Pass
Pass	Pass

The bidding of North and South is entirely correct. No-trump is the best contract for the combined hands, and the honor strength is such that a game contract should be reached.

West's Opening lead was an irregular Opening of the heart 2, inasmuch as all four suits had been bid by the declaring side. A small heart was played from Dummy, the trick won with the King, and the suit at once returned. South was unfamiliar with the distribution at this point, and after West played low, the Ten was played, and East discarded the diamond 2. Further information on the distribution of the suits and the honors was essential. However, South had to make some club tricks if he was to realize his contract. Therefore, his next lead was the club 2, upon which East played the 8, and South the Knave, which held the trick. The play of the club 8 apparently marked East with all the remaining high clubs, although this was not certain. The Queen of spades was then led and followed with a small spade, which was won with the King in Dummy. When East played the 9 and 10 of spades, the distribution of the adverse hands seemed to be clearing up. West was known to have held five hearts originally, and certainly held at least four and perhaps five spades. In any event, nothing could be lost by another lead of clubs from the Dummy.

The club 3 was now led, East played the Ace, and West discarded a heart. East returned a club, which South won with the King, and the rest of the tricks were taken by him.

While South's method of playing the hand was successful, he could have, with equal effect, made West the victim of the forced lead situation rather than East, by voiding West's hand of clubs and diamonds and permitting the end-play in a major suit rather than in a minor. It was a case, however, of all roads leading to Rome.

TODAY'S QUESTION

What, in your opinion, is the correct opening bid for the following hand, neither side vulnerable?

♠ A K Q ♡ K J 10 7 ◇ A 8 ♣ K 9 8 7

Answer: One heart. Of course, the hand does not contain sufficient honor strength to warrant an opening two-bid, and a bid in the shaded heart suit should be preferred to an opening bid of one no-trump.

Heart of a Wife

Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

The "Chief" Takes Command in the Search

My father seemed to have shed 20 years of his age as he took me into his arms and whispered endearing words of sympathy into my ears. I knew that he was as tensely anxious as the rest of us, but, as always, the chance for action in a case where skill was needed had fired his energy and his ambition, and made him forget what I suspected was his tragedy—that he was an old man, no longer possessing the physical strength and endurance for active leadership that had been his in the diplomatic secret service.

Even the fact that his counsel was always eagerly and respectfully sought upon all intricate problems could not compensate him for the realization that his days as active "chief" had gone forever.

I introduced him proudly to Dr. Barnes and his wife, then listened with awed admiration while, with attentive listening and skillful questioning, he in little more than five minutes put himself in possession of all the facts we knew in connection with the girls. At the end he looked at his watch.

"If I had known about this request for the white flag," he said ruefully, "I would have postponed this interview. I trust I haven't delayed you."

"Not in the least," Dr. Barnes answered promptly. "Mrs. Barnes and I went to work on the piece of cloth immediately after our guests left. It is ready to go up, and I have been watching the time. I should have stopped you if necessary and asked your indulgence while we raised it at the appointed time."

EFFICIENT MEN

My father's quick look at him held admiring approval. One man of crisp, efficient action, and thorough confidence in his own ability to handle any situation, had met another of the ilk, and I thought of Kipling's lilt of "two strong men—face to face."

"Quite right," he said. "I should have known I couldn't delay you. Is there any way I can help you?"

"Not in raising the flag," Dr. Barnes told him. "I shall not even go out myself, because I do not wish to excite any possible comment from outside. The man who has charge of the grounds will raise the cloth, and pull it down again in half an hour. What the villagers will think, I do not know."

"Perhaps they'll think it some prank of the sororities," Mrs. Barnes said, and her husband nodded.

"Let us hope so," he said. "There's one comfort, at least. The girls will know nothing of it. There goes the bell! Now in five minutes they'll all be assembled in the dining room, and I can give this to Perkins."

He waited five minutes, then hurried out with the white cloth, and Mrs. Barnes excused herself to attend to some detail of her routine. As soon as we were left alone, my father asked anxiously:

"How is Lillian bearing up?"

"She seems superhuman," I told him, and followed up my eulogy with an account of our activities of the hours just past, when we had searched for two miles along one of the wooded roads, upon the chance that we might find some clue dropped by one of the missing girls.

CHIEF READS NOTE

"Good work!" he said approvingly. "It's like Lillian to think of that. And it will be good for her to keep on that line, whether anything comes of it or not. It will keep her mind occupied.

"But where is Hugh? You say he's in constant touch with Lee Chow, and that Lee is watching Owen's movements?"

"Yes, but I can't tell you where to find Hugh. He said he was going to play a lone hand, and that he would let us know where he was just as soon as he knew himself."

"Then we can only wait for his message, and the one which these miscreants have promised upon seeing the white flag," he said. "Please let me have another look at that note they threw through the door."

I passed it to him and he read it again carefully.

"'Be on the lookout tomorrow for messages,'" he quoted softly. "'You will not know how they will come, but they will reach you.' Well! We may be able to bait one little trap, anyway."

I was wild with curiosity to know his meaning, but I asked no question, and when Dr. Barnes came back into the room my father spoke crisply, with the indefinable air of authority which always invests his utterances.

"How are your deliveries made here?"

"Through the tradesmen's entrance."

"Postmen, telegraph boys and so forth, come to the front entrance?"

"Yes."

"How well do your people know these delivery men? Are they familiar with their faces?"

Household Hints

Hot vinegar will remove paint from glass.

A cloth wrung out of vinegar and then wrapped around cheese will keep it fresh and moist.

One part vinegar with equal parts of linseed oil and turpentine will combine into a furniture polish that may be used on the finest woods with success.

If you do a great deal of machine stitching sew a piece of carpet on the tread of the machine. It will be more comfortable to run.

One relief from hiccoughs that usually proves successful is to moisten some granulated sugar with vinegar and eat it. It brings instant relief to most people.

Garden Block Quilt -- Block 12 -- Tiger Lily

KEEP QUILT PATTERNS IN BEAUTIFUL SCRAPBOOK

You will want to preserve the attractive quilt patterns each week in the beautiful Quilt Scrapbook which Nancy Page has designed. All directions including the unique quilted cover are contained in the illustrated Free Quilt Scrapbook Leaflet which you may have by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Nancy Page in care of this paper.

Here we are with a stately flower which becomes the fourth and last in the third row across the quilt.

This tiger lily is made in shades of yellow and black or dull orange and black. The turned-back petals use a figured material, preferably a polka-dotted one. The outside of flower is made in plain material. All of these materials are color fast, of course. They should be of some soft material like gingham or print.

The stem is made from bias tape, although the same material as used for leaves may be chosen. It is more work to make the stem than it is to use the already turned-back tape. The stamens are embroidered in outline stitch with the very ends done in satin stitch. Choose a brown for these embroideries, and be sure the embroidery cotton is color fast.

This flower has a rather spreading head, so you may find it better to increase the length of the stem slightly. This cannot be done in the paper because of lack of space, but there will be plenty of room to do it on the white triangle which makes the upper half of the diamond block.

The lower half has the pieced urn, the pattern for which was given some time ago. In the upper triangle there is the flower and also, the two birds. The pattern for these was given earlier also.

The birds may be made of colors which contrast or harmonize with the flower or they may be made from the same material in each and every block. The urn does not vary in color in any of the 20 blocks but is made from a soft background material, say tan or ecru.

The members had a regular procedure which they followed in making the blocks. First they had the pieced urn ready and to it they seamed the upper triangle of white, cut 12½ by 12½ by 17½. On this they traced lightly the outline of today's pattern. Then they traced it again on lightweight cardboard. Then they put the original with its accompanying directions in the Nancy Page scrapbook. The cardboard pattern was cut into its parts. These were laid on the materials to be used for flower and leaves. In cutting the material one-quarter inch allowance was made on all sides for turning raw edges under.

These were turned under, basted and pressed. Then the pieces were pinned and basted in place on the triangle. Then they were appliqued using the slanting, invisible hemming stitch. Some members were appliqueing by using buttonhole stitch. In their cases they made no allowance for raw edges when cutting, for the raw edges were covered by the buttonhole stitch. One member was making her quilt in outline stitch. Another member was filling in the traced outline with colored crayon. The crayon was set by pressing the material with a hot iron. Of all the methods the applique with invisible stitch was judged the prettiest.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Signature

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have just read in your column that it is very bad form for a woman, who is a widow, to use her first name in the form of her formal name. I have been a widow for nine years and have always used my first name in both business and social correspondence, as it was my impression that that was the correct thing to do. Please tell me if you think it is advisable for me to change the form after so long a time? W.

I wish that you had told me how you yourself feel about making this change, for this is really the answer to your question. I'd like to have you use the correct form, "and better late than never" is a good solution of this. But, on the other hand, I can well understand your hesitation about changing when you have used the other form for so long.

There is one more thing about making a change of this sort: it is true that usually we ourselves are more conscious of the change than our friends, and very soon and sometimes quite unconsciously, they became used to it and don't think much about the fact that there has ever been anything different.

Wedding Announcements

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A girl friend of mine is to be married very soon, but due to lack of money they cannot spend any money on a wedding.

1—She would like to know if it would be nice to send announcements, even though she cannot have anything else?

2—Who sends the announcements. G.

1—Yes, if she possibly can, it would be an exceedingly nice thing for her to have announcements. This won't be very much of an expense, and it does add such a dignified graciousness to the event. If you or she will send me the details for this, I'll be glad to help you and her further on it. (It isn't necessary, ever, in this column to give "real names" . . . just substitute any names).

2—Announcements are sent out by, and in the name of the parents of the bride.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Demountable eyelashes are interesting the sisters who would have long black curly eye fringes. Each individual factory hair is picked up with a pair of tweezers, the root plunged into a paste, placed among the home growth.

Dyed hair often makes a woman look older instead of younger. Hair of virgin color carries threads of varying shades; dyes give the halo one solid tone which, if it is very dark, makes the face look hard, shows up every line, every defect. There should be no hasty rushing to the dye pot, but a heavy think-over before the step is taken.

When ears are out in the open, serving as hold-backs for lovely tresses, they are entitled to the same care that the complexion receives, gentle creaming at night to keep the surface of the skin smooth, a fluff of powder so they will conform with the dull finish of the face, a touch of rosy bloom on the lobes so they won't look wan and pale. And, finally, a drop or two of the favorite perfume where it won't disturb makeup.

HOLIDAY LULL LIKELY IN STEEL

By B. E. V. LUTY

The official report of steel ingot production in November reflected a slightly better condition than the common appraisal and makes a brighter prospect for December, regularly an off month, than had been assumed.

Ingot output in November is reported at 18.05 per cent of capacity against exactly 19 per cent in October, the high month since May, the decrease in tonnage being 5 per cent, no more than could be attributed to purely seasonal influence. The outlook now is for a 16 per cent average in December rather than 15 per cent, which would put the month at two points over the low of last August. The present rate is fully 16 per cent, but a holiday lull is to be expected as usual.

The year's total production of all ingots promises to be about 13,300,000 gross tons, or 52 per cent of 1931, 34 per cent of 1930, 24 per cent of 1929 and 29 per cent of the seven-year average through 1929, representing by far the greatest period of sustained activity the steel industry ever had.

Since the October high, steel demand has merely slipped slightly at numerous points, there being no large losses while there has been an occasional increase, the only interesting one being in the automobile trade, and it is not large.

TRADE MORE CHEERFUL

The steel trade felt more cheerful this week as a result of the November showing in production and the close approach of January 1, a date which in both bad times and good times has always been followed promptly by a marked increase in demand. As merely seasonal increase would be followed by corresponding decrease to a low point in July this would only give the trade a breathing spell, but belief has always been strong in the steel trade that March is the best month of the year for beginning of substantial recovery from depression. A mild beginning is believed to have occurred in September, it being held that after allowance for seasonal variation not all of the recent gain has been lost. If after seasonal increase steel demand shows no tendency by April 1 to decrease the long range outlook will be very favorable.

With October as the low month in automobile production at 51,857 units, November is now roughly estimated at 60,000 and December forecast at 100,000. Production is governed by very conservative policies and the large seasonal increase would come after January.

NEW BUYING LIGHT

While actual closing of tin plate contracts for the new year has proceeded slowly since the $4.25 price announcement of November 17, the outlook has become good for rigid maintenance of the actual selling price. All prospects are for a substantial increase in demand over this year, but precise estimates are not made.

Strictly new fabricated structural steel lettings since September 1 have been at about three-fourths of the rate in the first eight months of the year and several large jobs are expected to be let soon.

Railroad buying of steel has been small in the last 60 days but represents an increase, as previously there was virtually none. Several rail releases are now expected in the West and hereabouts, for early rolling.

All finished steel prices have now been reaffirmed for the new quarter, largely as a routine matter, with two minor changes representing advances.

Dullness in the scrap market has been accentuated in the last three weeks and dealers are now offering heavy melting at $9, representing 25 cents decline in the week and 50 cents in a fortnight. There are hopes that mills will do some buying late this month.

Wholesale and Jobbing Trade Conditions

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Tabloid review of wholesale and retail business conditions as reported to Bradstreet's this week from the following centers, on the basis of comparisons with conditions in the same areas in the corresponding week last year:

	Whole. and Job. Trade	Retail Trade	Mfg. and Industry	Collections
Pittsburgh	Quiet	Quiet	Quiet	Slow
Chicago	Fair	Fair	Quiet	Slow
Cleveland	Quiet	Quiet	Quiet	Slow
Detroit	Quiet	Quiet	Quiet	Slow
Indianapolis	Quiet	Quiet	Quiet	Slow
Louisville	Quiet	Quiet	Quiet	Slow
Milwaukee	Quiet	Quiet	Quiet	Slow
Des Moines	Quiet	Quiet	Quiet	Slow
Duluth	Quiet	Quiet	Quiet	Slow
Kansas City	Quiet	Quiet	Quiet	Slow
Minneapolis	Quiet	Quiet	Quiet	Slow
Omaha	Quiet	Quiet	Quiet	Slow
St. Louis	Quiet	Fair	Quiet	Slow
St. Paul	Quiet	Fair	Quiet	Slow
Baltimore	Fair	Fair	Quiet	Slow

Pittsburgh—Steam coal less active, slack firmer, domestic egg and lump sizes moving well, coke output increases; department store trade disappointed with holiday buying; jewelry and silverware demand 25 per cent below 1931.

Chicago—Wholesale and retail distribution compares favorably with other years; automotive orders constitute main stimulus to steel industry; winter wheat acreage reduced.

Cleveland—Consolidation of motor truck industry results in additional orders; American Steel and Wire Company announced plans to move to Lorain in May, 1933; this will seriously affect employment.

Detroit—Retail trade seasonally enhanced; automobile manufacturers increasing production of 1933 models, with resultant improvement in payrolls; gains in auto employment offset by dullness in other industries; relief agencies heavily taxed.

DEMOCRATS ACT FOR UNITY

HARRISBURG, Dec. 10.—(INS.)—Democratic members of the Pennsylvania General Assembly will stand as a unit, Party leaders will draw up a program of legislation behind which the Democratic legislators will throw the full strength of the largest representation the party has had in the Legislature in many years.

Fifty-nine of the 65 Democratic assemblymen and three state senators met here last night and expressed the determination to conduct themselves in the assembly as a solid organization.

Representative Chester A. Rhodes, Monroe, was named chairman of the steering committee. Wilson G. Sarig, Berks, party floor leader in the House, warned the group:

"We have more power and thus more responsibility than ever before."

Appointments to the steering committee included that of J. L. Quinn, Allegheny County.

U.S. COURT ENDS BUSY SESSION

During the two weeks' session of Federal Criminal Court which ended yesterday United States Attorney L. E. Graham and his assistants presented 206 cases involving 275 defendants.

In 154 cases defendants pleaded guilty. In 30 jury trials there were 17 convictions, 11 acquittals, one jury disagreement and one case in the hands of a jury when court adjourned. There were four bond forfeitures, eight cases nolle prossed and 10 cases suppressed because of insufficient evidence.

Fines totaling $11,368, jail and penitentiary terms aggregating 12 years, nine months and seven days, and probation sentences totaling 123 years were imposed. Some of those convicted during the session have not been sentenced.

Former Oil City Man Ordained in Rome

OIL CITY, Pa., Dec. 10.—John Leo Anderton, 25, son of Mrs. Marian Anderton, was ordained a priest of the Roman Catholic Church at a ceremony performed yesterday in Rome by Cardinal Marchetti, vicar general. He will celebrate his first mass in St. Mary's Major Church, Rome. Father Anderton, a native of Oil City, was a member of the class of 1924 of St. Joseph's Academy.

COMMON STOCK HOLDINGS OF PUBLIC UP

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Canny investors who have acquired common stocks at panic levels can contribute to fulfilling their high expectations by quickening their own purchases of merchandise, according to Alvan Macauley, president of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce and head of the Packard Motor Car Company.

Mr. Rukeyser

In setting forth the competition between investing and spending, as it now confronts persons of some means, Mr. Macauley pointed out:

"A striking illustration of this basic confidence on the part of the public is the tremendous increase in the number of stockholders of American companies in the last few years.

BECOMING 'SPENDERS'

"Although there seems to have been a buyers' strike against almost all types of commodities, more people are investing in stocks which represent ownership of the companies producing those commodities. The answer is that for some time they have recognized that this has been a buyers' market so far as investments are concerned. They are now apparently coming to the delayed appreciation that buying household equipment, homes, automobiles and other essentials will give a maximum return for the dollar so invested."

In the good old "new era" days, men took fliers in automobile stocks and bought a car out of the speculative profits. Now it is urged that folks buy a car, and thus enable the motor car company, in which they have become stockholders, to make a profit. Of course, under existing depression conditions, only a minority of favorably circumstanced individuals still retain much discretion as to whether to buy or save.

UPHOLDS STOCK OWNERS

C. M. Chester, president, General Foods Corporation, referring to stockholder co-operation in sales building plans, says in Printers' Ink:

"Any impression that stockholders do not work gladly and aggressively for the company whose stock they own, has been pretty thoroughly disproved by our experience in working with stockholders over a number of years.

"Our stockholders have shown that they form an important market for the sale of their company's products. They definitely aid in gaining distribution for new items. Also they help in making studies and in furthering the development of their company's educational program."

CORN PRODUCTS IMPROVEMENT HOLDING

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Improvement which developed in the business of Corn Products Refining Company in the late summer has been maintained thus far in the final quarter of the year, and it now appears likely that domestic operations in that period will yield a profit equal to the $2,311,623, or 74 cents a common share, earned in the three months ended September 30, 1932.

For the full year indications now are that earnings will be somewhat under the $3 paid in dividends this year. Despite this, directors will probably declare the regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents when they meet late this month for dividend action.

DEALERS' STOCKS LOW

The final quarter's figures are subject to wider changes than the earlier periods of the year because

STOCK MARKET MOVEMENT NARROW

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Stocks turned slightly irregular in the early trading today, but price changes were confined in the main to narrow fractions.

Allied Chemical, American Telephone and Union Pacific slipped ½ point or more and United States Steel preferred was down nearly a point. Smaller losses were recorded in United States Steel common, Montgomery Ward, Case, American Can, New York Central and Southern Pacific. The motors were firm with General Motors up a fraction. Aviation Corporation, Electric Autolite and Santa Fe were also slightly higher. Trading was quiet.

In some Wall street quarters, the view was expressed that the winding up of the Coolidge committee's railroad conference had been fruitful in clarifying the positions of various transportation industries. The closing of the copper conference appeared to be received with mixed feelings. American producers had been skeptical of any definite agreement on production throughout. The industry's principal need, some producers pointed out, was a revival of general business. Pending that, it was indicated that domestic production would continue to be held down.

The week-end trade reviews were moderately encouraging in tone. Christmas trade was described as satisfactory.

The automobile industry furnished word that nearly 11,000 men had been recalled to work next week in the Detroit, Lansing and Toledo districts, preparatory to the year-end automobile shows which will display the new 1933 models.

Sterling cables opened 2 cents higher at 3.25⅝.

WHEAT GOING TO CHINA

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—The first shipment of wheat from the 6,500,000 bushels allotted for sale to China will probably go forward in January, George S. Milnor, general manager of the Farmers' National Grain Corporation, announced.

The sale was made possible by financial arrangements approved by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation yesterday. Milner said:

"Weeks ago, the members of 61 local wheat growers' associations affiliated with North Pacific Grain Growers, Inc., met and pledged themselves to supply the grain for delivery should this Chinese deal be completed. It is anticipated that the release of the purchase money for this wheat will have a highly beneficial effect upon agriculture and general business throughout the inland empire region, while the export of this volume of grain will appreciably reduce surplus stocks held in the Pacific Northwest."

CAR LOADINGS GAIN 53,579

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Loading of revenue freight during the week ended December 3 amounted to 547,461 cars and shows an increase of 53,579 cars over the week preceding (Thanksgiving week), but a decrease of 88,905 under the like 1931 week, according to the American Railway Association.

Benjamin Block Leaving 'Street'

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Benjamin Block will retire from the firm now bearing his name and from active participation in the "street," effective December 15, the present New York Exchange firm of Benjamin Block & Co., will be dissolved. It will be succeeded by Anderson, Block & Co., a new firm, composed of William B. Anderson, J. Horace Block, John L. Hay, Jr., Bernard Miller and M. William B. Giles. Messrs. Block, Miller and Giles are members of the present firm.

Colorado Project Will Aid Jobless

ORDWAY, Col.—(INS.)—A loan of $1,125,000 to the Twin Lakes Reservoir and Canal Company of Crowley County, Colorado, for the construction of a water diversion project has been approved by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. The task will give employment to several hundred men.

Week's New Bond Offerings Down

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Bond issues offered this week aggregated $5,768,000 against $9,944,000 in the preceding week, and $19,779,000 in the like 1931 period.

Board to Auction Coffee Next Week

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—The Grain Stabilization Corporation will hold on December 15 next, a second auction of 46,000 bags of coffee which remain unsold from the December quota of 62,500 bags.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

Retrospect

I see no cause to swing to bitterness,
Because your heart is barred and locked to me;
If now the wine seeps bitter from the press,
Then one must have the will to leave it be;
If I have failed to feed the glowing fire,
Can you be blamed if, shivering with cold,
You seek fulfillment of a new desire—
Forgetting the allurements of the old?

No, doubly no, and as you go your way,
I fill my pack with patches of the past;
Your wistful question on that autumn day
When, as we watched a sky go overcast,
You whispered: "If our love should blemish so—
Will we, my dear, be brave enough to go?"

—Don Wahn.

The Old Phoooffff!

A subscriber overheard a conversation between a chap and Ben Bernie the other day in Chicago. Bernie was asked why he was always on our neck, and he replied:

"Have you ever noticed two fellers on the street talking, and one of them is bored to death? Well, the OTHER guy is Winchell!"

Pressed further for his frank opinion of us, Bernie is supposed to have remarked:

"Well, frankly, I've quit using that language!"

Very clever. I wonder where Ben read it?

A Teddy Bear!

Ted Stillman has at last discovered the best way to refer to a Broadway "pal."

Call him a frienemy.

Nifties

Then there was the Scot, says Norman Sullivan, who opened a butcher shop so he could wear his straw hat all year around. . . Add Similes: Wore more jewelry than a pawnbroker's wife . . . As far apart as a fool and his money . . . Once upon a time, Mr. Winchell, we put statues of our great men in public parks. But nowadays most of them are sleeping there!

Tombstone Authors

Gene Burr, the drama critic for the Billboard, says there is a sorrowful feeling in reporting news of the theater profession—a premonition that we are hardly recording activities—but merely penning obits.

Salute

This probably is the first human story about Roxy ushers to appear in print. Two of them, John Mackson and James Woodward, are roommates. About four the other a. m., Mackson awoke doubled with fierce pain. His pal summoned a Flower Hospital ambulance.

The next day when a doctor phoned the Roxy to see if one of the boys would give Mackson some blood, McHale, the head usher, lined up his men with military precision.

"Volunteers step forward!" commanded McHale. The whole 50 stepped forward.

Woodward was selected.

Americanese

Alexander Gottlieb avers he overheard it at a recruiting station.

"What do you mean—join the Navy, and get an education?"

"Well," well'd the guy in charge, "they learn you English!"

Girls Are Like That

So many books unread on my shelf,
I'm glad to have a night to myself;
So many things I've wanted to do,
Little things, painting the kitchen blue;
Pasting in scrapbooks, mending my hose . . .
The ending to this everyone knows—
"If that's Jack calling, don't send him home!"
Where is my powder—where is my comb?

—Sis Willner.

A Form of Criticism

J. M. Josefsberg asserts that he heard Broadway analyzed a new way last night. He was told that getting a Broadway atmosphere was like getting a cheap suit, except that in a cheap suit it takes two to three months for the shine to wear on, and with Broadway it takes the same time for the shine to wear off.

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

A photoplay that is particularly interesting just at this time is "The Conquerors," now showing on the Stanley screen, with Richard Dix and Ann Harding as the co-featured stars, but with Edna May Oliver and Guy Kibbee practically running away with all the acting honors. It is particularly interesting because its earlier scenes are laid in the period of 1873 and the atmosphere of the financial crash that made that year historical. Furthermore, it pays pointed, though transitory, attention, to all the industrially depressed periods from that time to the present.

Yet it is not a picture of depression but of recovery, of pioneers, of creators, of builders—of conquerors. Conquerors of fear, of obstacles to progress, of seen and unseen enemies of peaceful social order. It is rapid view of the picture of America for a period of 60 years, of the transformation of the Middle West from a condition of unbroken soil, of the development of transportation, of the sweat and blood of our fathers, of the bearing of children by our mothers—of our very life over the span of a lifetime.

ROMANCE OF YEARS

Of course there is, too, the love romance of the principal characters, deeply rooted affection that outlasted the life of one of them, and extended to the third generation. That is perhaps the explanation of why Mr. Dix and Miss Harding fare comparatively so meagerly histrionically—they are so much the ordinary figures of everyday life that their worth scarcely seems to register.

Mr. Dix has the part of a young bank clerk in love with his employer's daughter and driven from her home by her father. But when the panic of '73 hits him the young people are on the same level financially. So they wed and hit the trail westward. There he becomes a banker—on nothing but nerve—and grows up with the country. And that's all there really is to the story—the growing up of this country banker and his family, and the country itself. Attending the growth are tragedy and happiness, birth and death—life as we know it.

MISS OLIVER WINS

For both Mr. Dix and Miss Harding the picture is something to be thankful for in comparison to some of their recent vehicles. For Edna May Oliver it is a triumph similar to that she achieved in "Cimarron." Her role is that of the keeper of a country "hotel" and the wife of a small-town doctor, played by Guy Kibbee, a man who loves his cup, a lovable sot who achieves the stigma of dunce and the crown of hero through one wave of the hand of fate.

It is a fine picture.

Trotzky Talk On Screen

THE GLOBE TROTTER

Hearst Metrotone News, in its current issue, presents the first interview with Leon Trotzky, exiled Soviet war chief now on his way back to his retreat in Turkey. After weeks of ceaseless effort the former Red leader in the great Russian upheaval was photographed by Hearst Metrotone News in his hotel in Copenhagen, Denmark.

The new Conti di Savoia, first "anti-seasick" liner ever built, is shown as she makes her first visit to New York. Three giant Sperry gyroscopes keep her on an even keel in the rough seas. The Globe Trotter supplies all the details.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt is seen and heard leading the weekly "sing" in the Town Hall, New York. The future first lady leads the audience in the old favorite, "There's a Long, Long Trail."

Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, at a meeting of the National Committee of the Women's Organization for Prohibition Reform, held in Princeton, N. J., rallies her forces for a new drive on Congress for the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

There are pictures from Washington of the parade of the "hunger" marchers.

Under a blazing sun visitors to Mimia, Fla., engage in all kinds of water sports.

Food Admits To Show

There will be a big charity Sunday movie show in the Warner Theater, where, from 2 until 11 p. m., there will be a public presentation of a screen bill, the feature of which will be "Deception," featuring Thelma Todd, Leo Carillo, Dickie Moore and Nat Pendleton.

Money will not be accepted for admission, but food or articles of clothing will be taken at the door instead. These will be distributed among the needy of Pittsburgh. The food must be of an imperishable nature, such as smoked meats or canned goods. Clothing may be either new or used, but, of course, it must be serviceable.

All of the intake will go to the purpose to which the entertainment is dedicated, as the theater and the services of all who will be concerned in the presentation of the show, are being donated. All Warner employes, from projectionists and stage hands to ushers and "ticket takers," will give their united efforts for nothing but the good of the cause.

"Deception" is the story of a man who is "framed into fame," and, finding himself "sitting pretty," wears his unearned laurels not wisely but too flagrantly. Of course, there is a woman in it, two women, in fact, in the persons of Thelma Todd and Barbara Weeks. Leo Carillo, veteran actor of the stage and screen, has the central role, that of a crooked promoter behind the strange career of the "famous" one, played by Nat Pendleton. Bryan Foy produced the picture for Columbia.

The program will contain all the elements of a well-balanced bill, including Harry Sweet in "Firehouse Honeymoon," news reel, a novelty film, and a Betty Boop comedy.

Bills Change On Screen

A new double feature bill, Jack Oakie in "Once In a Lifetime," and Doug Fairbanks, Jr., in "Scarlet Dawn," begins in the Davis and Regent today.

Boris Karloff in "The Mask of Fu Manchu" is on the Sheridan Square screen today, to stay through Tuesday.

"Tess of the Storm Country," with Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell, will be the Enright screen feature today, Monday and Tuesday.

"Take a Look," new musical burlesque in the Academy, will open with a Sunday midnight show.

Quillan Ends Long Loaf

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 10.—Tired of idleness on full pay, Eddie Quillan was rushing around Hollywood spreading the glad news that he is to go into the Charles R. Rogers production, "Strictly Personal."

His first camera-work in almost a year, this picture will find Eddie working for his old Pathe boss and under Ralph Murphy, who directed one of his most successful comedies, "The Big Shot."

These two considerations played an important part in persuading the Harold Lloyd Company to let Eddie make a picture for someone else. Planning to star him early next year in a comedy of his own, the organization has turned down two offers from Universal and one from MGM for the part that Ernest Truex finally got in "Whistling in the Dark."

Despite those denials from Florida, it still is a hot deal for Marjorie Rambeau, another old Pathe player, to return to the screen in "Strictly Personal." Charles R. Rogers has every hope that she yet will succumb to his offer and to the lure of the camera.

* * *

In a community which is often depicted as selfish and self-centered, it is warming to see everyone, from star to prop-boy, pulling for Jack Gilbert to get a good picture. And now, at last, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer believes it has the right vehicle in "Rivets," a play by John McDermott. As shooting will start almost immediately, you can count Jack out as a possible leading man for Joan Crawford.

Cowboy Films By Cowboys

Western adventure stories, made by western adventurers themselves, is the new slogan at RKO Radio Pictures.

Otto Brower, who is to direct Tom Keene's forthcoming production, "Scarlet River," and Keene himself are both former sons of the cattle ranges and great open spaces.

Brower was a cattle baron in Montana. Fifteen years ago he had huge herds and vast land holdings near Miles City.

Keene has been a cowboy in Montana, Colorado and the Dakotas.

The film is slated to go into production soon with Julie Haydon and Creighton Chaney in the supporting cast.

In Sunday Program for Charity

Nat Pendleton, Thelma Todd and Leo Carillo in "Deception," photoplay feature of the program to be given in the Warner Theater Sunday for the benefit of the poor of Pittsburgh, admission to be an article of clothing or imperishable food.

Broadways Of the World — All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

EXCELSIOR HOTEL, ROME, ITALY.—Well, your humble correspondent is now a full-fledged movie star. Nobody ever heard of me upon the screen—and it's a thousand to one that nobody ever will. But regardless of that, nobody can take away the fact that for the past two days I have been an outstanding success in the Roman world.

Right here and now I'm going to promise you that I will not write too often about my movie experiences. If something happens that is particularly amusing, I'll send it along to you. Mr. Cozine, my director, and Signor Romognoli, my cameraman, are going with me through Northern Africa and France. But if our combined picture experiences do not provide interesting material, you'll hear no more about the movies.

I must tell you, though, that if this isn't the goofiest picture expedition that ever shot a scene, it will certainly do until a goofier one comes along. Mr. Cozine speaks nothing but English, I speak nothing but profane, and Signor Romognoli speaks nothing but Italian.

As I told you yesterday, Signor Romognoli knows but one word of English—and that word is "How!" Why he picked out that particular word to learn is something I am unable to tell you. You'd think that if a guy set out to master one word in a language he'd learn something that carried some weight.

But not Signor Romognoli—or "Rummy," which is the nickname I gave him the first day he was with me. Rummy listens gravely to your questions, nods as though his understanding was perfect, puts up his right hand and cries "How?" precisely as if he were delivering the Gettysburg address.

Thus you have a situation that sometimes becomes a bit difficult. Mr. Cozine comes upon a scene that he wants to photograph. I yell to the chauffeur, who stops the car. Mr. Cozine punches Rummy in the ribs, which is the signal that we are about to work. I tumble from the machine and look around to make certain there are no policemen in the vicinity. They give you every aid in photographing beauty over here—but they object strenuously to any scenes that depict poverty or realism.

The scene may be two old women who are arguing over a piece of meat. Mr. Cozine keeps punching Rummy in the ribs in order to hurry him along. I am supposed to come between the two women and settle the argument. When everything is finally ready, Mr. Cozine yells, "Okay. Shoot!"

Whereupon Rummy, instead of taking the scene, raises his right hand and says, "How!" The two old women walk away. A policeman turns the corner—and we're finished in that locality for the time being.

Oh, well, I guess it all comes under the head of experience.

It's really remarkable, though, how practically everyone knows a motion picture outfit immediately. Yesterday afternoon, for example, we drove about 20 miles out of Rome in order to get a few scenes in the rural districts.

During the drive we turned the corner of a mountain and came upon a large Italian family in one little donkey cart.

The scene was an amusing one, so we stopped the car and I walked over to the gentleman who was driving the cart. I asked him if he spoke any English. He said he spoke a little.

"Good," I returned. "I want make little picture of you and family. Drive donkey back there. Turn donkey around. Drive donkey back here. Tell family no look in camera. Thank you."

The farmer did exactly as he was told. He was a better actor, in fact, than half the leading men in Hollywood. After the scene had been taken I stepped up to the gentleman and handed him 10 lire, which is a big tip for the service he had rendered.

"Here you are, buddy," I said jovially. "Buy a cigar."

He looked at the coin and pointed to the camera.

"Cinema camera, no?" he inquired. Moving picture?"

"That's right," I replied.

He thrust the 10 lire back into my hand.

"No enough!" he cried. "For work in cinema, my price 10 cigar!" . . .

It was at the race track this afternoon, however, that I had one of the best experiences of the trip thus far.

The afternoon was beautiful, and, as usual, it was a holiday. Yet I don't think there were 500 people in the immense place—and few of them bet more than 50 cents a race. For example, after the mutuel odds had been posted after one race, I looked at the figures on one large mutuel booth that employed some seven men. The total amount wagered in that booth on the race in question had been 277 lire, or about $13.75 in our money. That's plunging for you!

The races are all fraternal affairs, and the same horses run against each other day after day. The jockeys have a drink together before the race and another one after the race has been run. Accordingly, every horse wins in his proper turn—and there is no excitement about anything.

It's really a fine system. They probably copied it from the American system, which is almost the same thing. . . .

The fourth race of the day was the big event, and it was directly after the running of the feature that the excitement started. Mr. Cozine had decided to shoot the finish of the race. He planted Rummy and the camera directly on the rail, and, by means of different nudges and a left jab to the nose, indicated what was wanted.

Everything went beautifully. Rummy kept grinding away as the horses walked leisurely by in a lightning finish. I nodded approvingly as I saw my horse finish last by 20 lengths.

Two minutes later, there was trouble. Two gentlemen with large badges marched over to Rummy and began to question him loudly. A crowd gathered. I saw the cameraman shrug his shoulders and point to me. Whereupon the officials marched over to me and began to fire Italian at me in a most amazing fashion.

Mr. Cozine stood manfully by my side. He knew no more about the reason for all this than I did. The officials demanded my passport. I produced it. Mr. Cozine produced his. The crowd grew larger, and more threatening.

"If a fight starts," I muttered to Mr. Cozine, "let's sock the officials first. We'll get that in before we get murdered."

He nodded—but no fight started. The officials took us all to the gate of the track and asked us to leave. And it was then that I learned the cause of the trouble.

Because we had placed our cameras on the rail, the officials had accused us of fixing the race. It seems that the wrong horse had come in first!

Beery Fights To Victory In Penn

By GEORGE SEIBEL

It almost looks as if the Eighteenth Amendment had already been repealed during the first half of Wallace Beery's new picture, "Flesh," which opened at the Penn yesterday, but that's because the first half of the picture is laid in the Fatherland, where Wallace is the star attraction of a big beer hall. Not only does he meet all comers who will wrestle with him, but in his spare time he walks around among the guests with a huge barrel of beer on his shoulders to refresh the thirsty.

Mr. Seibel

Among the guests is Karen Morley, evanescent and frail, who has just been discharged from a German prison, where her lover is still languishing. Karen can't pay 8½ marks, the amount of the check for the food she has eaten, and the proprietor is going to have her arrested—but Polakai, that's Beery, pays for her. Afterward, to protect her from the police, and because she has nowhere else to go, he takes her to his home. There's a great heart in his bulky frame, even his white cat knows that and imposes on his hospitality.

Karen's lover gets out through Polakai's help, and pretends he is Karen's brother. But when he learns there is to be a child, he borrows money from Polakai and flits to America. Then Karen marries the wrestler—and there are some touching hospital scenes—and then they all go to America with the baby. There the lover comes on the scene again—and tries to make a crooked wrestler of Wallace Polakai. Who would have thought Ricardo Cortez could be such a villain!

Of course Polakai floors all his opponents in many fierce matches, and in the end he kills the dastardly Ricardo, and Karen comes to see him in prison and loves him more than ever. So the happy ending is only postponed a little while—and everybody is pleased, because "Flesh" is a stirring picture, well directed, finely acted by the principals, with some help from Jean Hersholt and Vincent Barnett, and it shows up the crooked wrestlers, too, for the greater glory of the Fatherland. Hoch sollen sie leben!

Lively Film In Warner

By MARY SHINE

"Central Park" began a week's reign in the Warner yesterday. The action takes place in New York's Central Park and it is a wild and woolly tale, a crazy jumble of shootings, lootings, an escaped lunatic, a rampaging lion and a little heart interest thrown in helter-skelter.

Joan Blondell is the blonde heroine in this mad scramble, as a little girl out of work who meets Wallace Ford, a boy out of work, in the park. They fall in love quicker than—this. Along comes a crew of thugs disguised as detectives, who offer Joan $100 to help them do something or other for the good of humanity, just what is never quite clear, but she falls for it. The thugs later kidnap Wallace Ford, and he escapes after learning who they really are and that his girl friend is unknowingly aiding them in a robbery.

Meanwhile, an insane keeper in the zoo looses a lion just to complicate things. To make a long story short, the lion is caught, the robbers are caught, a kindly cop, played by Guy Kibbee, is shot, and after that Wallace looks at Joan, and she looks at him, and there you have "Central Park."

BALL CARRIERS GIVE EDGE TO IRISH

IT LOOKS LIKE anybody's football game, and one that may swing to either side, with the breaks as the determining factor, but if Hunk Anderson can send the Notre Dame players on the field against Southern California at Los Angeles today in the same mental attitude they were in when they met Army, the chances will appear to favor an Irish victory. Granting that the two great lines are about equal, Notre Dame gets the edge through having the better ball carriers. Howard Jones has an undeniably god set of leather toters in Griffith, Warburton, Bright, McNeish, Erskine, Clemens, Clark and Getz, but they don't match such an array as Murphy, Jaskwhich, Lukats, Brancheau, Sheeketski, Koken, Banas and Melinkovich.

Hunk Anderson

Notre Dame has 18 men who played against Southern California before. The Trojans have only nine who played against the Irish, and you've got to face the South Bend system a time or two before you can know what it's all about. From last year's lineup the Irish lost Schwartz, Culver, Yarr and Hoffman. The Trojans parted with twice as many—Baker, Williamson, Arbelbide, Shaver, Mohler, Pinckert, Musick and Mallory.

IN WINNING 18 straight games, Southern California has scored 12 shutouts and made 509 points to 52 for opponents. In their last 18 games the South Benders have scored 13 shutouts and made 495 points to 56 for opponents. That shows how evenly matched the teams are from year to year.

There's a shade for Notre Dame on paper in quality of interchangeable backs and in grade of general replacements, which makes the Irish look like probable winners over the Trojans' climate advantage. But football dope is not to be trusted. It's all likely to hinge on spirit, mental pitch and the breaks.

WHEN KID CHOCOLATE retained the featherweight championship by winning a 15-round decision over Fidel La Barba in New York last night, the first time that title crown had been defended by a Negro since George Dixon faced Terry McGovern in 1900, he proved his title rights and made it pretty clear that he is the class of his field.

The only weakness they could ever find in Chocolate was an apparent inability to stand body punishment. Having beaten La Barba, the best body puncher among the 126-pounders, he would appear to have nothing to fear from any of the others.

IN EXPLANATION OF their failure so far to consummate any of the numerous deals they had assured their patrons would be made with a view to building up the Giants into pennant contenders for 1933, New York club officials are telling the home fans that all they got from other clubs was a carload of sympathy—that nobody would give up in exchange for Giant trading material anything like its real worth. Perhaps if the New York management were to make public what it demanded for the players it wanted to swap, it might be shown that the shoe was on the other foot, and that it was merely a case of the other clubs refusing to pay more than the value of the stuff offered.*

Rabbit Maranville

THOUGH REPEATING THAT he has no intention of letting Rabbit Maranville get away, Bill McKechnie admits he would like to get enough infield man power to make it possible for the Braves to work Maranville on a part-time system. He would prefer to use the Rabbit only against left-hand pitching.

The Braves declare that if Rabbit had to face only southpaws he would hit better than .300, and they insist that the records will bear them out in that assertion. Maranville hits the fork-handers freely, and it doesn't make any difference how good they are. They all look alike to him. It's the right-handers that pull his average down. Against side-arming right-handers, in particular, they say, the Rabbit doesn't do so well.

BEFORE THE 1932 football season started, Big Ten coaches voted for the fast whistle, but some of them yelped when it hurt them in games, and probably they'll ask for a change for next year. Split-second decisions by the officials on the ball being dead played an important part in a number of Conference games.

Tackled while fading back for a pass, Newman, of Michigan, threw the ball into the air and it was intercepted by Auguston, of Northwestern, but the ball had been blown dead and Michigan retained it where Newman was caught. Rentner, of Northwestern, fumbled a Purdue punt as he was tackled and Purdue recovered on the enemy's nine-yard line, but the whistle had blown the ball dead before Rentner let it get away from him. Purdue might have scored from there. The game ended in a tie and cost Purdue a deadlock for the Big Ten championship.

A WISCONSIN PLAYER caught a pass and then fumbled when he was tackled, Minnesota recovering, but the ball was blown dead in Wisconsin's possession and that team retained it to continue a march to the winning touchdown. A similar play occurred in the Michigan-Minnesota game, Michigan recovering on a Minnesota fumble, but this time the whistle was slower and Michigan was allowed to keep the ball. It killed Minnesota's best chance to score in the game that decided the title. The whistle was also slower in the Nebraska-Minnesota game. Robinson caught a pass and was tackled, but before the ball could be whistled dead he made a lateral pass that resulted in a touchdown.*

THOUGH PITTSBURGH HAS checked out of hockey for the time being, local fans are following with interest the games played elsewhere, and they have found much to talk about in a novel maneuver made recently by Manager Les Patrick, of the New York Rangers. It was nothing less than a six-man offense—a team without a goalie.

With the score 4 to 3 in favor of the Chicago Black Hawks, Patrick called Goalie Andy Aikenhead to the sidelines and sent out six active skaters in a drive to knot the count in the last three minutes to play. Five forwards and one defense man, Doug Brennan, were sent on the ice.

BRENNAN WORKED FROM up near his own blue line and center ice, as Bill Slocum describes it, while the five forwards carried on an assault on the Chicago nets. Whenever the Hawks attempted a counter offensive, Brennan skated back to the Ranger cage and set himself in position to prevent any scoring.

Les Patrick

The effort failed to bring victory or the hoped for tie, as the Hawks concentrated on defensive play, which successfully checked the Rangers' drive and held the one-point lead safe to the finish.

"THE STRATEGY WAS not entirely new," Patrick explains. "It had been tried before. Naturally, we weakened our defense, but we added a lot of strength to the attack. We needed a goal to tie the score, and it made little difference whether the score was 4 to 3 or 5 to 3 if we lost. Our aim was to score. I believe it is sound strategy, and we'll not hesitate to put the plan in operation again at the right time. But I'll not say that we'll employ it in every game when the Rangers are trailing. It might be more difficult to operate that way against one team than against another. There are some dangers to be considered, as well as scoring possibilities."*

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Coach Heartley (Hunk) Anderson led his influenza-ridden Notre Dame football team witnin the ramparts of Troy to do battle today with the University of Southern California.

More than 100,000 were expected to sit in on the struggle which may have important bearing on the mythical national championship.

Weather permitting—and forecasts made no mention of rain—this record crowd hoped to see two stalwart elevens tussle to a draw on running plays and settle their differences through the air, with the invading Ramblers 10 to 7 favorites.

TROJANS HEAVIER

Barring further and uninvited precipitation, the field will be fast and the weather crisp for the torrid struggle, which will see Notre Dame endeavor to terminate the Trojans' string of 18 consecutive triumphs just as these same Southern Californians abruptly ended the Rambler reign after going through 26 games unbeaten.

Southern California boasted the advantage in weight, averaging 195 pounds to 187 for Notre Dame. Superior speed and experience seemed to balance the ledger in behalf of the invaders. The Trojans have won all of their eight games this year. The Ramblers lost only to Pittsburgh in as many contests.

Despite the talk of influenza in the Notre Dame ranks as the team moved westward, Coach Anderson feels he will be able to start his eleven at full strength. Coach Howard Jones' players also are in top form.

IRISH HOLD EDGE

Notre Dame holds a convincing edge in the six games of the series between the two schools, winning four of them. There have been no ties.

The two veteran lines appear evenly matched. But Southern California's backfield quartet is composed of men who did not participate in Troy's 16-to-14 victory last year.

Coach Anderson said he might start Joe Sheeketski and Nick Lukats at the halfback posts, Emmett Murphy at quarter and Steve Banas at full.

Bob Erskine and Kenneth Bright, two men transplanted from the line, probably will be Southern California's halfbacks, with Homer Griffith calling signals, and Gordon Clark, formerly a blocking half, at fullback.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE SHUBENACADIE BORE—The Shubenacadie River, a tributary of the Bay of Fundy, presents at its mouth the phenomenon of a Bore—a wall of water six feet high which apparently rolls uphill. The Bore is a result of the high tides of the bay battling the fresh water of the river. THE LAST OF A VANISHED RACE—The Beothucks, original inhabitants of Newfoundland at the time of John Cabot's discovery, have vanished completely after continuing to occupy the country for nearly three and a half centuries. In 1823, the last representatives of the race—a woman and two daughters—were the guests of a resident of St. John's. They departed for the purpose of joining their tribe. The woman and one of her daughters died after all attempts to locate their kin proved unavailing. The sole remaining member of the Boethuck race, Shanawdithit, survived them by about five years. With her death disappeared the last vestige of her people. EVANGELINE—The real name of the Acadia heroine was Emmeline Labiche, which name still survives in the traditions of the Acadian refugees in Lousiana. When Longfellow began his famous poem he was undecided as to the name of the heroine. He wavered between Gabrielle and Clestin, and finally decided upon the latter. However, in 1847, he changed his choice to Evangeline for reasons of euphony.

By JESS CARVER

There is nothing much that can be done about it, but another college basketball season has dropped in, and what is more, figures to hang around for the remainder of the winter.

Dom Smith

The season puts on its inaugural flourishes in the Pitt Stadium Pavilion today as the Panthers and their coach, Dr. H. C. Carlson, present their annual basketball clinic as an all-day affair, and this evening, match strength with the Georgetown University Hoyas. The Hoyas, by the way, were numbered among the teams able to conquer Pitt last year.

The Panther coach, who lugs more color along with him than a Christmas tie, expects another "win 'em all" season and has his varsity performers thinking along the same lines.

A fine turnout was on hand for the clinic, which was sent whizzing on its way this morning as Dr. Carlson delivered a rousing address. An address so early in the morning has to be rousing for even basketball coaches, of which there were more than 100 present, like to be drowsy Saturday mornings.

HANNUM TO SPEAK

The clinic plans call for a full program of exhibitions, explanations, speeches and experiments during the day, with a dinner in the university safetira this evening. Among the speakers, beside Dr. Carlson, were Coaches Davies, of Duquesne; Wolf, of Waynesburg; Loeffler, of Geneva; Dr. George Kowallis, of Pitt, and Maxie Hannum, of Carnegie Tech.

By way of adding a distinctive touch to the affair, the clinic will be closed with a program of boxing bouts, eight in all, between members of the Pitt varsity and freshmen ring squads under the tutelage of Joe Orsini.

The program of the bouts follows:

115 pound class: Herbert Peale vs. Russell Cogele.
118 pound class: Charles Junge vs. Fabian Mihelic.
135 pound class: George Giambalese vs. John Brailler; William Evans vs. Bernard Speigel.
145 pound class: Archie Moeller vs. Abe Kenick; William Schwiner vs. Clem Edgar.
160 pound class: Harry Richart vs. Charles Leape.
175 pound class: Sam Mazzenula vs. Albert Sloniker.

Coach Carlson has his varsity squad in excellent trim for tonight's Eastern Intercollegiate Conference inaugural with the dangerous Hoyas. Capt. Don Smith's ailing back isn't so ailing, and the star Bellevue lad will be able to start at one of the forwards if Dr. Red so elects. Young Skippy Hughes, a sophomore, will be at the other. If Smith remains on the bench, Whitey Wilson will go in his place.

CRIBBS AT CENTER

Claire Cribbs, another sophomore, is to handle the center job, with Don McCamant and Russ Ochsenhirt at the guards. With Smith in there, the Panthers will present a lineup of six-footers.

Georgetown has an experienced and accomplished quintet in town for the game and, led by Lee Carolan (no relation of Sunny Carolina), figures to furnish the Panthers with as rugged an opening game test as they've ever experienced. In fact, the contest looks, from this rocking chair, very much like a tossup.

If you ain't in the Pavilion by 8:15, you'll be late.

SOUTHERNERS QUIT CIRCUIT

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 10.—(AP.)—The long rumored break within the Southern Conference has occured.

Thirteen institutions officially presented their resignations last last night and announced the formation of a new group to be known as the Southeastern Conference. Colleges which withdrew from the parent conference were: Alabama, Auburn, Tennessee, Sewanee, Vanderbilt, Kentucky, Florida, Georgia, Georgia Tech, Louisiana State, Tulane, Mississippi and Mississippi State.

Dr. John J. Tigert, president of the University of Florida, spoke for the new group and presented the resignations of the other members at the annual banquet last night.

Mohler To Appear In Irish-Trojan Fray Today

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Orville Mohler, University of Southern California star quarterback, who was forced to discontinue football this fall because of an injury to his back, will appear in the Trojan-Notre Dame game today for a kick-off through the courtesy of Coach Hunk Anderson, of the Ramblers.

The Trojan signal caller will hold the ball for Ernie Smith, all-America tackle, on the opening kickoff if Southern California wins the toss. After the one play he will scoot over to the sidelines for the remainder of the game.

CARNERA BEATS LEVINSKY

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Primo Carnera has a second victory over King Levinsky. Levinsky has the satisfaction of knowing he put up a fight good enough to have the crowd for him even if the judges and referee were not and both have increased bankrolls today.

Levinsky tried desperately to blow up the man-mountain from Italy last night, but wound up loser of a close decision, and a hero to the 13,500 spectators.

The decision, unanimous with the two judges and referee, was greeted with boos, while Levinsky received cheers as he left the ring. Carnera won a decision over the Chicagoan here a year ago.

The ex-fish peddler, trying desperately for a knockout, exploded his dynamite in the first round when he clipped Garnera with a right to his chin, making his knees buckle. Before the round ended he nailed Carnera with another savage right, but was unable to upset him.

Ran Stops Edmans In Fifth Round

DETROIT, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Eddie Ran, introduced as the European welterweight champion, knocked out Rube Edmans, of Muskegon, Mich., in the fifth round of a scheduled 10-round bout here last night. Ran weighed 144 pounds; Edmans 147.

The bout was substituted for a contest between Teddy Yarosz, of Pittsburgh, and Paulie Walker, of Trenton, N. J., after Yarosz' manager refused to let him fight, insisting that he was suffering from a bad cold.

As a result of failing to go through with the match, Yarosz has been suspended by the N. B. A. in all 31 of its states until he fulfills his contract here.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Somewhere in the course of the interesting life story of Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight champion of the world, now appearing in these sport pages, will be told the tale of that young man's only defeat in a ring battle.... It was by the late Harry Greb, of Pittsburgh, the most glamorous boxing figure this city has produced.... It was their first meeting.... They boxed four times later, with Tunney winning three decisions and also the next to last contest, a no-decision affair.... Three of these bouts were staged in New York over the 15-round route, in the old Madison Square Garden, and the other two in Cleveland and St. Paul, both limited to 10 rounds.

This was one of the most intense rivalries in the history of boxing in America. Through it the men acquired a fine respect for each other and, when Greb died suddenly, Tunney, then the heavyweight champion of the world, came on to Pittsburgh to serve as a pall bearer for the whirlwind who had given him many of his most anxious moments.

Next Monday night, one Jack Gagnon, of Boston, boxes Tony Galento, roly-poly, hard-hitting heavyweight, of Newark, N. J., in one of several 10-round bouts at the Arena in Philadelphia.... His appearance there is of historic interest, for it will be remembered that, two years ago, Gagnon was the author of one of the most sensational upsets in the annals of the sport in Philadelphia, long a leading center of fistic activity.... On that occasion, he was paired with Tuffy Griffith, of Chicago, who was being touted as a surefire comer in the heavyweight ranks.

The Philadelphia fans regarded Gagnon as a setup and remained away from the bout in gangs, mobs, crowds and droves... Imagine their surprise, not to mention embarrassment, when they picked up the newspapers the next morning to learn that Gagnon had knocked out the favorite in the fifth round... The bout started out as expected, with Griffith outclassing his none too fancy opponent... Led into a false sense of security, he became careless, and left himself open for a finishing punch... They were rematched later for a bout in Chicago, for which Gagnon received the largest purse of his career, and Griffith won easily, punching the Bostonian all over the ring... Gagnon is mainly a puncher, and, in meeting Galento, he faces an opponent of his own type... A lot of fireworks should feature the match.

Regardless of what may develop in the football game between Notre Dame and Southern California at Los Angeles this afternoon, one thing is certain, and that is that it hardly can be expected to be as big a thriller as that between the same two elevens last fall, when the Trojans came from behind to score 16 points in the final period and win, 16-14... The Irish appeared to have the game sewed up as they entered the closing period leading, 14-0, but the Trojans scored two touchdowns and a field goal and pulled the battle out of the fire... It was one of those games you read about in story books. —HARRY KECK.

NORTH, SOUTH TEAMS SET

BALTIMORE, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—A wet, sticky snow began falling in Baltimore this morning, giving promise of disagreeable weather for the North-South football game this afternoon. By mid-morning the ground was covered and the temperature hovered around the freezing mark.

The two teams clashed in friendly rivalry unmindful of sectional disagreement of other years. The game brought to a close the football days of the college men, as all of them are seniors and have completed their regular season with their schools.

Neither team was favored by football coaches and fans who had looked both over during the drills of the past week.

Jock Sutherland, of Pittsburgh, coach of the blue-jerseyed Northerners, had a crack backfield of brilliant allround players, while Dick Harlow, of Western Maryland, coach of the gray-clad Southerners, placed his confidence in a heavy line.

Both teams used a form of the Warner system with its double wingback formation on the attack. The probable lineup:

North		South
Aufman, Geneva	L.E.	Swayze, Miss.
Wilbur, Yale	L.T.	Leyndker, Vand.
Yablonski, Penn.	L.G.	Koppe, W. Md.

COAST TOURNEY NEAR FINAL

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Quarter-final round competition in the annual San Francisco open golf tournament is on tap for today with many of the pre-tournament favorites already listed among the eliminated.

In today's quarter-finals, Johnny McHugh, of San Diego, meets W. J. Schwartz, of St. Louis; Mortie Dutra, of Long Beach, engages Al Espinosa, of Akron; Leo Diegel, of Agua Caliente, takes on Craig Wood, of Deal, N. J., and Romie Espinosa, of San Francisco, meets Willie Hunter, of Los Angeles.

In the biggest upset of yesterday, Johnny McHugh, San Diego pro, defeated Olin Dutra, of Santa Monica, Cal., 3 and 2, in the third round.

Leo Diegel remained in the running by defeating Robert Sweeny, of London, last of the amateurs, 2 up. Thse Agua Caliente pro defeated Dick Goggin, San Francisco, 5 and 4 in this morning's round.

TUNNEY WRITES OF THRILL OF CONQUEST IN RING

EARLY WINS SWEET AS LATE ONES

SYNOPSIS

The author has sketched his boyhood days, when the Hudson River was his swimmin' hole enlivened often with impromptu scraps, until he left school at 15 to become a $5-a-week office boy. His first ring idol was Jack Goodman, New York's famed West Side lightweight of two decades ago. Two Willies—Ward and Green—help Gene in his fistic infancy. Boxes at his first smoker for the K. of C. His ginger ale-and-sandwich fighting days. Young Gene scores a K.O. in "A Stag at Sharkey's" and wins in his Fairmont A. C. debut. . . . At 18, fans say Tunney is "fast and clever, but has no punch."

By GENE TUNNEY
Retired Heavyweight Champion.

CHAPTER SIX

It might be pertinent to mention that the Fairmont Athletic Club was the plaything of the then politically prominent and wealthy Billy Gibson. Billy, who had many business irons in the fire, ran the Fairmont Athletic Club as a hobby. The matchmaker was Tom McArdle, lately matchmaker for Madison Square Garden. If Gibson saw me that night I know I made no impression on him, for later when I became associated with him he said:

Gene Tunney

"No, I don't remember ever seeing you in the Fairmont Club."

But why should the then "Mayor of the Bronx" remember a preliminary boxer?

With the few dollars I got for this match I bought two sets of boxing gloves for the recreation center, as the board of education refused to supply gloves for any municipal gymnasium.

Because many Greenwich Villagers had found their way to the Fairmont Club that night to see their boy box, thereby helping to swell the gate receipts, Tom McArdle asked Billy Jacobs a month later to get me to box again. So Jacobs, assisted by O'Brien and Willie Green, persuaded me to take another six-round match.

THRILLS AT VICTORY

I had now begun to feel the ecstasy of victory. It was as great after the victories over Dawson and Rowe as it later was over Greb, Gibbons and Dempsey. This ecstasy is measured by the importance one attaches to each effort. The Dawson and the Rowe matches, as physical efforts, were just as important to me as the later outstanding matches of my career.

There is something glorious about victory. Unless one has felt the experience of the victory that follows a contest between two evenly-matched and well-trained men, it will be hard for him to understand the fascination of this emotion. Most people are interested in contrasts. I happen to be one of those. Persons that experience the heights and depths rather than those that travel an even path through life have my special interest. The former I find more colorful.

After those matches which were not important enough to be entered in the boxing records, I experienced the heights. I was captivated, and accordingly accepted the advice of my three mentors to box again one month later without much persuasion. My opponent was George Lahey, a tall, rugged, good-hitting middleweight from the Bronx. He had a large personal following, all of which seemed to be present that night offering their idol advice and encouragement.

In the first round Lahey landed a long right swing on my nose. The blood did not stop flowing until the end of the fifth round. Billy Joh, the official referee at the Fairmont, came over to my corner at the end of the third and fearing he was looking me over before making up his mind to stop the contest on account of loss of blood, I got up from my chair and said:

"Mr. Joh, please don't stop this fight. This blood is nothing. I will knock him out before the fight is over."

FAILS TO STOP LAHEY

Joh evidently was impressed, for he let the contest continue, and though I pummeled Lahey all over the ring in the sixth round, I was unable to knock him out.

Again I had added to my experience for, though losing the early part of the fight, I had turned the tide of battle and all but won by a knockout. This was interesting. It added to my knowledge of myself. Following this match, I had, for the first time, a real desire to go into the ring. I wanted to fight George Lahey again.

Meanwhile, I accepted an offer from Pop Kirk, who ran the new Polo A. A. at One Hundred and Twenty-ninth street and Park avenue. Often as I pass this building on my way to and from my home in Stamford, Conn., I think of that hot July night in 1916 when I pummeled K. O. Jaffee about the ring for 10 rounds to the delight of my many friends who had come up from Greenwich Village and from the offices of the Ocean Steamship Company. Some of the Greenwich Village boys had never been that far away from home before.

During the entire contest Jaffee landed but one blow. Contemplating this later, I began to believe that I must be quite a boxer, but could not be persuaded entirely to leave the peaceful pursuits of rate-clerk at the Ocean Steamship Company to follow the dubious profession of boxing. Though I thought in those days that I had a most desirable and lucrative position with the Ocean Steamship Company, I would not do the work now for $1,000 a week that I did in those days for $17. Anybody who thinks classifying freight, figuring the cheapest rates and railroad routes and watching changes in rates and classifications of the Interstate Commerce Commission is easy—well, I will recommend him for my old job.

TRAINS WITH GADDI

However, again the inevitable Billy Jacobs, who had just acquired Miner's Eighth Avenue Theater for one night a week to hold boxing matches, came to me the latter part of November and asked me to take a match at his new club to help get the people of the Village acquainted with the fact that he was then promoting at Miner's Theater. I told him I was interested in boxing no one but George Lahey and if he could get him I would box at his club. I felt I had an old score to settle with George.

Jacobs said:

"I can get him, but will you box another fellow for me if I do?"

I replied:

"If Lahey is surely one of the opponents I will box twice."

The bargain was made and shortly Lahey, who also seemed eager, and I found ourselves facing each other, in the ring, again. My reaction after the first contest proved accurate, for I knocked Lahey out in three rounds. I had a decided advantage this time, for I persuaded an old friend, John Gaddi, to help me train for the return match. Gaddi was then National amateur heavyweight champion and probably the most skillful and finished amateur that ever pulled on a glove. Every workout, all of which were in the evening, was a real scrap. I remember so clearly the enthusiasm with which we would look forward to our reward at the end of each evening. Ice cream never tasted so good. It was always a double portion, too.

HURT IN BASKETBALL

To finish my second part of the bargain I had to meet Young Guarini, of Hoboken, whom I knocked out in four rounds. I weighed 150 pounds for this bout, which took place on December 15, 1916. Guarini learned in the first round that he had over-matched himself and proceeded to try losing on a foul. I did not know about aluminum cups in those days and took the most awful pummeling around the groin for three rounds. Finally Mr. Guarini went down, where he remained for 10 seconds. He "retired."

I continued my basketball and other games and forgot about boxing for several months. In March of the following year, while I was jumping center for the club's basketball team, I injured my left elbow. For a long time the injury did not seem important, but later, as the pain increased and my left arm began to shrink in size, I went to see a doctor, who mistakenly put the elbow in a plaster cast for six weeks. The muscular atrophy continued and when the cast was removed my left arm was only half the size of my right. X-ray and fluoroscopic examinations were made but shed no light on the trouble.

On Monday Tunney will tell how his injured left arm delayed his war enlistment, how he served as a shore resort life saver during the summer of 1917, how he scored two quick knockouts despite the damaged "wing," and how a German physician finally cured it in time for Gene to join the United States Marines.

PIRATES LOOK FOR TRADES

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Empty-handed, yet without regrets, upon their return from the Columbus minor league sessions, Pirate officials today indicated that the impending major league gathering in New York might bear some fruit in the ways of deals.

To be on the ground early, President Bill Benswanger left today for the metropolis. The meetings proper do not get under way before Tuesday, but the annual get-together of the National League board of directors is set for tomorrow and Benswanger, holding a director's vote, wishes to be on hand.

Manager Gibson and Vice President Watters were in attendance at the Columbus pow wow. The pair had a series of conferences with other major league officials relative towards trades, but, as usual, there was no consummation of any deal.

Gibson and Watters plan to leave tomorrow for New York. With Benswanger, they plan to attend the annual dinner of the Brooklyn Chapter, Baseball Writers' Association of America, Monday night.

Soccer Cup Fray Tops Card Today

The National Amateur Cup game, featuring Valley Camp and the German Sport Club, heads the local soccer card this afternoon. The game is scheduled for Leslie Park.

Two games will be played in the Central League, Union Switch, the defending champion, meeting McKeesport, and the Westinghouse eleven facing Mt. Lebanon at Swissvale.

SCHOOL HEADS HOLD MEETING HERE TODAY

By JULIUS LEVIN

Basketball rules and expenses were the main topics up for discussion as the members of the Western Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic League, composed of 128 schools in this section of the state, gathered in the Fifth Avenue High School this morning.

Athletic authorities at the majority of the Western Pennsylvania high schools are determined that the referees reduce their fees for basketball and some action on this movement will be taken at the meeting today. The Western Pennsylvania Basketball Officials' Association has offered to reduce the fee from $10 to $8 and this proposal will be presented to the members for a vote.

Another important item before the W. P. I. A. L. members will be the elimination of the 10-second rule in basketball. Quite a number of the schools are opposed to this rule because many of the schools do not have suitable playing floors and this would prove an added handicap to the quintets.

Besides the questions involving the district schools, members will vote on six amendments to the P. I. A. A. constitution.

Reports from the various committees will be read by the chairmen.

John G. Hulton, of Latrobe, head of the football committee, will present a resume of the 1932 season. Other reports will be offered by George W. Cassler, of Coraopolis, basketball chairman; C. E. Glass, of Dormont, track chairman; W. C. Evans, of North Braddock, baseball chairman; W. W. Lantz, of Turtle Creek Union, social chairman, and H. W. Crane, of Monongahela, decisions committee chairman.

Whether or not the W. P. I. A. L. basketball champion, representative of Section VII of the P. I. A. A., will compete in the state eliminations, also will be up for disposal. Quite a number of the schools believe the state playoffs are an added burden to the W. P. I. A. L.

School Notes

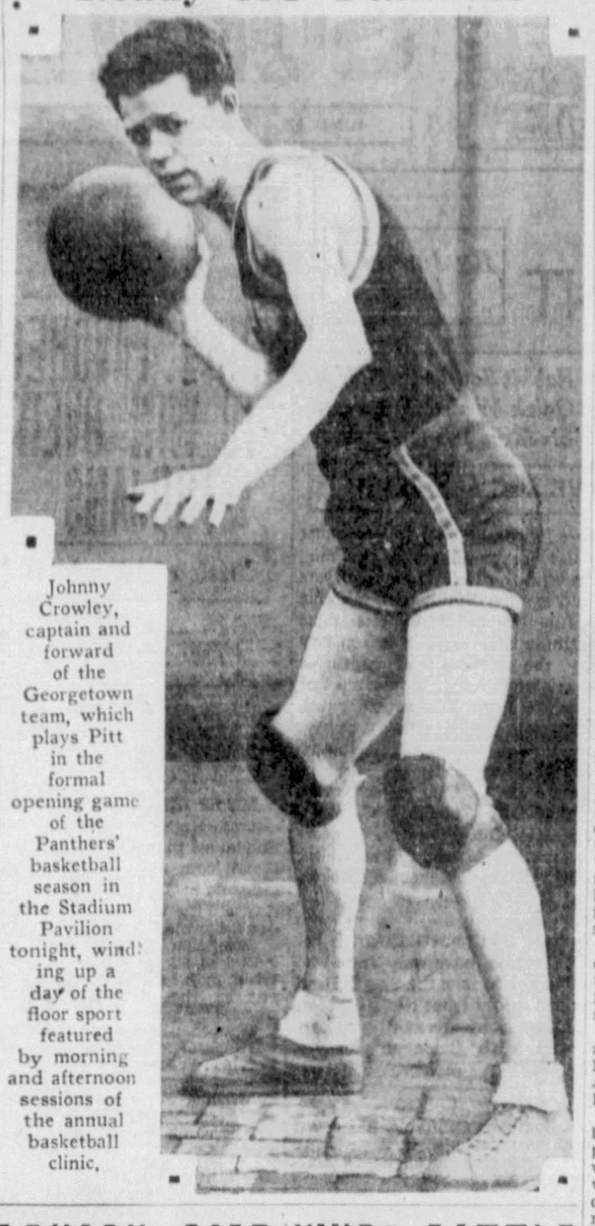
The Greensburg High School football squad will be honored at a banquet to be held Monday evening at Cozy Farm, near Greensburg. Three new schools have been added to the 1933 football card. They are Latrobe, Mt. Pleasant and McKeesport. Allegheny and Connellsville, met during the past season, have been dropped.

Only two lettermen are back for the Burgettstown Union basketball squad, according to Coach Roy Mann. Captain Paul Smith and Remmison Malone will play at forward and center, respectively.

The Carnegie High School basketball team is open for games on December 16 and February 17. Teams interested call Carnegie 262 and ask for Coach Adams.

The Donora High School Athletic Association will hold its annual football banquet in the St. John's Parish House at Donora next Tuesday. The Dragons are champions of the Monongahela Big Five.

Ready for Panthers



Johnny Crowley, captain and forward of the Georgetown team, which plays Pitt in the formal opening game of the Panthers' basketball season in the Stadium Pavilion tonight, winding up a day of the floor sport featured by morning and afternoon sessions of the annual basketball clinic.

Class B

No matches played to date.

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Class B squads taste first action of the season today as the secondary division of the Pittsburgh Squash Racquets Association inter-club circuit swings into action. Strong and well-balanced outfits, all boasting considerable new talent, are slated to represent the four contending organizations.

There is no change from the 1931-32 roster in the list of Class B team entries. P. A. A., the defending champion, must stave off the aspiring rushes of Edgeworth Club, Pittsburgh Golf Club, and the Keystone A. C. This afternoon's card ships the Winged Header's to the Golf Club and K. A. C. to Edgeworth. P. A. A., in encountering a Golfer host likely to be bolstered by addition of Barney Wolfe and Felix Snowden, approaches the threshold of trouble.

Meanwhile in the Class A competition, McCook Reed leads his crack young P. G. C. quintet against Dr. Dave O'Loughlin's titled P. A. A. performers' in the latters' bailiwick.

Reed, holder of local singles laurels, tops the Golf Club array with Joe Oliver and the Lockhart boys pretty certain to see action down the line. Dave O'Loughlin, Dr. Whitey Stegeman, Dr. John O'Loughlin, and Bill Hutchins are booked for the initial quarter of Winged Head posts, with the fifth job hanging fire among George Kepler, Jack Beatty and Rod Flannery.

Keystone A. C. rounds out the program by journeying to Sewickley for a toss-up affair with Dave Gilmore, Frank White, and company at Allegheny.

Alex Wilson Wins Canadian Award

OTTAWA, Dec. 10. — (AP.) — Alex Wilson, former middle distance track star at Notre Dame and a point winner for Canada in the 1932 Olympics, has been voted Canada's outstanding amateur athlete by the annual convention of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada.

Wilson finished second to Tom Hampson, of England, in the 800 meters at Los Angeles and third to Bill Carr and Ben Eastman in the 400 meters.

Babe's Physician Victim of Pneumonia

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Dr. Edward A. King, 44, official physician of the New York Yankees and personal physician of George H. (Babe) Ruth, is dead of pneumonia contracted while attending the Army-Notre Dame football game November 26. He died here yesterday.

Dr. King attended Ruth through his appendicitis attack last September which threatened to keep him out of the world series with the Chicago Cubs.

The body will be taken to Pittsburgh, city of his birth, tonight, with funeral and burial Monday. He was a graduate in medicine of the University of Pennsylvania, class of 1912.

VANGS BATTLE SHADY SIDE

Marking their 1932-1933 debut under the banner of the Pittsburgh Polo League, Shady Side Academy riders tonight clash with the Vangs at the Hunt Armory. Proceeds of the game will be turned over to the Mt. Vernon Seminary Alumni Association for the Knox School soup kitchen on the South Side.

Interest tonight will center around the Vangs' new No. 1 man, Lieut. Lucius D. Clay, West Pointer, upon whom they have pinned their trophy hopes. Clay is expected to replace George Vang at the head of the column in the second half.

The lineup:

Shady Side Acad.	Pos.	Vangs
Aaron	No. 1	Vang
McCahill	No. 2	Mazuzan
Drake	No. 3	Adams

At New York—Kid Chocolate, featherweight champion, defeated Fidel LaBarba, 15 rounds; Frank Battaglia defeated Chick Devlin, 10 rounds; Vidal Gregorio and Petey Hayes drew, 5 rounds; Sid Lampe and Paul Dazzo drew, 5 rounds; Lou Salica defeated Frankie Puccio, 5 rounds.

At Chicago—Primo Carnera defeated King Levinsky, 10 rounds; Young Terry defeated Young Stribling, 8 rounds; Maxie Levandowski knocked out Harold Scarney, 3 rounds; Les Marriner defeated Tony Cancela, 6 rounds; Texas Moore defeated Tommy Davenport, 6 rounds.

At Boston—Jim Maloney defeated Johnny Dixon, 10 rounds.

At Philadelphia—Young Joe Firpo defeated Joey Harrison, 10 rounds; Matty White defeated Jimmy Slack, 8 rounds.

At Detroit—Eddie Ran knocked out Ruhe Edmans, 5 rounds; Paulie Walker defeated Maurie Sherman, 10 rounds; Billy Marrone knocked out Johnny Jaeger, 7 rounds.

At Phoenix—John Henry Lewis knocked out Tuffy Dial, 4 rounds.

At San Diego, Cal.—Yearle Whitehead defeated Cowboy Charley Cobb, 10 rounds; Ernie Hood defeated Phil Tobias, 6 rounds.

At Hollywood—Bobby Pacho knocked out Eddie Volk, 2 rounds.

LEITHAM WINS, THOMAS GETS DECISION

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor

Bobby Leitham, the Canadian bantamweight boxing champion, long will have reason to remember his Pittsburgh debut.

Fighting at the Arena, on the North Side, last night, before probably the smallest crowd of the season there, he won six of the 10 rounds and held his own in two others against Jimmy Thomas, local Negro, and then saw the judges disagree and the referee's vote go against him in a fight which he had won hands down.

Leitham had entirely too much speed and class for Thomas, who was able to land effectively in only two rounds, the sixth and the last, both of which he won. He held his own in the first and fifth. In all of the others, Leitham, a strictly British type of boxer, who jabs or makes his opponent miss and counters, was maneuvering him out of position to such an extent that any rushing or swinging Jimmy was doing was all in vain.

BOBBY TOO FAST

In some of the rounds, Jimmy just simply couldn't find the Canadian except when Leitham occasionally stood still and slugged it out with him and got none the worse of the going at this style of milling. Bobby forced Jimmy to hold on several time after crossing sharp rights, notably in the seventh round.

Leitham fought with the handicap of slight cuts on both eyes the right being opened in the fourth round and the left in the sixth. There were no knockdowns.

Thomas weighed 119 pounds and Leitham 120. Judge L. F. Meininger voted for Leitham and Judge Frank Ferris and Referee Red Robinson for Thomas.

Davy Grove, of the North Side bested Anson Green, Negro 155-pounder, of Homestead, all of the way in the eight-round semi-final with the exception of a knockdown for a count of nine from a right to the jaw by Green in the seventh round, but the referee's decision in his favor was required when Judge Ferris called this bout a draw.

TWO TECHNICAL KAYOS

The first two events ended in technical knockouts. Referee Red Robinson stopped the second one late in the second round to save Davy Brown from further punishment by Nat Litfin, Hill featherweight. Brown was outclassed and had been floored twice, the first time being sent through the ropes. He insisted upon continuing and they resumed fighting after the referee had called a halt and walked to a neutral corner, but the melee was broken up at once.

Frank Sewinski, of Steubenville, substituting against General Burr, Aliquippa Negro, proved a novice and took such a bad beating that his seconds resigned for him after he returned to his corner at the end of the second round.

Between Rounds

Tony Herrera and Tony Falco both will arrive in town tomorrow for their 10-round main bout at Motor Square Garden, Monday night. They have been training in Chicago and New York, respectively, and will be handled by two veterans, their managers being Ray Alvis for Herrera and George Engel for Falco.

Amos (Bearcat) Jones, of the East End, will sub for Red Bruce against Johnny Davy Brown, of the South Side, in the opening bout, Monday night. It was planned at first to use Joey Speigal and Jacquette Elverilo in a substitute match.

The card of 10 four-round bouts making up the local talent show at the Arena on the North Side next Tuesday night has been completed, as follows: Eddie Zivic vs. U. S. Carpentier, Nate Litfin vs. Shorty Washko, Johnny Durso vs. Georgie Schlee, Bill Nichy vs. Bearcat Jones, Fritzie Zivic vs. Bill Crigean, Al Suscell vs. Steve Carson, Harry Sadowsky vs. K. O. Dougherty, Claire Repole vs. Sammy Burns, Sammy Paris vs. Young Lowstetter and Curley Klaas vs. Chuck Mullins.

Clippings from a Newark (O.) paper confirm Jackie Rodgers' contention that he wasn't knocked out there recently in his bout with Wilbur Chevalier, but was disqualified for coasting along midway in the bout. He hopes to be able to return to action in the local rings again shortly, saying his injured eye is showing rapid improvement under treatment.

It's the Greater Pittsburgh, and not Western Pennsylvania, championship amateur tournament that will be staged at McKeesport next Monday and Thursday nights.

Jimmy Belmont, Braddock welterweight, boxes the Alabama Kid in a 10-round bout at Dover, O., Thursday night.

PONZI LOOMS AS THREAT IN NATIONAL CUE TOURNAMENT

CHAMP, CARAS IN TIE FOR FIRST PLACE

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—When Andrew D'Alesandro's friends in West Philadelphia nicked him "Ponzi" a decade ago, little did they suspicion that within a few years he would be the outstanding challenger for Frank Greenleaf's national pocket billiard title.

Because he consistently took the boys into camp at Kelly pool, straight rail, call shot, or what have you, his friends started to call him Ponzi after the Bostonian whose name was being splashed in black ink in the newspapers about that time.

Today Ponzi, his real name so little known that the Billiard Association refuses to let him use it in tournament play, is a serious threat for Greenleaf's crown. In his two victories over Frank Taberski, former title-holder, and George Kelly, last year's runner-up, the popular little 28-year-old Italian has turned in the high run of 72 and the two best games of the tournament.

With his two victories, Ponzi is tied for second place with Erwin Rudolph, of Cleveland, and Pasquale Natalie, of Chicago.

Leading the field with three victories apiece are the defending champion, Greenleaf, and the 21-year-old sensation of the tournament, Jimmy Caras, of Wilmington, Del. Greenleaf turned in a 125 to 61 victory in 10 innings over Taberski yesterday, while Caras turned back the Kansas City veteran, Benny Allen, 125 to 86 in 11 innings. Ponzi's victory over Kelly was by a score of 125 to 15 in six frames.

Today's afternoon matches sent Natalie against James Mills, of San Jose, Cal., and Taberski against Walter Franklin, of Kansas City. Rudolph and Allen clash tonight.

TABLE TENNIS PLAY OPENS

First-round competition in the first annual Allegheny County table tennis tournament, sponsored by Gimbels, will get under way today, the first match being scheduled for 1 o'clock this afternoon.

The competition will be resumed Monday, with the final round slated for the latter part of next week. The pairings and starting times follow:

1:00—Frank Stafford vs. Thomas Dailey; H. Malhood vs. A. Rosenbloom; Dick Wetzel vs. James Thompson. 1:15—B. Robin vs. Paul J. Holyeck; Joseph Bowen vs. Frank Henderson; Joe V. Hartman vs. H. CRACK SCHOOL FIVES WIN

The district high school basketball teams are well started on their 1932-33 campaigns today following a full bill of fare last night.

Favorites came through generally in last night's encounters. Nate Lippe's promising Aliquippa quintet won its second important victory of the week, defeating Beaver Falls, 27 to 13. Fifth Avenue exhibited power in downing Bellevue, 35 to 18. South won an interesting game from Mt. Lebanon, 33-24. South Hills, expected to make a strong bid for City League title honors, gave Carl Glock's New Kensington passers a setback, 31 to 28.

In other games, Butler defeated Dubois, 27-24; Monessen downed Bentleyville, 42-20; Swissvale won over Duquesne, 19-16; Leetsdale upset Monaca, 30-11, and Braddock tripped Munhall, 51 to 23.

He was sick with a cold and attired in a dressing gown when this International News Photo Service picture was snapped in his Palo Alto home.

Navy Announces 1933 Grid Card

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 10.—(AP.)—A nine-game football schedule, opening with William and Mary and closing with Army, has been arranged by the United States Naval Academy for 1933.

Although all opponents have been definitely decided upon, Naval academy officials said they are unprepared to make a final announcement of dates and location of all games on the schedule.

After the game with William and Mary in Annapolis September 30, Navy meets Mercer in Annapolis October 7 and follows with Pittsburgh, in Pittsburgh, October 14. Then come Virginia, Pennsylvania, Notre Dame, Columbia and Princeton, in the order named.

The season comes to a close November 25 with the Army game.

McCourt Scores Win In Billiard Match

Charley McCourt had to rally to do it, but he came through.

The veteran billiardist defeated Billy Greenwood, 150 to 147, in their exhibition three-cushion billiard match, which was completed in the Ellis parlors last evening by taking the final block of the match, 53 to 47.

KEED DEFEATS LA BARBA IN CLOSE BOUT

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—There appeared no doubt today after one of the toughest 15 rounds of his career, that the ebony-hued kid from Cuba can take it.

In the twelfth round of a featherweight championship scrap in Madison Square Garden last night with Fidel LaBarba, little California Bulldog, Kid Chocolate looked to be on the way down or out under a terrific body battering. For a solid minute he took everything LaBarba shot at his mid-section, then to the astonishment of a crowd of 15,000 yelling fans, put on a flashing comeback.

Before this twelfth round, the most exciting and dramatic of the entire fight, was concluded, Chocolate had completely turned the tables. He had LaBarba groggy and weary under a two-fisted barrage to the head. He had weathered the stiffest blast of the fight with enough stamina to come back and keep the slight margin on points that appeared definitely his at the end of the match.

This rally and a closing flurry in the final round saved for Chocolate the recognition as champion that he holds in New York state but which otherwise is subject to dispute. It was so close, however, that it took the votes of the two judges, in Chocolate's favor, to decide the outcome. The referee, Willie Lewis, voted the contest a draw.

Although the Kid got the decision, Fidel got the plaudits. The crowd booed the verdict lustily.

Chocolate fought one of the gamest and best fights he has shown in New York against an experienced, rugged little puncher who kept up a steady drum fire to the Kid's body, with an occasional left hook to the Cuban's jaw. There were no knockdowns.

Chocolate landed the harder blows, specializing in a right uppercut, but he also was much wilder. LaBarba had the Negro missing like a schoolboy at many stages of the fight, but his own blows lacked finishing power.

MINORS AGREE TO FIX OWN PAY LIMITS

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Numerous player trades involving major and minor league teams were hanging fire today as magnates of both groups turned toward New York for the winter meeting of the big-time circuits which opens next week.

Though admitting deals are in the making, few of the owners were willing to discuss them publicly. It was known, however, that the Cleveland Indians were bidding high for Harley Boss, star first baseman, who played last season with Chattanooga, but who is owned by the Washington Senators.

Climaxing the last session of the thirty-first annual convention of the National Association of Professional Leagues yesterday was an agreement to permit Class AA leagues to fix their own salary limits. Around this question had centered the biggest battle of the convention.

The American Association and the International League both double A circuits, set $39,000 a year as the maximum salary expenditures for their teams. No limits were placed on club salary expenditures in the Pacific Coast League, however.

Limits on other classifications were fixed by unanimous consent of the magnates. Maximum monthly payrolls, including manager's salary, will be $4,250 in class A groups; $2,000 in class B; $1,800 in class C and $1,000 in class D. Player limits fixed were: Class AA, 18 men; class A, 16; B and C, 15, and class D, 14.

Judge William C. Bramham, of Durham, N. C., was elected president, and J. H. Farrell, of Auburn, N. Y., treasurer.

JIM MALONEY VICTOR

BOSTON, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Jimmy Maloney got his third comeback campaign off to a successful start last night by wading around the inexperienced Johnnny Dixon, former Boston College football captain, for a 10-round decision in the Boston Garden's feature contest.

Newman, Nisbet Get 4 Ratings During Season

By CHRISTY WALSH

Member All-American Board of Football. (Registered U. S. Patent Office.)

The names below make up the last list of All-America ratings for the 1932 football season. Each player mentioned will receive a Card of Merit, authorized by the All-America Board of football.

All America Ratings

The first ratings were published October 8, with 10 players receiving weekly mention since that date.

Newman, of Michigan, and Nisbet, of Washington, were the only ones to receive four citations. Summerfelt, of Army, and Cain, of Alabama, were mentioned three times.

In addition to the 100 names which already have received ratings, a large number of other outstanding players who rate All-America, will receive cards of merit following publication of the official All-America team in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph tomorrow.

The final week's ratings:

1—SUMMERFELT—Army. Rip Miller, Navy's head coach, says: "Summerfelt was one of the finest guards a Navy team ever met." He was a tremendous power on defense and rates All-America for the third time this season.

2—HARBOLD—Navy. Nobel Kizer, coach of undefeated Purdue (and brother-in-law of Rip Miller) rates Harbold as one of the finest centers he has seen this season. Against Army he not only was a power in the line but the best Navy man against the Army passes.

3—MAUNEY—South Carolina. With his team trailing undefeated Auburn by 13 points in the third quarter, this boy supplied the spark and the ball carrying that staved off defeat and eventually tied the game.

4—NOTT—Detroit. By passing and punting his team to victory in the fourth quarter against Loyola, this shifty halfback rates All-America by three separate football writers who scouted him.

5—BUCKLER—Army. He scored one touchdown against the Navy and his great passing made a second touchdown possible. Throughout the entire game the savage line-smashing and great end running of this Texas cadet stood out.

6—LA PRESTA—St. Louis University. Against Missouri, with his team trailing, this player ran back a kickoff 88 yards and followed with the point after goal. This was the turning point of the game, and, throughout, La Presta was the best man on the field.

7—CAIN—Alabama. In less than five minutes after the kickoff, Cain sprinted 70 yards and crossed St. Mary's goal to score the winning touchdown. The indomitable defense of Cain for the remainder of the game held the enemy scoreless.

8—ELY—Nebraska. Considered one of the three great centers of the entire season, this powerful Nebraskan played a great game against Southern Methodist, and Ralph Wagner, Omaha Bee-News, rates him very high.

9—SULKOSKY—Washington. This big plunging fullback from the Northwest twice crossed the goal line of U. C. L. A. and contributed a total of 13 points toward a Washington victory.

10—TRAVIS—Southern Methodist. Although playing on the losing end against a relentless foe, this Texas quarterback was the outstanding player on his team and rates All-America for his good judgment under fire.

Harman to Remain As Coach at Penn

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Denying reports that he would resign, Harvey J. Harman has announced that he will be on hand to coach football at the University of Pennsylvania in 1933.

Harvey made the announcement following the annual football banquet last night.

Roy Engle, "iron man" center who averaged 50 minutes in each game this season, was elected captain for 1933.

Theodore David Markle, veteran tackle on the Drexel football eleven, is the new captain-elect of the Engineers.

IRISH FIVE WINS

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Joe Voegele, junior center from Peoria, Ill., led Notre Dame to a 41-to-20 victory over Albion College last night in the opening game of the basketball season. Voegele scored 20 points, most of them on easy tip-in shots under the basket.

OPERA, FOOTBALL ⁞ Whiteman, Denny, Weems, Kemp Music ⁞ BROADCASTS TODAY

Irish-Trojan Grid Clash On Air

A broadcast in part of Verdi's opera, "Simon Boccanegra," which was presented for the first time in the United States last year and which opened the current season at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York, is on the air over an NBC-WJZ network including KDKA today beginning at 2:30 p. m. Lawrence Tibbett, celebrated American baritone who created the title role for the work's American premiere, again heads the cast. His appearance today is his first in the 1932-1933 NBC-Metropolitan Opera series.

Mr. Tibbett

Chicago's gala Carnival of Nations, with entertainers representing 25 nationalities participating, is listed for a half-hour on NBC-KDKA at 10 o'clock tonight. The Carnival, which, it is expected, will be attended by more than 20,000 spectators, is staged in the Chicago Stadium.

Play-by-play descriptions of the Notre Dame-University of Southern California game today are scheduled on KDKA and WWSW beginning at 4:45. Don Wilson and Don Thompson, NBC Pacific division sports announcers, report the game for KDKA, with "Pop" Warner coming to the microphone with his analysis of the classic between halves. The WWSW broadcast is a recreation of the game from telegraphic reports with Ed Sprague at the mike and Joe Sartory decoding the dots and dashes.

Program Pointers

Listeners have an opportunity to see their favorite WCAE entertainers in action when they present a series of programs lasting 2½ hours, including a one-hour broadcast over WCAE, tonight at Kaufmann's. Beginning at 6, the artists present continuous entertainment for shoppers until 8:30. From 6 to 6:30, the Concert Ensemble offers a program of holiday music on the balcony. Immediately following—from 6:30 to 7:30—is a presentation of dinner music by the String Ensemble under the direction of Ralph Federer. The broadcast, originating on the fourth floor and scheduled from 7:30 to 8:30, features a mixed quartet composed of Etta Cunningham, soprano; Edith White, contralto; Paul Gannon, tenor, and Ray Griffin, bass, and the Concert Orchestra under the direction of David Levin.

WILD CARGO :-: By FRANK BUCK With EDWARD ANTHONY

Buck's Assistant Punished When He Becomes Lazy And Inefficient

CHAPTER L.

I told Bill to turn in early and meet me on deck at daybreak the next morning, when we would get busy determining the shelter side of the ship and placing all specimens where they would have the maximum protection from the weather. My collection consisted of three elephants, four tigers, two leopards, two tapirs, three young orangs, six pythons, 300 monkeys of different varieties and about 7,000 birds, ranging all the way from finches to cranes. Everything was being carried as deck cargo and we had our work cut out for us to see that each cage and crate was put where it belonged. There is more to this business of properly locating live deck cargo than appears on the surface. Just as you think you've got an animal rightly placed you discover a bad backdraught and the cage has to be shifted to a spot where a bulkhead provides the needed protection.

The next morning Bill failed to report to help me with these tasks. He sent word up with a sailor that he was ill and would be unable to work that day. The mate kindly let me have the services of one of his crew and I got the job done without the aid of my workaway.

PRETENDS ILLNESS

From them on Bill became one of the completest mysteries I have ever known. Day after day he insisted that he was too sick to help me. When I dropped in to see how he was getting along I could see nothing in his appearance to indicate that he was really ill. Yet he insisted that he was too weak to get up, and arrangements were made to send his food to his cabin.

Needless to say, I was growing suspicious but I took no action until the night watchman tipped me off that Bill was making a practice of taking a midnight stroll and smoke on the aft deck. I decided to lay for him and catch him at it. I did one night after we had been out about five days.

I came up quietly behind my workaway and touched him on the shoulder. He gave a quick start and whirled around frightened.

"I thought you were too weak to get out of bed," I said.

"I'm trying out my legs," he stammered out. "This is my first time up since we sailed."

"With the exception of last night," I said, "and the night before that?"

"Who's been lying about me?" shouted Bill. "If I get hold of the dirty——"

"Keep your shirt on," I said, "and go to bed and get some rest. You'll need it. You're going to do a real day's work tomorrow." I left Bill with the announcement that he was expected to report at daybreak. There was much cage-cleaning to be done—and my specimens had to be watered and fed. And I planned to keep Bill good and busy with these tasks.

CARELESS WORK

Bill put in a day's work but he was sulky and sullen and it wasn't much fun having him around. He reported again the next day and went to work; but he was careless in everything he did. Having seen him operate efficiently that first day, I couldn't help knowing he was stalling and soldiering on the job.

First I had to cuss him out for his slovenly handling of the watering of my different specimens. He would remove a can from a cage and instead of pouring out the stale, mucky water at the bottom of the container he would simply add fresh water to the slops. All his work was like that. He acted like a man in a trance.

The third day Bill capped his inefficiency by letting two valuable specimens escape. In reaching for the feeding dish in a cage containing five fairy blue birds—those rare and valuable beauties from New Guinea—he left the door wide open, giving a pair of the birds a chance to fly off before I could slam the door shut.

The beautiful creatures headed straight out across the Pacific for some fancied destination. As they did so I couldn't help feeling that their real destination would be a watery grave; for it would not be long before, weak from battling the winds and with no means of securing food, they would succumb.

The mate, witnessing Bill's performance from the bridge, tore down to rebuke my workaway man. Then he sailed into me for picking up a waterfront bum and expecting him to work. I finally got the mate calmed down—he was an old friend with whom I had shipped several times—by reminding him that I had merely tried to help out our mutual friend, the consul-general.

GIVEN HARD JOB

After another day of Bill it became evident that I'd be much better off without him. By arrangement with the captain, the mate assigned a sailor to me as an assistant for the rest of the trip.

Part of the arrangement was to turn Bill over to the mate who kept my workaway busy chipping decks for the rest of the trip. There is no more disagreeable task aboard a cargo boat. It means squatting down on the iron deck and, with a chisel and a hammer, chipping off the dead paint until a clean surface remains (this is to be repainted as soon as the whole job of chipping is finished).

Day after day the mate kept my workaway plugging away at this messy job in the broiling sun. And that was the end of Bill, the strangest of all the animal fans I have ever encountered. Bill was not an ordinary bum trying to land a ride home. He really knew a good deal about animals, but he somehow couldn't keep from reverting back to hobo type. I could have made something out of that wretch if he had been willing to make an effort.

NEED OF RELIEF STILL GROWS

Father Cox, in a recent radio broadcast, said the campaign the Sun-Telegraph has inaugurated in behalf of his many welfare activities has made life much easier for him and also for the many who depend on him. He is getting more donations of money, food and clothing than before the campaign started, but even this increase does not meet the demands for help.

He says he needs shoes for men, women and children, warm clothing and food, and plenty of it. He asks the Sun-Telegraph to express his appreciation to readers who have already helped.

The subscription campaign the Sun-Telegraph has inaugurated for the Father Cox unemployment relief fund is meeting with gratifying success. Every subscription that comes in on the blank on this page brings to Father Cox a liberal cash commission.

SCHOOL HEADS RAP CRITICS

Chalfant borough school board have denied attempting to compel Chalfant pupils to attend East Pittsburgh High School instead of Turtle Creek High School.

Recently some taxpayers brought court action to oust five directors. Their answer, on file today, asserts that many of the complainants are delinquent in their taxes and that 64 per cent of the school taxes for 1932 is in arrears. It is also set forth that 42 per cent is owing for 1931 and 21 per cent for 1930.

It is pointed out that it costs more than $1,900 a month to send high school pupils to Turtle Creek, also that the balance owed Turtle Creek High School is $1,357. If this sum were paid in full the Chalfant board would be unable to maintain its own school, the answer said, asking that the ouster petition be dismissed.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 10.
To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Notre Dame is here. Notre Dame is here to carry on for Rockne. Wouldn't it be wonderful if we had political leaders who could leave ideals and systems that the young knew were fundamentally right. The difference the coach has spent a lifetime teaching co-operation. He knows what he wants. While the political candidate only knows that he wants 'em to vote for him. But from then on he is just guessing. Imagine a politician insnaring voters with "Give us one more vote boys, for the memory of dear old Senator Jasbo." "Aw, hooey. Who was old Senator Jasbo, and what did he ever do?" But Notre Dame will do it for Rockne as long as a football is blown up.

Yours, WILL.

Communion Services At Butler St. Church

The Rev. Samuel Hill, pastor of the Butler Street Methodist Episcopal Church, Fortieth and Butler streets, will conduct Communion Services at 11 a. m. tomorrow. At 8 p. m. he will speak on "What Jesus Said He Was," the sixth of a series of sermons on that subject.

Yale Prof Goes For 4 Per Cent; So Do Students

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Congress is now one large, bustling beer clinic. Prof. Henderson, of Yale, wants 4 per cent suds. This will put him on even terms with his students.

Rep. Stafford says the Supreme Court must judge if wine is intoxicating.

Sorry, Rep, but we'll take our decisions sober.

Frank Schwab, of Buffalo, brought along some samples of 5.2 beer.

He had only two bottles. Not enough to canvass the delegation.

Rep Celler exhibited a bottle of 11 per cent highballs. We hope they didn't meet in the Celler.

Matty Woll said a barrel of 3.2 would mean a tremendous reversal in psychology. Matty, we can get the same results with a small keg.

Well, Congress is improving. The boys are bringing their own now.

MARY FAITH

-:- Story of a Girl With Husband Who Wouldn't Grow Up -:-

By BEATRICE BURTON

CHAPTER III

"Well, he was gone all day, Mary Faith. He got up early in the morning and drove the car out of the yard before I was really awake. Why don't you ask him where he was all day and who was with him?—I'm only his mother, of course; but you have a right to know what he does with his time."

Mary Faith shook her head.

She had a fine contempt for women who did not trust the men they loved—women like Mrs. Dan Bassett whose husband was shipping clerk at Nesbit's . . . Dan Bassett never looked twice at any of the girls who worked in the building, but Mrs. Bassett gave him no peace. She was always popping in unexpectedly to see what he was doing and she kept the telephone wires hot on the nights when he worked late.

"I'll be no Mrs. Dan Bassett," thought Mary Faith firmly.

"I wouldn't want Kim to think I didn't trust him, Mrs. Farrell," she said. "And that's just what he would think if I started to cross-question him about things like that. I know he wants to marry me, and that's enough for me."

Mrs. Farrell blew out the match she held and tossed it under the stove where there were a dozen or so burnt matches. It flared up and she set her foot on it.

"He hasn't any business wanting to marry you or any other girl just yet!" she said violently. "He owes me a little comfort. Here we are, struggling to get along on what he makes down in that law office—and lo and behold! he waltzes in and says he's going to get married in two weeks! On what, I'd like to know! On what?"

MOTHER OBJECTS

"On his salary," Mary Faith replied, breaking eggs into the sizzling pan. "Sixty dollars a week is plenty of money for three people to live on comfortably. You and I can do every bit of work around in this flat. We don't even send the laundry out—"

"I don't know why he wants to get married anyway," Kim's mother went on, paying no attention to her. "I'm sure I don't."

"Everybody wants to get married sooner or later, I suppose," Mary Faith spoke as gently as she could.

"You want to, you mean!" Mrs. Farrell turned on her suddenly, her plump face full of color. "Kimberley doesn't want to get married. He knows he isn't making enough money to keep up two homes and he knows I won't be happy when he brings you here to mine. Besides that, he's running around."

She stopped talking as Kim pushed the door open and stepped into the kitchen. He had changed his coat for a brown velveteen smoking jacket and a pipe was gripped between his teeth.

"What's all the row about?" he asked mildly. "And how about a little chow for a hungry man instead of all this talk?"

His mother took a pitcher of cream from the top of the icebox and thrust it into Mary Faith's hands.

"Put that on the table. I'll watch the eggs, Mary Faith. And pour the water. The pitcher's on the sideboard."

CARELESS WOMAN

Mary Faith carried the pitcher into the dining room where a droplight with a yellow glass shade hung over the table. She set it down on a German silver tray that was flanked by a cut-glass vinegar cruet and a bottle of meat sauce.

"People can't call themselves poor who live as comfortably as this," she thought, glancing around the room. "Sixty dollars a week is a lot of money, if it's properly handled."

A German silver pitcher of water stood on the sideboard. When she picked it up she saw that it left a wet white ring on the polished wood. There were other faint white rings near it. No one could call Kim's mother a careful housekeeper, she found herself thinking as she began to fill the water glasses.

Suddenly there was a crash and a loud scream from the kitchen. After that there was a second of dead silence. And then Kim's voice calling her: "Mary Faith! Come here—hurry!"

Somehow his mother had managed to knock the coffee pot off the stove while she was taking the fried eggs from the pan. Streams of pale brown liquid were running down her arms and the front of her gray silk dress when Mary Faith opened the kitchen door.

The coffee pot lay on its side on the floor.

"My arms—oh, my poor arms," she was sobbing hysterically. "Oh, my arms—" She began to moan, rolling her large head from side to side.

Kim was trying to roll her sleeves back from her wrists.

"She's scalded herself," he said, "with that red-hot stuff—"

"It wasn't red-hot, thank goodness!" Mary Faith broke in. "She had set it on the fire just two minutes ago. It couldn't have been very hot. I was afraid she'd burn herself with the grease out of that pan. That would have been terrible . . . I'll get some baking soda. There's nothing like it for burns."

THREATENS TO LEAVE

She flung open the door of the untidy little cupboard above the sink. When she found the soda and swung around with the little blue box in her hands Mrs. Farrell was trying to push Kim away from her.

"No, you don't have to do anything for me!" she was telling him, her voice shrill and shaken with sobs. "You've heard what she said — that coffee wasn't hot. And you believe her! You think I screamed for nothing, I suppose, both of you!"

She flattened both her hands against his chest and freed herself from him.

"I want you to let me alone!" she cried, pushing past him on her way to the kitchen door.

She stopped there an instant, looking back at him with streaming eyes.

"This is the way things will always be now in this place—her word against mine! I tell you I won't stand it. I won't stay here! I'll go down to Lucy's and live there—" Her words were lost in a storm of loud sobs.

She slammed the door of the kitchen as she went out. Then after a half minute they heard the door of her bedroom slam.

Her face scarlet, Mary Faith bent over and picked up the coffee pot.

"Kim, you can feel it yourself," she said, holding it out to him. "It's warm, that's all. But I'm sorry I said anything about it. Only I was glad she wasn't badly burned . . . Do you think it would help matters if I went into her room and apologized to her?"

DARK PROSPECTS

Kim shook his blond head.

"Better let her alone," he said shortly.

He stood, leaning against the wall, and watched Mary Faith wipe up the puddle of the coffee from the floor with a damp gray rag that she found on a nail under the sink.

When she had finished she came close to him and took one of his hands in hers. She held it tight, twisting his big fingers around her slender ones.

"Kim, when we're married and I'm living here," she said, looking down at him, "things like this won't happen. I won't let them happen. I'll make your mother like me."

Kim gave a worried laugh.

"You'll have your troubles," he said, and then he added: "She'd be just like this with any girl I wanted to marry. It isn't you she dislikes . . . She just doesn't want me to get married."

Mary Faith knew that what he said was true.

Kim's mother had divorced his father when Kim was a little boy. With her alimony she had brought him up and educated him for the law. He had been, and still was, her whole life.

When Kim was 24 his father died and the alimony stopped. But by that time he had a position in the law offices of McIntrae & Westover in the City Bank Building downtown and was earning enough to keep himself and his mother.

He was still with McIntrae & Westover and he was making twice the salary that he had made when he started to work for them.

His mother was very proud of him. She didn't want to give him up.

She made no secret of the fact that she did not want Kim to marry for several years. She was ambitious for him and his career. Once or twice, in Mary Faith's presence, she had reminded him that "he travels the farthest who travels alone."

"Isn't it a funny thing that when two women love a man they almost always hate each other?" Mary Faith asked now, her hands on Kim's shoulders. "Not that I hate your mother. I could love her, because she's your mother, if she'd let me. . . . But she hates me, doesn't she?"

For answer he shrugged his shoulders. Then he turned away, emptied his tobacco into the sink strainer and dropped his pipe into his jacket pocket.

"My appetite's gone," he announced sullenly, "but I'll take you somewhere for a bite if you're hungry. There's the barbecue over on Fifth street and the tearoom down at the corner. Where do you want to go?"

"I don't want to eat if you don't," Mary Faith said quietly, shaking her head. "Please get my hat and coat—they're in your mother's room, Kim—and I'll go home. You stay here with her."

"No. I'll take you home."

They finally wound up, the two of them, by going back to Mrs. Puckett's and having their dinner there.

It was 8 o'clock by the time they got there and the dining room was almost empty. It seemed very cozy and peaceful with a coal fire burning in the grate and the hum of voices coming in to them from the parlor on the other side of the hall.

Synopsis

Mary Faith, young and comely fiancee of Kimberley Farrell, handsome blond youth, just out of law school, gives notice that she will leave her position as secretary to the wealthy Mark Nesbit to marry "Kim." Mary Faith receives a note from Kim's mother inviting her to dinner. Arriving late, due to Kim's delay, Mary Faith is greeted coolly by Mrs. Farrell. Kim is late and his mother insinuates he has other interests.

Now Go On

"She'd be just like this with any girl I wanted to marry," said Kim.

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

Several tons of "canned goods," which will go a long way in helping to alleviate the distress in the neighborhoods where the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Clubs meet, were donated today at the special "canned goods" matinees held in the 15 Warner theaters where the clubs meet.

All of this food was distributed to the local relief agencies this afternoon, and it's safe to say that many a home is much more happier tonight than it was this morning.

All of the foodstuffs collected at the Sheridan Square Theater this morning was immediately turned over to Father Cox, "father of the jobless," and some of it was served in his breadline this noon.

Now that the boy and girl members of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club have done their part towards helping the distressed, their older brothers and sisters and their mothers and fathers will have a chance to do their bit and at the same time enjoy a complete motion picture show just as they did today, when the Warner Theater, downtown, Pittsburgh, opens its doors tomorrow (Sunday) at 2 o'clock under the same arrangement.

GROCERIES 'TICKETS'

Admission will be a can of beans, can of soup, sack of flour, bag of potatoes, bacon, eggs, apples, oranges, or clothing, old or new. No money will be accepted and no tickets sold. Just hand to the "ticket taker" your contribution for the needy and you'll be admitted.

The show will be continuous from 2 until 11 p. m., tomorrow. Come any time and everyone is welcome. Here's a tip for the older folks: Do your shopping for the mammoth benefit today, because the stores will be closed tomorrow. So go out now and buy your can of beans, or sack of flour, or whatever you plan to present to the doorman today, so you won't have to rush around tomorrow looking for something which will admit you at the Warner theater.

The program will be as follows:

"Deception," featuring Leo Carrillo, Thelma Todd, Barbara Weeks, Nat Pendleton and Dickie Moore, will be the feature picture.

The comedies will be Harry Sweet in "Fire House Honeymoon" and Betty Boop in "In the Museum." Also the latest Newsreels.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAYS

Congratulations to the following boys and girls all members of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club who are celebrating their birthdays today:

Kenyon—Rita Seavers, Ernest Diana, James Heffley, Martin Queeney.

Manor—Marion Gordon, Florence Calig, Irwin Kurtz.

Etna-Harris—Morris Freidman, Edward Cochenour, Edward Lankenan.

South Hills — John Ruane, Marjorie Smythe, Nathella Gaover, Mary Loyise Walters, Rolla Miller.

Rowland—Marion Van Pool, Carol Wolff, Jack Sander, Charles Connor, Bob Krepps, Dorothy Wilber, Florence Williams.

Isn't It So?

The gossip doesn't pay any attention to notes—she talks by ear.

Any man can be a leading citizen if he can find a town small enough.

A man is lucky when he is able to cash in on other people's blunders.

Possession is nine points of the law, and self-possession is the other one.

It's the road hog, too, that leads the way back to prosperity for the undertaker.

Most of us try all the wrong ways before we submit to the right way of doing things.

Bugs Baer

The Bug Attends the Opera

What we like in our grand opera is that solo off stage is an absent contralto voice.

This habit dates back to the early days of opera when it took so long to button 'em up the back. No matter where you are you must start singing.

We took our winter innoculation of Metropolitan musical deficit last week. The play was something Spanish. The little cigaret girl falls in love with the toreador who certainly hurt the bull's throat.

We sat in the golden hoss shoe with the Goelets, the Vanderbilts and the Astors. The only difference in our social status was that we knew they were there.

We were allowed to perch in the golden hoss shoe after we promised we wouldn't steal the nails.

It was all very delightful as seen through a lorgnette. Practically a nudist colony from the waist up. The diamonds and jewels are worn to dazzle people of low breeding. When you see a million-carat-power dowager thundering around the curve you jump from the right-of-way.

One tall lady had a diamond necklace that made her look like an amusement park after dark. She turned her opera glasses on us like she was discovering the germ of yellow fever. Nobody paid any attention to the opera stars who are singing louder than ever this year. Otherwise, the audience would be magna vox and the actors would be tete-a-tete.

The Duchess of Soxdown sat in the next box with her newest husband whose ex-wife was two mule stalls away. They don't divorce each other in operatic society. They just exchange prisoners.

It was lovely and rustic. It was a wonder somebody didn't bring down a moose. At such short range you couldn't miss. There was an intermission of 15 minutes between acts to allow the hoss shoes to lower their chins.

The writer has a pair of diamond cufflinks. They were donated to him by the guest who had the same room the week before. Each diamond is about the size of a gnat on the wing. We were busy shooting our cuffs all evening, but the diamonds didn't attract any more attention than sox in a Pullman aisle. We were stalemated by the million-carat-power dowager, who looked like a slag heap in the Kimberly district.

Next week: The Barber of Seville.

WASHINGTON WHIRLIGIG . . . HOW LOBBYISTS WORK

Q.—What does the Candid camera show all you folksies today?

A.—It shows a lady and a gent and a bottle of Bevo and, oh! yes, a trim ankle if there ever was one.

Q.—Well what of it?

A.—Is that anyway to talk, when we are trying to teach you the facts of life?

Q.—Is that a fact?

A.—It certainly is. The pitcher shows one of the things what's wrong with this country. It shows how lobbyists are a gnawin' and a gnawin' at the very roots of the democracy, that's what it shows.

Q.—Come, come. Don't talk like that. You don't make sense.

A.—Let's not get personal! Can't you see that the lady Congressman is falling for a lot of phonus bollonus? The lobbyist flatters her by the laying on of hands and with the devil's brew, and then gits her to vote for an appropriation requiring laundries to mix old razor blades with their soap flakes. The lobbyist is just the paid jackal employed by the shirt makers.

Q.—I'm glad you are so frank with me. I've been stupid not to understand, so I could end it all with the ballot.

A.—Brother, you see it all, as in a dream. You are trembling like a leaf. Shake!

According to a magazine article, in 10 or 15 years the normal rate of speed for automobiles will be 100 miles per hour.

So the next time you meet a traffic judge, just tell him you are a pioneer.

* * *

And although the future looks bright for garage men, it looks tough for hitch hikers.

* * *

And when accosted by a speed cop you can just put on the brakes and skid into the next county.

Q.—I have never been to California, but plan to go there in January. Is it possible for a stranger to visit the picture studios and take part in social activities? Curious.

To Publish Assessments

Favoritism Will Not Be So Easy Under the New Plan—Brief Comment on Local News.

City Council has done a praiseworthy thing in voting to publish real estate tax assessments next year. Theoretically the assessments are open to the inspection of citizens, but few avail themselves of the privilege. Consequently there has been opportunity for favoritism on the part of the assessors. The opportunity will not be so good when lists of the assessments are printed.

Councilman Robert Garland is entitled to the credit for leadership in the movement for publication of tax assessments. He found that publication of the assessments in other cities had a beneficial effect. When every property owner can find without difficulty what every other piece of property in his neighborhood is assessed at, the assessors will be constrained to measure all with the same yardstick.

Director Edward G. Lang, of the Department of Public Works, stands out conspicuously among the city officials who have appeared before Council in connection with the preparation of the budget as the only one who has been willing to slash his requested appropriation deeply. The $830,000 cut that Lang has made in his estimate is a saving that the taxpayers will appreciate.

A nasty charge was made at the budget hearing yesterday in the statement that Republican ward chairmen supply the names of men employed in the public works which are being financed with the $2,000,000 bond issue voted by the people for the relief of the destitute. Under such a system the relief money can be used for partisan and political purposes, to coerce votes.

*A much better plan would be to permit the Wel*fare Department, in co-operation with the social service agencies, to select the men for the relief jobs. Mrs. Enoch Rauh, director of the department, has always shown excellent judgment in matters of this kind, and can be depended upon not to let political considerations influence her in philanthropic activities.

*The Prison Board, headed by Judge James Mac*farlane, has shown a regrettable attitude in withholding from the newspapers—that is, from the public, whose servants the Prison Board members are—information concerning the nature of the "unbecoming conduct" at the County Jail which has led to the dismissal of one guard and the suspension of another. The public is entitled to the facts of official transactions in public institutions.

The County Commissioners are reported to be considering the advisability of offering rewards, possibly as high as $500, for information leading to the conviction of election crooks. Their zeal to stop fraud does them credit. If the detection of the cheats can be effected in no other way, the reward plan is justified. The taxpayers will not be unwilling to pay to have the swindlers who would deprive them of the right of self-government sent to prison.

Compliments are due Oliver K. Eaton, counsel for the Senate Utilities Investigating Committee, for the valiant fight he is making in the face of discouraging developments. He has not received from the committee the support that he should have. Chairman William S. Rial did not help him at all at the Shelby injunction hearing in Uniontown yesterday; yet Eaton fights on.

*It is plain from the way in which people are talk*ing about the public debate that is to be staged in Carnegie Music Hall Monday night that strong opinions are held on both sides of the question if human personality survives the death of the body. Judge M. A. Musmanno is to argue in favor of survival, Clarence Darrow against it.

*It is noteworthy that some of our local clergy*men believe there is good evidence, apart from what religious revelation teaches, for the doctrine that the soul is immortal. While it is true that certain scientists, especially biologists and psychologists, are skeptical, there is a tendency to answer them after the manner of George Santayana, former professor of philosophy at Harvard.

Santayana says, in a sonnet circulated by the Council of Churches: "It is not wisdom to be only wise, and on the inward vision close the eyes; but it is wisdom to believe the heart. Columbus found a world, and had no chart save one that faith deciphered in the skies; to trust the soul's invincible surmise was all his science and his only art. Our knowledge is a torch of smoky pine that lights the pathway but one step ahead . . ."

Gov. Gifford Pinchot has given his support to a laudable plan in designating next week as "Christmas Home-Coming Week" for the purpose of persuading absent men and women, boys and girls, to return to their families for the holidays. Those who cannot return ought at least to send a Christmas present to each member of the family.

*The Pittsburgh Motor Club finds that Pennsyl*vania motorists paid an average of $43.60 per car in state and national taxes for the privilege of driving during 1932. This is an increase of $7.90 per car over last year's figures, the increase being due to the new federal taxes on gasoline, cars, tires and accessories. The figures constitute just one more reason why tax relief should be granted wherever possible.

Thoughtful persons who are also kind-hearted will not omit to put Christmas Seals on their holiday mail. The proceeds of the sale of the seals are devoted to the campaign against tuberculosis, and it is especially important, as Abraham Oseroff, head of Montefiore Hospital, says, that the public should support the work this year.

*Two remarkable photographs appear in the Gra*vure Section of tomorrow's issue of the Sunday Sun-Telegraph. They are pictures of fog scenes in Pittsburgh, made during the noon hour of a recent day when the downtown section was enveloped in a smoky haze. The old-time pictures of Pittsburgh on the "Remember?" page also will be found exceptionally interesting.

A thrilling serial, "Secrets of the Surete, the French Detective Police," starts in the American Weekly, to be issued as a supplement with the Sunday Sun-Telegraph. It is illustrated with photographs from official records. "The Remarkable Case of Mrs. Endt, Confessed Society Thief," is the subject of one of the numerous other interesting articles.

An Enthusiastic Audience

(Copyright, 1932.)

Lame Ducks, and Drys with flaming eyes
Ablaze with exultation—
They whoop with joy as they destroy
The mandate of a nation.
The ringing cheers of racketeers
Are rattling roof and rafter;
The bootleg boys express their joys
By doubling up with laughter.

The hi-jack crew breaks out anew
With roars of keen enjoyment.
Loudly they cheer for bootleg beer—
It keeps them in employment.
It helps the muggs, it helps the thugs,
It helps the pistol toters,
And there is fun for everyone
Except the nation's voters.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Why 'Marriage' Clicks

The surprising thing today, is that in spite of modern freedom, woman's independence and the easy divorce laws, most marriages DO "click," and go right on clicking from the altar to the grave.

* * *

Sometimes it is love which holds two people together; sometimes it is congeniality; and sometimes it is convenience or conventionality. When two lives have become intertwined, it is just too much trouble and exertion to untangle them! Of all the ties that bind; habit is the strongest.

* * *

Habit, convenience and community property are bonds between husband and wife which will outlive the rosiest romance and strengthen with the years.

Long after love or duty or public opinion has ceased to hold them, many a disillusioned pair jog along cheerfully side by side, without quite knowing why.

* * *

A little wire-haired terrier or a little motor car have held many a man and woman together until their marriage has jelled.

* * *

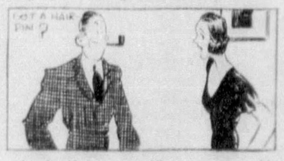
Who is going to have moral responsibility of deciding which shall have the custody of the pet Peke or the toy Bull? No impersonal judge can determine whether a man or his wife is more fit to bring up Mimi or Chou-Chou in the way it should go.

* * *

As for the car. A man NEEDS a car, a woman just can't get along without one. So there! The thought of giving up the dear old limosine has made many a woman think twice before filing the divorce papers. And any humane man shudders at the vision of turning over the helpless machine, which he has spent so many Sunday mornings keeping in perfect repair, to a woman.

* * *

Then, there is the radio. A woman needs it in the morning to work by. She gets positively addicted to running the vacuum cleaner by the rhythm of "Moanin' Low" or rattling the dishes to the notes of "Just Couldn't Say Good-Bye." She shudders to think how still and lonely the house would be without an announcer. And what mischief would a married man get into without a little radio to greet him in the evening? It's really a MORAL issue!



And, there are the community sandals, and the family shoe-horn and the bath-sponge you brought from the tropics. And his pen-knife, and her cold-cream; his warm, wooly bath-robe and her manicure scissors; his big, soft handkerchiefs for removing the make-up; and her hairpins for cleaning his pipe. You SEE how it is!

* * *

Who is going to dry his safety-razor, and fix his spinach and put his boots on the right trees and make him gargle his throat with aspirin? Who is going to bring in the evening papers and set the clock by his watch and take the dog for a walk and carve the fowl and mix the punch? Some other man? Some other woman? Perish the thought!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Here it is 3 a. m. and not a wink of sleep. It can't be my conscience. It's as clear as a bell. O well, I did fib a little at Lee Olwell's the other night about being in Russia before the war. But everybody else had been there. And I felt such a stay-at-home.

I've counted enough sheep to overrun Central Park. Just a second—I'll count my blessings. That's over. The big idea is to relax into drowsy dreaminess. Off into fathomless realms! Am I getting too fancy for you mugs? All that clock has to do is keep ticking and it goes out a window.

I'll prick its little bubble. Bubble, can you spare a dime? Maybe I'm out of my head. My brow feels fevered. And my feet like ice. Perhaps I'm undernourished. I might sneak out to the ice box and hoe into some of the left-over mashed potatoes. I know my trouble, I'm just mother's hungry boy.

Hark! Somewhere there's the tiny, feeble cry of a new life. And somewhere, the last thin gasp of death. Life, death, life, death—that's what the clock ticks. And who cares? I'm getting set for a swell cry. Then I'll have red, swollen eyes when Nina Ayres and Pauline Taylor come for breakfast.

I must fill my thoughts with sweetness, light and a bit of heigh-ho! I wonder if Harriet Hoctor would polka with me some time? I'm not bad except on turns and the knee bends. Irene Castle and I once waltzed to "Three O'Clock in the Morning" on the Majestic Roof. But that was 15 years ago.

* * *

Now, at 3 o'clock an another morning. I'm here like a wide-eyed goldfish—flat on my back. I hope that noisy basket finally puts that milk can down. He ought to know by this time the thing won't bounce. The scratch-pad quick! I have an idea. Rubber milk cans. If that isn't an invention, you think up one.

* * *

After all, some of the greatest inventive triumphs have been salvaged from catastrophic—manage that one sitting down—moments of life. Unable to sleep and like a stab of lightning in the darkened sky—The Great Idea. A rubber milk can! And no insomniac ever thought of it before. Well, it means yours truly kisses work good-bye. All these years I've been wearing myself to a whisper. All these years I have. I think I'll wake up my wife. No. I'll keep it and when the ladies come for breakfast, bound in and yell: "Surprise, surprise!"

* * *

Pretty fat to have a ship pull in just when you thought Fate was all out of them. But I had it coming. I've been a great guy. I've been swell. How grand the world! I must write the Peru government, if any, that I'm no longer mad. They can have the money for my bond with love and kisses. From now on I roll in royalties. Paris, London, Palm Beach, Venice! I'm not speaking to a lot of soandsos tomorrow. The working-clawss-es annoy me. Yesterday—lonely, forlorn, unwanted. A sleepless night, dawn and riding life at top gallant. But that's America!

* * *

I must skive off a hunk of sleep. One cannot fiddle with Nature. I'll count more sheep. I'll do it in German—ein, zwie, drei—now I'll switch to French—quatre, cinq. Why should I count sheep? I'll do nothing of the sort. I never cared for sheep any way, the wooly, bah-bahing old things. I'm going to count goats. And what a flock of goats I'll collect when news of my invention gets around. You know: "Now that he's in the smart money he's like the rest. Swelled head. I remember when he was just a columnist and not so hot. He's down to his level inventing milk cans. A wonder he didn't think up a new-fangled pitchfork."

* * *

I'm not one speck sleepy. But what's a night's sleep when you're viewing the world from the bosun's chair? I used to stretch out on my back and touch the headboard of the bed with my toes. That was rather good! Now I'll touch my ears! Oooch. I'll not do that any more. I broke the string in my pajamas and my side hurts. Maybe I can fall asleep. With my invention, my financial worries are over. I feel myself slip-p-p-ing aw—

* * *

Well I got an hour's sleep any way. It must have been 4 a. m. when I dropped off. The clock just struck 5. Like fun. It's 5 in the afternoon. Where is everybody? I feel sappy. What was that nutty idea I had about rubber milk cans? Of all the crazies!

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Strange,
How I'm made!
Half mystic
And half mutt!
My eyes
Upon the stars;
My feet
Deep in the mud;
Wanting them both—
Both stars and mud—
Thinking they both
Are swell!

One moment lying,
And the next
I'd die for Truth!
One moment kind,
Big hearted,
Understanding, loyal;
The next, as tricky
As the devil
And as cruel
As hell!

Queer,
How a soul
Can be split up
Like that—
Part God,
Part Scallywag.

It's queer
It's inconvenient, too:
Because you're never sure
Which part
Is on the job!

Just when you think
You're set to act
The saint,
Something inside
Goes flop—
And there you are,
A slob!

Yet other times,
When you don't care
A hoot how you behave,
When you've about decided
To let go and be
A common tramp,
Why, something in you
Leaps up like a flame,
And all the muck
In you is burned away,
And, for a flash,
You're tall and clean
And strong.

It used
To get me once—
To be like that.
I used to hate myself;
Hate life—
My pride was hurt.

I felt I'd been Betrayed by God,
Who'd made me
Such a mess,
What was life worth
If one were flawed
Like that?
So strong, yet weak?
Philosopher,
And fool?

Yes, once,
Because I could not
Be the perfect
Thing I wished,
I hated life—
But now I know
That flawed lives, too,
Are good,
And serve a purpose
In God's kindly plan.

For only those Who've lied, can feel
A liar's shame;
And only cowards
Know the bitter blame
Cowards must face;
And only those Who've failed
Can understand
The fear of failure,
Or the burden
Of defeat.

So—
Through my weakness
I possess the key
To every heart
That's sad,
Or shamed,
Or soiled;
And through my blunders
I've found tolerance
And pity,
In the place
Of my lost pride.

So, God,
I'm glad you made me
As I am—
Mystic and mutt;
Philosopher and fool;
My eyes
Upon the stars,
My feet in mud,
For I have learned
Flawed lives
Can serve You well,
And I have found
Both stars and mud
Are swell!

Text for Today

When my father and my mother forsake me, then the Lord will take me up.—Psalms, xvii:10.

The Repeal Vote; Einstein; Russia

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

The afternoon the word flashed from Washington that the Garner resolution for the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment had been defeated by a narrow margin of six votes it was amazing to note the expression of disillusionment and disappointment on the faces of people who had not analyzed the meaning of the vote.

There was every reason for jubilation. Few of the disappointed and "disillusioned" recalled the vote in the same House a few months ago. Had they done so they would have been jubilant over the enormous accession to the ranks of the liberals.

Few stopped to inquire regarding the personnel of the votes against repeal. Had they done so they would have found that 69 were men who have been repudiated by their constituents and on this very issue, and that within three months these 69 will trail back into the obscurity of private life to make way for 69 liberals who will vote next time for the repeal. And only six votes lacking now—with all these discredited lame ducks voting against repeal!

* * *

National Prohibition Is Doomed

Most of these lame ducks, as we predicted, voted against the mandate of the nation in retaliation for their defeat and thereby justified their retirement. The major part of the vote against repeal came from the Republicans. With the House almost evenly divided between the two parties, 100 of the 144 votes against repeal were cast by the Republicans. Sixty-nine were cast by men the people have just thrown into the uttermost darkness of defeat. Of the 44 Democrats who voted against repeal, 11 will not sit in the next House.

New York is notoriously for repeal, and yet but four Republicans from that state voted for it; eight voted against it. Thus, as far as the politicians are concerned, the New York Republicans stood pat for prohibition. But Snell, of New York, the Republican leader in the House, who will continue as leader in the new House which comes in three months hence, voted with Garner.

Thus the vote this week gives positive assurance that within three months we shall have a House which will vote overwhelmingly for repeal. National prohibition is doomed and damned now. The vote this week was the digging of the grave; the burial will come very soon.

* * *

The Victory Is Won

The Democrats in the recent campaign made no pledge to the people that a repeal resolution would be adopted before the party entered upon its mandate in March; it could not make such a pledge.

That makes all the more impressive the leadership assumed by the Democratic leaders in pushing a repeal resolution under existing congressional conditions. Speaker Garner forced a repeal vote the very first day of the session. The resolution was offered from the floor by Representative Rainey, the Democratic leader. All of which means that the public has the assurance that the party voted into power is determined to make good on its pledge to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment. It will make good on the modification of the Volstead act to permit the manufacture and sale of beer with a tax upon it. That may come during the present session. If not now, in the spring, in an extra session, when the Democracy will have the power and the votes.

Thus there was no occasion for the long faces seen after the House vote on Monday. The victory is won; that vote, properly analyzed, proves it beyond all question.

Einstein and the State Department

Meanwhile, in its twilight, the State Department of the present Administration has made America ridiculous by its incredible treatment of Albert Einstein, one of the most famous scientists in the world. This distinguished man had been invited to America to deliver some lectures. He had accepted. Some busy-bodies, hearing that he had an open mind on communism, protested to the State Department against his admission as a visitor. Such a protest against the admission of such a personage should have been thrown into the waste basket.

But not so.

Einstein applied to the American consulate in Berlin for a visa. When one of the most distinguished and respected men of the world appeared he was subjected to questioning. What "activities" did he propose to indulge in when in America? Was he going to visit "friends or what?" What organization did he belong to? And finally the point was reached.

"What party do you belong to or sympathize with?"

"Are you a Communist or an Anarchist?"

And then, being a self-respecting man, the great scientist gave the proper answer:

"I don't propose to answer such silly questions. I didn't ask to go to America. Your countrymen invited me; yes, begged me. If I am to enter your country as a suspect, I don't want to go at all. If you don't want to give me a visa please say so, then I'll know where I stand. But don't ask me humiliating questions."

The visa has been granted; but Einstein has been given a kick by the representative of the American Government which reflects no credit upon it.

No Reason to Fear The Russian Experiment

The time has come for America to assume a realist's attitude toward Russia. If the Russians want Communism that is their business and not ours; if we prefer democracy and our own governmental forms, that is our business, not theirs. And the recent election reduced to an absurdity the wild fear that our own people are communistically inclined. Under the existing economic conditions, with millions jobless, and millions hungry, the Communist party in the recent election polled an absurdly small vote. We have no reason to fear the Russian experiment; not unless our own system completely collapses because of our failure to institute necessary reforms. We have just voted in favor of reforms.

Years have come and gone since the Soviet Government was firmly established in Moscow. There is no sound reason, no reason other than a silly fear, for our failure to face realities and recognize the new Russia. The recognition of Russia no more means an acceptance of communism than the recognition of Italy means an acceptance of fascism. It merely means in both cases a recognition of realities.

Russia today offers one of the richest markets; she wants to buy from us; we have treated her as our special enemy and the result has been a great decrease in our trade with her. Meanwhile other nations, quite as hostile to Communism as we are, have accorded her recognition, and are getting the benefit of her trade.

The most effective weapon with which to fight Communism here is prosperity; prosperity depends on trade; tariffs have wrecked our trade with other nations; Russia wants to trade with us, and thus contribute to the restoration of prosperity here; and when Russia buys, she pays. This is the testimony of our industrialists.

Isn't it about time to end the silly business in which we have been engaged, to recognize Russia, and invite her trade?

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Today Alone

Today alone; God make me know
My pleadings need no farther go.
This is my need of strength and trust
To lift my spirit from the dust.

Today alone; God, let me see
This is enough of ecstasy,
Enough of courage and of faith
To rout the fears that rend like death.

Today alone, the well-loved task,
What need for future work to ask?
To give my best 'ere this sun sets,
So I shall have no vain regrets!

To pray, to love, to laugh, to dream
Today alone, while time's vast stream
Still bears me swiftly on my way;
God, grant me this, today, today!

WHAT DO YOU KNOW?

By S. H. Connolly

From what Shakespearean play does each quotation come:

1. "Will all great Neptune's ocean wash this blood Clean from my hand?"
2. "How sweet the moonlight sleeps upon this bank!"
3. "Good name in man and women, dear my Lord Is the immediate jewel of their souls."
4. "To hold, as 'twere, the mirror up to nature."
5. "This was the noblest Roman of them all."

Do you know:

6. What book did the adventures of Alexander Selkirk inspire?
7. What was Tasmania formerly called?
8. In what state is Mt. Hood?
9. Who composed "The Meistersingers?"
10. What is pathology?
11. What is a dipthong?
12. What is the term "ghetto" applied to?
13. What is a lariat used for?
14. What is the distinguishing characteristic of a Manx cat?
15. What religious order originated in the United States?

Answers to today's tests:

1. "Macbeth." 2. "Merchant of Venice." 3. "Othello." 4. "Hamlet." 5. "Julius Caesar." 6. "Robinson Crusoe," by Defoe. 7. Van Diemen's Land. 8. Oregon. 9. Wagner. 10. Science which studies the changes made in the human body by disease. 11. A union of two vowels to form a compound sound. 12. A quarter where Jews live in greatest numbers. 13. Catching cattle. 14. Rudimentary tail. 15. Paulist Fathers.
